Costa Rica Reports Invasion

Russia Agrees To Free Third American

Reds Seized Pvt. Verdine 5 Years Ago

Soviets To Release Soldier At Berlin On Date Not Yet Set

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP)—The United States announced today that Russia has agreed to release Pvt. William Verdine of Starks, La., the last of three Americans held for years inside the Soviet Union.

State Department press officer Henry Suydam said Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov notified the U. S. Embassy at Moscow late this afternoon that Verdine would be turned over to American authorities at Berlin. The date will be set later.

Pair Released Saturday

Two other Americans, Pvt. William C. Marchuk, 30, of Norristown Pa., and John H. Noble, 31, of Detroit, were released by the Russians last Saturday at Berlin.

Noble had been in a Russian prison for 9½ years. Marchuk and Verdine, 28, were picked up by the Russians five years ago.

Suydam told newsmen the Russian note today was "perfectly straight-forward, brief, dealing with this one subject."

He said there was no mention whatever in the note about 11 Soviet children now in West Germany and New York.

Soviet Demand Considered

When the Russians notified the U. S. Embassy last Dec. 31 that Marchuk and Noble would be freed, the note renewed a Soviet demand for the children. However, surrender of the children was not made a condition to release of the two Americans.

Eight of the children are in West Germany. Three others are the children of a Russian Armenian who returned to his native land in 1947, leaving them in a New York welfare home. The New York Supreme Court has ruled they should be allowed to remain in the United States, where they were born.

Suydam said the Russian demand for these children is still "under consideration."

Slaying Leaves Two Motherless

Near tears, Nelson Cheney, 28, talks to his children, Gayle, 6, and Jimmy, 8, before he was jailed at Detroit yesterday in the slaying of his wife, Florence, 28. Detective Raymond Brewington said Cheney admitted shooting his wife because he thought she had been too friendly with a man with whom she worked. Jimmy witnessed the shooting, Brewington said.

Case Move Fails To Oust M'Carthy From Committee

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP)—Republican senators divided up their minority seats on Senate committees today in a closed meeting which saw defeat of an effort to deprive Sen. McCarthy of his place on the Government Operations Committee.

Clifford Case, the new GOP senator from New Jersey who has been a critic of McCarthy, said he moved to strike the Wisconsin senator's name.

Sen. Bricker of Ohio, presiding, ruled Case was out of order on grounds that McCarthy had seniority for the post. Case told reporters: "There wasn't really any debate at all ... for me to pursue the matter at this time would not be fruitful."

Three Posts For McCarthy

In fact, McCarthy wound up being one of only five Republicans allowed to hold three committee jobs—Appropriations, Rules and Government Operations. The other four with more than two committees are Langer of North Dakota, Jenner of Indiana, Mundt of South Dakota and Mrs. Smith of Maine.

In other actions at today's meeting of the conference of all Republican senators:

1. The party's Senate Policy Committee was enlarged from 12 members to 23, almost half the GOP strength of 47 senators. It was an apparent move to avoid controversy within the party and Sen. Millikin, of Colorado, the GOP conference chairman, said smilingly: "If we have any factions, it covers all I know about, if I know of any."

New Campaign Committee Head

2. Sen. Goldwater of Arizona was selected to be chairman of the 1956 Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee. He succeeds Sen. Dirksen of Illinois who will be up for reelection in 1956. Goldwater voted against censure of McCarthy in last fall's special session but supported President Eisenhower against McCarthy's subsequent charge that Eisenhower had shown weakness against communism.

McCarthy's Home Guarded Following Telephoned Threat

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP)—Police posted a guard about the home of Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) today after his next door neighbor reported she had received a telephoned warning that, "We are going to blow up Joe McCarthy tonight."

Reporters talked to the neighbor, Mrs. George W. Ennis, after friends of McCarthy told the newsmen of the phone call.

Mrs. Ennis' home at No. 18, 3rd St., N. E., adjoins McCarthy's in a row of houses joined together.

McCarthy said he believed the warning came from "some crackpot."

French, Italian Leaders Confer

ROME, Jan. 11 (AP) — French Premier Pierre Mendes-France spelled out his European arms pool project at a long conference tonight with Italian government leaders. They reached agreement also on immigration problems and a joint economic policy in North Africa.

At the conclusion, Foreign Minister Gaetano Martino, with Premier Mario Scelba by his side, said the three conferees had devoted most of the time to a "discussion of the future of Western Europe, with particular emphasis on the arms pool plan, and other supranational organizations."

"We already have reached agreement," Martino added, "on minor subjects, such as immigration and joint policy in Africa. We will make final decisions during a plenary session tomorrow."

Replying to a newsman's question, the foreign minister said the meeting in historic Villa Madama overlooking Rome had not concerned itself with any decision on the advisability of proposing that the Big Three Western powers meet with Russia to discuss the future of Germany.

Ike Urges Boost In Federal Pay, Postal Rate Hike

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP) — President Eisenhower asked Congress today to give 1½ million government workers an average pay increase of about five per cent. The cost was estimated at more than 339 million dollars a year.

In two special messages sent to Capitol Hill, he also recommended a hike in postal rates to foot part of the bill and that the government contribute 55 million dollars a year to a new health insurance program for federal employes.

The Senate's majority leader, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex), announced immediately he favored a raise for government workers but that he questioned the advisability of increasing postal rates. This appeared to be the view of many members of Congress.

Vetoed Similar Bill In 1954

A major aim of the administration's plan, the President said, is to bring average government pay and benefits more into line with standards prevailing in private industry.

Eisenhower vetoed a similar pay raise last August because the bill passed by Congress failed to provide revenue, including higher postal rates, to meet the increases and because he said it did not correct existing "inequities" in pay rates.

But he promised at that time to send another recommendation to Congress this year, including a program of increased benefits for members of the armed forces. A special message on the armed forces will be sent from the White House on Thursday.

Postal Clerks "Disappointed"

Some of the first reaction to the President's proposals came today from the National Federation of Post Office Clerks, which said the recommendations for postal employes was "a serious disappointment," and "so small as to be of little real help."

The President recommended:

1. An increase of about five per cent in the payroll for classified civil service workers, distributing an additional 202 million dollars a year among about one million workers.

2. Pay raises totaling 129 million dollars annually for nearly half a million mailmen and other postal workers.

3. Creation of a health insurance program which would cover about half a million federal employes.

Alaska-Bound Paratroopers Survive Crash

37 'Chute To Safety From Flying Boxcar; Two Airmen Missing

SEWART AIR FORCE BASE, Tenn., Jan. 11 (AP)—Thirty-four paratroopers and three Air Force crewmen, headed for Alaskan maneuvers, parachuted to safety here today when their C119 Flying Boxcar crashed and burned after takeoff. Two airmen were still missing four hours later.

The troops aboard were members of the 503rd Airborne Infantry Rgt. from Ft. Campbell, Ky., the same outfit involved when 33 soldiers parachuted safely to earth as their plane made a forced landing near Miles City, Mont., earlier today. Eighty Boxcars are engaged in "Operation Snowbird", taking off at 30-minute intervals in an airlift of 3,050 troops from Ft Campbell for the joint winter meneuvers.

Report Pilot Stayed Aboard

In the crash here the pilot, who held his crippled plane on a straight course for the emergency bail-out, was reported to have stayed with the craft as it plummeted to the ground moments later. But there was no official confirmation of this.

One paratrooper was admitted to the base hospital with very minor injuries, officials said. They identified him as Pfc. Richard L. Dalton. His home town was unavailable.

30-Second Bailout

Second Lt. James Reynolds, Melbourne, Fla., platoon leader of the infantrymen aboard, gave this account of the bailout:

"We had just climbed above the overcast when the crew chief came out of the cockpit and told us to get ready to jump. Then he went back into the cockpit a minute, came back out and said,'Bail out! An engine is on fire; we're feathering the props."

He said the men, who apparently thought it was a drill at first, followed briefing instructions exactly and barely 30 seconds later the passenger compartment of the huge plane was empty.

Jury Deliberates Fate Of Hormel

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 11 (AP)—A jury today began deliberating the fate of George (Geordie) Hormel, meat packing heir on trial on charges of possessing marijuana.

Minutes after the jury retired the defendant's mother, Mrs. Jay C. Hormel of Austin, Minn., broke into tears and slumped in her seat in the courtroom where she has been a daily observer.

Smelling salts were administered and she was led from the room by H. H. Corey, also of Austin, president of the Hormel Co.

The jurors—one was dismissed early in the trial for discussing the case with a neighbor—retired at 2:36 p.m. PST after the deputy district attorney prosecuting the case told them:

"Everybody was out of step but Hormel," in the defense's conduct of the case.

Defense attorneys had accused a leading prosecution witness of being a "liar."

After deliberating two hours jurors announced they had not reached a verdict. They were sent to a hotel for the night and will resume their deliberations tomorrow morning.

Rockefeller Sets Up Big Theological Fund

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 (AP)—John D. Rockefeller Jr. today set aside a 20-million-dollar fund to "strengthen and develop Protestant theological education in the United States."

The gift probably is the largest single grant ever made for purposes of religious training.

Rockefeller turned the huge amount, in securities, over to a philanthropic agency to administer.

Specific purposes for which the money will go was not indicated, but it presumably would be used in strengthening and expanding the programs of the nation's theological schools.

Rockefeller about a year ago made a million-dollar donation to Harvard University for its divinity school.

Hammarskjold Aide Says Headway Made

U.N. Official Denies Secretary's Mission To Peiping Failure

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Jan. 11 (AP)—One of Dag Hammarskjold's top aides declared today the U.N. secretary general has made progress toward freeing 11 American airmen imprisoned as spies in Red China.

"Give it a little time," he advised.

Meanwhile, an Iron Curtain country diplomat was reported to be telling other U. N. delegates he had information that the fliers would be released soon. He was said to have told one colleague that the men probably would be released in two groups, first those considered to be secondary figures in the alleged espionage, and later those regarded as the leaders.

Denies Mission Failed

Commenting on reports that Hammarskjold's carefully planned mission had failed, the U. N. official, a spokesman for Hammarskjold, said:

"The secretary general has not failed. He has made progress toward the goal set for him by the General Assembly. He was asked by the General Assembly to 'make, by the means most appropriate in his judgment, continuing and unremitting efforts' for the release of the 11 fliers and other United Nations Command personnel still detained.

"The talks in Peiping were 'useful' toward this end. They established a basis upon which further progress can be made."

Secretary In Hong Kong

The spokesman made the statement with the understanding his name would not be used. He said his statement was based upon the communique issued yesterday by Hammarskjold and Red China's Chou En-lai, at the end of their talks, and upon additional confidential information received from the secretary general.

Hammarskjold is en route home and reached Hong Kong today. He goes from there to Tokyo, whence a U. S. Air Force plane will be placed at his disposal for the flight to New York. He is due back here Thursday or Friday.

Clay Commission Proposes Costly Roads Program

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP)—President Eisenhower's Highway Commission proposed today that the federal government contribute 25 billion dollars toward a strategic network of highways. This would be part of an overall 10-year 101-billion dollar build-up of the nation's roads.

Part of the strategic network—the states would be asked for 2 billion of its cost—would use existing routes; part would be new construction. The 101 billions for the whole plan would come in varying amounts from federal, state and local governments.

Clay Heads Commission

The ambitious program, which calls for setting up a federal highway corporation, was put forth in a report handed the President by the commission head, Gen. Lucius D. Clay.

Clay told reporters the program wouldn't add a cent to the national debt and wouldn't require any additional taxes. He said income from the 2-cents-a-gallon federal gasoline tax would more than pay for the government's share of the build-up. The Federal Highway Corporation would arrange for financing by issuing bonds which would not be carried on the books as part of the national debt.

Federal Share 30%

The federal share in the over-all highway program would go up from the present 9 per cent to 30 per cent.

Eisenhower is due to submit his highway program to Congress on Jan. 27. He is expected to follow pretty closely the line of reasoning of the commission.

Its major proposal involves shifting nearly all the financial responsibility for an interstate highway network to the federal government.

3,000 Turks Flee Flood

EDIRNE, Turkey, Jan. 11 (AP)—Flood waters washed away more than 50 homes and inundated 750 others today at Edirne, near the Bulgarian border. More than 3,000 people were homeless.

Grable Kicks Back At Dior's Knocking Of Knee Exposure

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 11 (AP)—Betty Grable, owner of a world-famed pair of knees, today kicked back at Christian Dior's knocking of knee exposure with this:

"My knees have supported me for a long time. I haven't had any complaints yet from a bank or a fan."

Paris designer Dior came out against knees and elbows yesterday. He told the American Women's Club of Paris: "The knee is the ugliest spot in a woman's anatomy."

Knees, he said, should stay covered. Elbows shouldn't be emphasized by sleeves ending just above them because: "as a general rule, bones are never a pretty sight."

Suhr W. Berlin Mayor

BERLIN, Jan. 11 (AP)—Dr. Otto Suhr, 60, a Socialist, was elected mayor of Soviet-surrounded West Berlin today.

The City Parliament voted 104-18 in favor of Suhr. He succeeds Dr. Walther Schreiber, a Christian Democrat who has held office since Oct. 22, 1953.

Light Planes Land Forces; Towns Seized

Nicaragua Accused Of Aggression; OAS Investigation Set

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Jan. 11 (AP)—Costa Rica said today airborne armed forces have seized several north Costa Rican towns and advanced on a direct invasion route to this capital city.

The government later charged "active aggression" on the part of Nicaragua, and said it expects "to receive military aid" from the nations of this hemisphere to "repel forces of invasion."

Costa Rica's available armed manpower was quickly mobilized. Officials said a break in relations between Costa Rica and neighboring Nicaragua appeared imminent.

Nicaragua countered with a statement saying the charges were foolish.

Costa Rican President Jose Figueres said Villa Quesada, a town of 3,500 about 40 miles this side of the Nicaraguan frontier, was seized this morning by a force that landed there in light planes. This was the first reported incident.

Maj. Roberto Fernandez, of the headquarters staff of the Civil Guard, said a detachment sent from San Jose made contact with the rebel group.

OAS Orders Investigation

He said an observation plane sent over the area returned bearing bullet holes and reported scattered rifle and small arms fire. There was no estimate of the size of the force at Villa Quesada.

Foreign Minister Mario Esquivel cabled the Organizatin of American States in Washington in regard to expectations of aid and said Costa Rica "hopes for military assistance."

The OAS ordered an investigation in Costa Rica and Nicaragua.

At Managua, the Nicaraguan Foreign Ministry issued a statement asserting, "It is foolish to say that Nicaraguan revolutionaries or forces proceeding from Nicaragua have taken Villa Quezada."

The statement said the area separating Villa Quesada from the Nicaraguan border is "almost an impenetrable jungle. . . To move revolutionary forces from Nicaragua to Villa Quesada is absurd."

One source here said a force moved out of San Jose last night in trucks and cars and began an uprising against the Figueres government.

Aside from the report of the firing on the observation plane, there were no accounts of actual fighting.

Break In Relations Reported

(At the United Nations in New York, the Rev. Benjamin Nunez, Costa Rican delegate, said after a telephone talk with Figueres that diplomatic relations had been broken with Nicaragua. Nunez said "enemy forces" had crossed the border from Nicaragua and a battle was presumed to be in progress. He asserted the attackers were backed by Costa Rican Communists.)

Reports here said the force at Villa Quesada might possibly be combined Nicaraguans and Costa Rican exiles opposed to Figueres. Communications with the town were cut and there were no reports on any fighting or casualties. A detachment under command of the minister of public works, Francisco Orlich, was sent to establish contact with the force.

Col. Rodolfo Quiros, chief of staff of the Civil Guard, said the country was quiet elsewhere.

He said reports from the mayor-police chief in the town of Zarcero, near Quesada, told that Quesada had been seized this morning. Both towns are near the Nicaraguan border and are accessible by land and by the navigable San Carlos River.

"Dragnet" Star Weds Actress

CHICAGO, Jan. 11 (AP)—Television detective Jack Webb, 34, and actress Dorothy Towne, 25, exchanged marriage vows in the penthouse of a swank, North Side hotel today.

Webb, known for his poker-faced composure as Sgt. Joe Friday on the "Dragnet" show, said he was so nervous before the ceremony he cut himself slightly while shaving.

The ceremony, held in the penthouse apartment of James Hart, president of the Ambassador East Hotel, took 10 minutes for Superior Judge Henry L. Berman to perform.

A harp provided music for the ritual and a large wedding cake, decorated with two small, trench-coated figures, stood in a corner of the room.

Only a few close friends attended the ceremonies. "Dragnet" writer, Dick Breen, was best man. The bride's maid-of-honor was Jacqueline Tomblin, a long-time friend of Miss Towne's.

Son Succeeds Late Fla. Congressman

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 11 (AP)—Paul G. Rogers, 33-year-old West Palm Beach attorney, was elected today to succeed his late father, Dwight L. Rogers, as congressman from Florida's 6th District.

Unofficial returns from 212 of the 217 precincts in the district in today's special election gave Rogers, a Democrat, a commanding margin of 29,094 to 21,147 for his Republican opponent, J. Herbert Burke of Hollywood.

Rogers' father, who had represented the 11-county district in Congress since it was created in 1944, died last Dec. 1. He had been re-elected without opposition in November.

McKeldin Suspends Brice In Aftermath To Duck Case

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 11 (AP)—Arthur H. Brice, Maryland's chief conservation official who forfeited collateral on charges of violating duck-hunting regulations, was stripped of his duties at least temporarily today.

Gov. McKeldin named John P. Tawes acting chairman of the Board of Natural Resources and the Tidewater Fisheries Commission, replacing Brice as head of both agencies.

Tawes has served as a member of the fisheries commission, which is an affiliate of the natural resources board.

The governor's decision left the door open to Brice's possible return to the posts.

He said Tawes would serve "at least" until he could confer with Brice about the duck-hunting incident which led to his arrest Dec. 30.

Brice was reported unable to meet with McKeldin for a discussion of the case because of illness which confined him to bed.

Brice was among 15 hunters who forfeited collateral in Kent County magistrate's court last night after being arrested on charges of breaking duck-hunting rules.

The resources board chairman was accused of shooting from an illegally baited duck blind and exceeding the limit of four ducks per day per hunter.

He had posted $90.90 collateral, forfeiture of which closed the court books on the case.

With Brice at the time was Amos S. Creighton, commander of the fisheries commission's fleet of patrol boats who also forfeited collateral on the same charges.

Creighton is employed under the State merit system and cannot be removed from office without a formal hearing before the State commissioner of personnel.

Chessman Granted Fifth Execution Stay

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 11 (AP)—Caryl Chessman, author-convict today received another stay of execution—his fifth. He was to have died next Friday.

The reprieve was granted by Chief Judge William Denman of the U. S. 9th Circuit Court of Appeals.

He has been in death row 6½ years. He was convicted of kidnap and attempted rape.

Judge Denman said he felt that Chessman has a probable cause of appeal. He directed Warden Harley O. Teets of San Quentin not to execute the condemned man on Friday.

Enraged By Pranks, College Student Slays "Tormentor"

SWARTHMORE, Pa., Jan. 11 (AP)—A 22-year-old Swarthmore College student flashed a light into a dark dormitory room early today, spotlighted a fellow student and then fired a fatal rifle bullet through the sleeping youth's head in a fit of rage over a series of practical jokes.

This quiet little Quaker college community awoke with a start to what police said was its first murder since the borough was incorporated in 1893. Delaware County detectives arrested Robert Bechtel, a scholarship student from Pottstown, Pa., for the slaying of Francis Holmes Strozier, 19, Akron, O.

Detective Earl Allen said Betchtel, son of Helen Bechtel, a divorced waitress, will be charged with murder.

Allen said Bechtel told him he was enraged over pranks other students played on him and was determined to get even.

The detective said Bechtel felt Strozier was a ringleader of the tormentors.

"I felt they were persecuting me," he told police.

Bechtel, who was the student proctor in charge of the third floor of an ivy-covered dormitory in the center of the Swarthmore campus, said students had refused to respect his orders. He said they set fire to paper in waste baskets, rolled a 16-pound shotput ball down the long hall to bang into his door, set off acetylene bombs and firecrackers and dumped his bed in the hall, apparently in retaliation for the strict discipline he sought to maintain.

U.S., Pakistan Sign Economic Aid Pact

Finance Minister Chaudhri Mohammed Ali signed the pact for the Karachi government and U.S. Ambassador Horace A. Hildreth represented the United States.

The 60-million-dollar grant is part of a U.S. aid program giving Patkistan a total of 110 million dollars in economic assistance. The plan was announced in Washington last Oct. 21. Under it, Pakistan also will receive 40 million dollars worth of U.S. farm surplus goods, five million dollars in technical aid and another five million dollars in emergency flood aid.

(At the United Nations in New York, the Rev. Benjamin Nunez, Costa Rican delegate, said after a telephone talk with Figueres that diplomatic relations had been broken with Nicaragua. Nunez said "enemy forces" had crossed the border from Nicaragua and a battle was presumed to be in progress. He asserted the attackers were backed by Costa Rican Communists.)

Reports here said the force at Villa Quesada might possibly be combined Nicaraguans and Costa Rican exiles opposed to Figueres. Communications with the town were cut and there were no reports on any fighting or casualties. A detachment under command of the minister of public works, Francisco Orlich, was sent to establish contact with the force.

Col. Rodolfo Quiros, chief of staff of the Civil Guard, said the country was quiet elsewhere.

He said reports from the mayor-police chief in the town of Zarcero, near Quesada, told that Quesada had been seized this morning. Both towns are near the Nicaraguan border and are accessible by land and by the navigable San Carlos River.

Case Move Fails To Oust M'Carthy From Committee

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP)—Republican senators divided up their minority seats on Senate committees today in a closed meeting which saw defeat of an effort to deprive Sen. McCarthy of his place on the Government Operations Committee.

Clifford Case, the new GOP senator from New Jersey who has been a critic of McCarthy, said he moved to strike the Wisconsin senator's name.

Sen. Bricker of Ohio, presiding, ruled Case was out of order on grounds that McCarthy had seniority for the post. Case told reporters: "There wasn't really any debate at all . . . for me to pursue the matter at this time would not be fruitful."

Three Posts For McCarthy

In fact, McCarthy wound up being one of only five Republicans allowed to hold three committee jobs—Appropriations, Rules and Government Operations. The other four with more than two committees are Langer of North Dakota, Jenner of Indiana, Mundt of South Dakota and Mrs. Smith of Maine.

In other actions at today's meeting of the conference of all Republican senators:

1. The party's Senate Policy Committee was enlarged from 12 members to 23, almost half the GOP strength of 47 senators. It was an apparent move to avoid controversy within the party and Sen. Millikin, of Colorado, the GOP conference chairman, said smilingly: "If we have any factions, it covers all I know about, if I know of any."

New Campaign Committee Head

2. Sen. Goldwater of Arizona was selected to be chairman of the 1956 Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee. He succeeds Sen. Dirksen of Illinois who will be up for reelection in 1956. Goldwater voted against censure of McCarthy in last fall's special session but supported President Eisenhower against McCarthy's subsequent charge that Eisenhower had shown weakness against communism.

McCarthy's Home Guarded Following Telephoned Threat

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP) — Police posted a guard about the home of Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) today after his next door neighbor reported she had received a telephoned warning that, "We are going to blow up Joe McCarthy tonight."

Reporters talked to the neighbor, Mrs. George W. Ennis, after friends of McCarthy told the newsmen of the phone call.

Mrs. Ennis' home at No. 18, 3rd St., N. E., adjoins McCarthy's in a row of houses joined together.

McCarthy said he believed the warning came from "some crackpot."

French, Italian Leaders Confer

ROME, Jan. 11 (AP) — French Premier Pierre Mendes-France spelled out his European arms pool project at a long conference tonight with Italian government leaders. They reached agreement also on immigration problems and a joint economic policy in North Africa.

At the conclusion, Foreign Minister Gaetano Martino, with Premier Mario Scelba by his side, said the three conferees had devoted most of the time to a "discussion of the future of Western Europe, with particular emphasis on the arms pool plan, and other supranational organizations."

"We already have reached agreement," Martino added, "on minor subjects, such as immigration and joint policy in Africa. We will make final decisions during a plenary session tomorrow."

Replying to a newsman's question, the foreign minister said the meeting in historic Villa Madama overlooking Rome had not concerned itself with any decision on the advisability of proposing that the Big Three Western powers meet with Russia to discuss the future of Germany.

Ike Urges Boost In Federal Pay, Postal Rate Hike

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP) — President Eisenhower asked Congress today to give 1½ million government workers an average pay increase of about five per cent. The cost was estimated at more than 339 million dollars a year.

In two special messages sent to Capitol Hill, he also recommended a hike in postal rates to foot part of the bill and that the government contribute 55 million dollars a year to a new health insurance program for federal employes.

The Senate's majority leader, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex), announced immediately he favored a raise for government workers but that he questioned the advisability of increasing postal rates. This appeared to be the view of many members of Congress.

Vetoed Similar Bill In 1954

A major aim of the administration's plan, the President said, is to bring average government pay and benefits more into line with standards prevailing in private industry.

Eisenhower vetoed a similar pay raise last August because the bill passed by Congress failed to provide revenue, including higher postal rates, to meet the increases and because he said it did not correct existing "inequities" in pay rates.

But he promised at that time to send another recommendation to Congress this year, including a program of increased benefits for members of the armed forces. A special message on the armed forces will be sent from the White House on Thursday.

Postal Clerks "Disappointed"

Some of the first reaction to the President's proposals came today from the National Federation of Post Office Clerks, which said the recommendations for postal employes was "a serious disappointment," and "so small as to be of little real help."

The President recommended:

1. An increase of about five per cent in the payroll for classified civil service workers, distributing an additional 202 million dollars a year among about one million workers.

2. Pay raises totaling 129 million dollars annually for nearly half a million mailmen and other postal workers.

3. Creation of a health insurance program which would cover about half a million federal employes.

Jury Deliberates Fate Of Hormel

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 11 (AP)—A jury today began deliberating the fate of George (Geordie) Hormel, meat packing heir on trial on charges of possessing marijuana.

Minutes after the jury retired the defendant's mother, Mrs. Jay C. Hormel of Austin, Minn., broke into tears and slumped in her seat in the courtroom where she has been a daily observer.

Smelling salts were administered and she was led from the room by H. H. Corey, also of Austin, president of the Hormel Co.

The jurors—one was dismissed early in the trial for discussing the case with a neighbor—retired at 2:36 p.m. PST after the deputy district attorney prosecuting the case told them:

"Everybody was out of step but Hormel," in the defense's conduct of the case.

Defense attorneys had accused a leading prosecution witness of being a "liar."

After deliberating two hours jurors announced they had not reached a verdict. They were sent to a hotel for the night and will resume their deliberations tomorrow morning.

Clay Commission Proposes Costly Roads Program

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP)—President Eisenhower's Highway Commission proposed today that the federal government contribute 25 billion dollars toward a strategic network of highways. This would be part of an overall 10-year 101-billion dollar build-up of the nation's roads.

Part of the strategic network—the states would be asked for 2 billion of its cost—would use existing routes; part would be new construction. The 101 billions for the whole plan would come in varying amounts from federal, state and local governments.

Clay Heads Commission

The ambitious program, which calls for setting up a federal highway corporation, was put forth in a report handed the President by the commission head, Gen. Lucius D. Clay.

Clay told reporters the program wouldn't add a cent to the national debt and wouldn't require any additional taxes. He said income from the 2-cents-a-gallon federal gasoline tax would more than pay for the government's share of the build-up. The Federal Highway Corporation would arrange for financing by issuing bonds which would not be carried on the books as part of the national debt.

Federal Share 30%

The federal share in the over-all highway program would go up from the present 9 per cent to 30 per cent.

Eisenhower is due to submit his highway program to Congress on Jan. 27. He is expected to follow pretty closely the line of reasoning of the commission.

Its major proposal involves shifting nearly all the financial responsibility for an interstate highway network to the federal government.

Grable Kicks Back At Dior's Knocking Of Knee Exposure

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 11 (AP)—Betty Grable, owner of a world-famed pair of knees, today kicked back at Christian Dior's knocking of knee exposure with this:

"My knees have supported me for a long time. I haven't had any complaints yet from a bank or a fan."

Paris designer Dior came out against knees and elbows yesterday. He told the American Women's Club of Paris: "The knee is the ugliest spot in a woman's anatomy."

Knees, he said, should stay covered. Elbows shouldn't be emphasized by sleeves ending just above them because: "as a general rule, bones are never a pretty sight."

Suhr W. Berlin Mayor

BERLIN, Jan. 11 (AP)—Dr. Otto Suhr, 60, a Socialist, was elected mayor of Soviet-surrounded West Berlin today.

The City Parliament voted 104-18 in favor of Suhr. He succeeds Dr. Walther Schreiber, a Christian Democrat who has held office since Oct. 22, 1953.

"Dragnet" Star Weds Actress

CHICAGO, Jan. 11 (AP)—Television detective Jack Webb, 34, and actress Dorothy Towne, 25, exchanged marriage vows in the penthouse of a swank, North Side hotel today.

Webb, known for his poker-faced composure as Sgt. Joe Friday on the "Dragnet" show, said he was so nervous before the ceremony he cut himself slightly while shaving.

The ceremony, held in the penthouse apartment of James Hart, president of the Ambassador East Hotel, took 10 minutes for Superior Judge Henry L. Berman to perform.

A harp provided music for the ritual and a large wedding cake, decorated with two small, trench-coated figures, stood in a corner of the room.

Only a few close friends attended the ceremonies. "Dragnet" writer, Dick Breen, was best man. The bride's maid-of-honor was Jacqueline Tomblin, a long-time friend of Miss Towne's.

Son Succeeds Late Fla. Congressman

Unofficial returns from 212 of the 217 precincts in the district in today's special election gave Rogers, a Democrat, a commanding margin of 29,094 to 21,147 for his Republican opponent, J. Herbert Burke of Hollywood.

Rogers' father, who had represented the 11-county district in Congress since it was created in 1944, died last Dec. 1. He had been re-elected without opposition in November.

McKeldin Suspends Brice In Aftermath To Duck Case

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 11 (AP)—Arthur H. Brice, Maryland's chief conservation official who forfeited collateral on charges of violating duck-hunting regulations, was stripped of his duties at least temporarily today.

Gov. McKeldin named John P. Tawes acting chairman of the Board of Natural Resources and the Tidewater Fisheries Commission, replacing Brice as head of both agencies.

Tawes has served as a member of the fisheries commission, which is an affiliate of the natural resources board.

He said Tawes would serve "at least" until he could confer with Brice about the duck-hunting incident which led to his arrest Dec. 30.

Brice was reported unable to meet with McKeldin for a discussion of the case because of illness which confined him to bed.

Brice was among 15 hunters who forfeited collateral in Kent County magistrate's court last night after being arrested on charges of breaking duck-hunting rules.

The resources board chairman was accused of shooting from an illegally baited duck blind and exceeding the limit of four ducks per day per hunter.

He had posted $90.90 collateral, forfeiture of which closed the court books on the case.

With Brice at the time was Amos S. Creighton, commander of the fisheries commission's fleet of patrol boats who also forfeited collateral on the same charges.

Creighton is employed under the State merit system and cannot be removed from office without a formal hearing before the State commissioner of personnel.

Chessman Granted Fifth Execution Stay

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 11 (AP)—Caryl Chessman, author-convict today received another stay of execution—his fifth. He was to have died next Friday.

The reprieve was granted by Chief Judge William Denman of the U. S. 9th Circuit Court of Appeals.

He has been in death row 6½ years. He was convicted of kidnap and attempted rape.

Judge Denman said he felt that Chessman has a probable cause of appeal. He directed Warden Harley O. Teets of San Quentin not to execute the condemned man on Friday.

Rockefeller Sets Up Big Theological Fund

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 (AP)—John D. Rockefeller Jr. today set aside a 20-million-dollar fund to "strengthen and develop Protestant theological education in the United States."

The gift probably is the largest single grant ever made for purposes of religious training.

Rockefeller turned the huge amount, in securities, over to a philanthropic agency to administer.

Specific purposes for which the money will go was not indicated, but it presumably would be used in strengthening and expanding the programs of the nation's theological schools.

Rockefeller about a year ago made a million-dollar donation to Harvard University for its divinity school.

3,000 Turks Flee Flood

EDIRNE, Turkey, Jan. 11 (AP)—Flood waters washed away more than 50 homes and inundated 750 others today at Edirne, near the Bulgarian border. More than 3,000 people were homeless.

Enraged By Pranks, College Student Slays "Tormentor"

SWARTHMORE, Pa., Jan. 11 (AP)—A 22-year-old Swarthmore College student flashed a light into a dark dormitory room early today, spotlighted a fellow student and then fired a fatal rifle bullet through the sleeping youth's head in a fit of rage over a series of practical jokes.

This quiet little Quaker college community awoke with a start to what police said was its first murder since the borough was incorporated in 1893. Delaware County detectives arrested Robert Bechtel, a scholarship student from Pottstown, Pa., for the slaying of Francis Holmes Strozier, 19, Akron, O.

Detective Earl Allen said Bechtel, son of Helen Bechtel, a divorced waitress, will be charged with murder.

Allen said Bechtel told him he was enraged over pranks other students played on him and was determined to get even.

The detective said Bechtel felt Strozier was a ringleader of the tormentors.

"I felt they were persecuting me," he told police.

Bechtel, who was the student proctor in charge of the third floor of an ivy-covered dormitory in the center of the Swarthmore campus, said students had refused to respect his orders. He said they set fire to paper in waste baskets, rolled a 16-pound shotput ball down the long hall to bang into his door, set off acetylene bombs and firecrackers and dumped his bed in the hall, apparently in retaliation for the strict discipline he sought to maintain.

U.S., Pakistan Sign Economic Aid Pact

KARACHI, Pakistan, Jan. 11 (AP)—The United States and Pakistan signed an agreement here today giving Pakistan 60 million dollars worth of economic aid.

Finance Minister Chaudhri Mohammed Ali signed the pact for the Karachi government and U.S. Ambassador Horace A. Hildreth represented the United States.

The 60-million-dollar grant is part of a U.S. aid program giving Patkistan a total of 110 million dollars in economic assistance. The plan was announced in Washington last Oct. 21. Under it, Pakistan also will receive 40 million dollars worth of U.S. farm surplus goods, five million dollars in technical aid and another five million dollars in emergency flood aid.

Freed American Believes Russians Hold U. S. Fliers

Tells Of Revolt In Labor Camp

BERLIN, Jan. 11 (AP)—A Detroit man back from slavery in the Soviet Union expressed the belief today that eight American fliers shot down off Europe in 1950 may be alive in Soviet prison camps.

The Detroiter, John H. Noble, 31, spent 9½ years in Soviet captivity. As a prisoner at the Vorkuta slave labor camp he witnessed the 1953 revolt there. He said the slave laborers need "only a spark" to flare into open rebellion. He declared the forced labor brigades are restless, have rebelled in the past and are likely to do so again.

Noble added he had been told at Vorkuta that the American airmen were held in a Soviet prison. He called it common knowledge at Vorkuta that some Americans who came down in the Baltic Sea were in captivity.

A U. S. Navy Privateer, a four-engine plane, disappeared over the Baltic in April 1950, with 10 men. The U. S. government in notes to Moscow contended the crew apparently had managed to ditch safely because two partly inflated liferafts were found. The Soviets would concede only that they had fired upon an American bomber of the B29 type which, they contended, violated Communist territory.

Noble was released by the Russians here last Saturday along with Pvt. William C. Marchuk of Norristown, Pa. They had met a third American, Pvt. William Verdine of Starks, La., at Vorkuta. The Soviet Union informed the United States today that Verdine also will be released.

Marchuk now is in Army detention, facing a possible court martial for being absent without leave.

"He told me he got picked up in the Soviet sector (of Berlin) while drunk," Noble said.

Noble described to newsmen his four years in the notorious camp at Vorkuta in Arctic Russia, where the temperatures once hit 72 degrees below zero, and added quietly he lived through his ordeal only because of "confidence in God."

Noble said 100,000 men were involved in a strike which set off the giant rebellion at Vorkuta in July 1953. He said 110 inmates were shot on the spot, and 50 or 60 executed later. Another 500 inmates were wounded in the first minutes of the blowup.

Noble gave these added details:

The strike in the coal mines—there are at least 50 in the area—and on construction projects was organized by followers of L. P. Beria, deposed police chief who was executed later by a Red Army firing squad.

Some of the secret police guards at the camp were part of the organization fomenting the rebellion. The aim was to stir up open revolt throughout the Soviet Union and overthrow the Malenkov regime.

In general terms, without giving such detail, the Malenkov government charged Beria with seeking to usurp power when he was brought before a military tribunal and sentenced to death.

The Malenkov machinery went into swift action when the strike broke out. Special teams of MVD (secret police) guards were rushed in and opened fire on the rebellious prisoners.

Noble said he managed to keep out of the melee. The strike and revolt was concentrated mostly above ground. He was employed in the coal mines.

They are holding Freckles, the family cat, which is credited with saving the family of five when fire destroyed their home. According to Mr. Long, Freckles kept leaping on his bed and pawing his wife until they awoke and saw the fire. All five got out safely but didn't have time to save any belongings.

Kremlin Treaty Threat Touched Off War Scare

PARIS, Jan. 11 (AP)—Diplomatic sources here said today there was a yearend war scare among the Russian people, at least those in Moscow. They reported it now appears to be subsiding.

Reports filtering back to Paris through various channels said the Kremlin's public threat to denounce the Soviet-French and the Soviet-British treaties of alliance touched off the scare in the first place, and apparently backfired on Soviet leaders.

The Russians at first told France that the new Western European Union pact, which authorizes a limited amount of West German rearmament, violated the French-Russian alliance signed in Moscow at the end of 1944 as insurance against a revival of Nazi militarism. Moscow said that if France ratified WEU, the 1944 treaty would be annulled.

Later, the Russians told Britain the same things in connection with the British-Soviet alliance of 1942.

According to the reports received here:

The two moves sparked a wave of rumor among the Russians that war was in the offing. Moscow stores, particularly those handling foodstuffs, were suddenly deluged by persons trying to stock up within their means.

The rush on food stores added to the general feeling of insecurity among the people.

Soviet leaders intervened with a series of speeches designed to reassure the populace that prospects for peace were good and that, in any case, Soviet defenses were adequate. Following this, the buying tapered off, and is now back to normal.

Bean Renominated W. Va. Senate Chief

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 11 (AP)—Sen. Ralph Bean (D-Hardy) was renominated president of the West Virginia Senate tonight at a caucus of the 23 Democratic Senators by a vote of 14-9 over State Sen. C. H. Jackie-McKown (D-Wayne).

The victory for Bean was regarded as a setback for the state administration which had actively supported McKown's candidacy.

Britain Rejects Russian Charge

LONDON, Jan. 11 (AP)—A Russian charge that American bombers stationed in this country were intended for an atomic attack on the Soviet Union was rejected by Britain today as unfounded.

"Like all the other forces of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries, their purpose is purely defensive," the Foreign Office said in a reply handed to the Soviet Embassy.

The Foreign Office declared that the Soviet Embassy, in making the charge in a note dated Dec. 17, had misquoted and misrepresented remarks made by Brig. Gen. John D. Stevenson, commander of the U.S. 49th Air Division in Britain.

The embassy asserted that Stevenson had told a news conference Dec. 10 that the F84 Thunderstreak fighter-bombers he commands were "intended for the delivery of an atomic attack on the Soviet Union."

The Russians also protested to the U.S. government, demanding an explanation of Stevenson's remarks, but there has been no announcement from Washington of any reply.

Freak Train Collision On Trestle Kills Two

VERDEN, Germany, Jan. 11 (AP)—A freak two-train collision in the middle of a 30-foot high trestle near here today killed two persons and injured nine.

It was West Germany's fifth serious rail accident within the last three weeks. The previous crashes took 23 lives.

The collision occurred as a workmen's commuter and a freight train approached each other on a trestle. One freight car jumped the track into the path of the passenger train. The passenger engineer and the fireman were trapped in their cab and burned to death. Another crewman and eight passengers were injured.

Italy's 'African Lion' Dies Of Heart Attack

ROME, Jan. 11 (AP)—Ex-Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, 72, an unrepentant Fascist who was Italy's "African Lion" before the British smashed his troops in World War II, died of a heart attack here today.

Stripped of his honors at a war crimes trial, the grizzled old desert campaigner entered a clinic 15 days ago for an operation for ulcers. He appeared to be recovering until his heart weakened.

Graziani, dedicated to Fascism to the end, commanded Benito Mussolini's last ditch stand against the Allies in Northern Italy after King Vittorio Emanuele III surrendered in 1943.

Radford Backs China Blockade To Free Airmen

WASHINGTON, Ja. 11 (AP)—The nation's top military man and a prominent Republican senator today called for a blockade of Red China if all else fails to win release of imprisoned Americans.

But Secretary of State Dulles, employing a Biblical phrase, said the United States would be "slow to anger" in facing issues which could explode the peace.

Supporting an Allied blockade as a last-ditch maneuver were Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Sen H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ).

"If all other measures fail, the United States should support a blockade," Radford said in response to questions on returning from a global trip which took him to the Far East.

"It would have a great effect on the Red Chinese and would be the best way to tackle such a problem."

Smith said he was aware the step "would be dangerous" but asserted:

"If our men are not release, we should ask our allies to join us in a blockade of the China coast. I believe to squeeze them economically would be the best sanction to apply."

Smith is a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and while Republicans controlled Congress the last two years headed its Far Eastern subcommittee. In the main he has backed policies of Secretary Dulles.

Both President Eisenhower and Dulles have been unsympathetic to talk of a blockade at this time. They have termed it in the nature of a warlike act.

Boy Plunges Six Stories And Lives

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 (AP) — A 10-year-old boy fell from the roof of a six-story tenement building to a concrete courtyard today—and lived.

Opposition to "right to work" laws is expected to be high on the list.

Cohen said the union delegates would be asked to meet later in the afternoon with the senators and delegates from their counties.

China Nationalist Planes Retaliate For Red Attack

TAIPEH, Formosa, Jan. 11 (AP)—Nationalist warplanes today struck back at the Chinese Communists for yesterday's big bombing of the Tachen Islands, attacking Red island and mainland positions.

The Communists sent 22 jets and light bombers in two waves over the Tachens again today, but there was no report of bombs dropped. The Nationalists claimed one Red plane probably destroyed and one damaged.

The Defense Ministry reported Nationalist planes in undisclosed numbers unloaded scores of bombs on Tienao Island, 15 miles north of the Tachens, both last night and today, setting fire to Communist installations.

Other Nationalist planes probably damaged some ships in the Sungmen area, on the mainland littlemore than 20 miles west of the Tachens, the ministry said. The Tachens are 200 miles north of Formosa.

Freed American Believes Russians Hold U. S. Fliers

Tells Of Revolt In Labor Camp

In general terms, without giving such detail, the Malenkov government charged Beria with seeking to usurp power when he was brought before a military tribunal and sentenced to death.

The Malenkov machinery went into swift action when the strike broke out. Special teams of MVD (secret police) guards were rushed in and opened fire on the rebellious prisoners.

Noble said he managed to keep out of the melee. The strike and revolt was concentrated mostly above ground. He was employed in the coal mines.

CAT SAVES FAMILY FROM FIRE — Sitting on the wrecked chimney of their home near Charleston, S. C., are Connie, 9, and Denny, 14, children of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Long. They are holding Freckles, the family cat, which is credited with saving the family of five when fire destroyed their home. According to Mr. Long, Freckles kept leaping on his bed and pawing his wife until they awoke and saw the fire. All five got out safely but didn't have time to save any belongings.

Freak Train Collision On Trestle Kills Two

VERDEN, Germany, Jan. 11 (AP)—A freak two-train collision in the middle of a 30-foot high trestle near here today killed two persons and injured nine.

It was West Germany's fifth serious rail accident within the last three weeks. The previous crashes took 23 lives.

The collision occurred as a workmen's commuter and a freight train approached each other on a trestle. One freight car jumped the track into the path of the passenger train. The passenger engineer and the fireman were trapped in their cab and burned to death. Another crewman and eight passengers were injured.

Italy's 'African Lion' Dies Of Heart Attack

ROME, Jan. 11 (AP)—Ex-Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, 72, an unrepentant Fascist who was Italy's "African Lion" before the British smashed his troops in World War II, died of a heart attack here today.

Stripped of his honors at a war crimes trial, the grizzled old desert campaigner entered a clinic 15 days ago for an operation for ulcers. He appeared to be recovering until his heart weakened.

Graziani, dedicated to Fascism to the end, commanded Benito Mussolini's last ditch stand against the Allies in Northern Italy after King Vittorio Emanuele III surrendered in 1943.

Guerrillas Shelled

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya, Jan. 11 (AP)—The British destroyer Comus poured a stream of high explosive shells today into swampland on the south coast of Selangor state where 50 Communist guerrillas are known to be hiding.

Kremlin Treaty Threat Touched Off War Scare

PARIS, Jan. 11 (AP)—Diplomatic sources here said today there was a yearend war scare among the Russian people, at least those in Moscow. They reported it now appears to be subsiding.

Reports filtering back to Paris through various channels said the Kremlin's public threat to denounce the Soviet-French and the Soviet-British treaties of alliance touched off the scare in the first place, and apparently backfired on Soviet leaders.

The Russians at first told France that the new Western European Union pact, which authorizes a limited amount of West German rearmament, violated the French-Russian alliance signed in Moscow at the end of 1944 as insurance against a revival of Nazi militarism. Moscow said that if France ratified WEU, the 1944 treaty would be annulled.

Later, the Russians told Britain the same things in connection with the British-Soviet alliance of 1942.

According to the reports received here:

The two moves sparked a wave of rumor among the Russians that war was in the offing. Moscow stores, particularly those handling foodstuffs, were suddenly deluged by persons trying to stock up within their means.

The rush on food stores added to the general feeling of insecurity among the people.

Soviet leaders intervened with a series of speeches designed to reassure the populace that prospects for peace were good and that, in any case, Soviet defenses were adequate. Following this, the buying tapered off, and is now back to normal.

Bean Renominated W. Va. Senate Chief

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 11 (AP)—Sen. Ralph Bean (D-Hardy) was renominated president of the West Virginia Senate tonight at a caucus of the 23 Democratic Senators by a vote of 14-9 over State Sen. C. H. Jackie-McKown (D-Wayne).

The victory for Bean was regarded as a setback for the state administration which had actively supported McKown's candidacy.

Britain Rejects Russian Charge

LONDON, Jan. 11 (AP)—A Russian charge that American bombers stationed in this country were intended for an atomic attack on the Soviet Union was rejected by Britain today as unfounded.

"Like all the other forces of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries, their purpose is purely defensive," the Foreign Office said in a reply handed to the Soviet Embassy.

The Foreign Office declared that the Soviet Embassy, in making the charge in a note dated Dec. 17, had misquoted and misrepresented remarks made by Brig. Gen. John D. Stevenson, commander of the U.S. 49th Air Division in Britain.

The embassy asserted that Stevenson had told a news conference Dec. 10 that the F84 Thunderstreak fighter-bombers he commands were "intended for the delivery of an atomic attack on the Soviet Union."

The Russians also protested to the U.S. government, demanding an explanation of Stevenson's remarks, but there has been no announcement from Washington of any reply.

Radford Backs China Blockade To Free Airmen

WASHINGTON, Ja. 11 (AP)—The nation's top military man and a prominent Republican senator today called for a blockade of Red China if all else fails to win release of imprisoned Americans.

But Secretary of State Dulles, employing a Biblical phrase, said the United States would be "slow to anger" in facing issues which could explode the peace.

Supporting an Allied blockade as a last-ditch maneuver were Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Sen H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ).

"If all other measures fail, the United States should support a blockade," Radford said in response to questions on returning from a global trip which took him to the Far East.

"It would have a great effect on the Red Chinese and would be the best way to tackle such a problem."

Smith said he was aware the step "would be dangerous" but asserted:

"If our men are not release, we should ask our allies to join us in a blockade of the China coast. I believe to squeeze them economically would be the best sanction to apply."

Smith is a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and while Republicans controlled Congress the last two years headed its Far Eastern subcommittee. In the main he has backed policies of Secretary Dulles.

Both President Eisenhower and Dulles have been unsympathetic to talk of a blockade at this time. They have termed it in the nature of a warlike act.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 (AP) — A 10-year-old boy fell from the roof of a six-story tenement building to a concrete courtyard today—and lived.

China Nationalist Planes Retaliate For Red Attack

TAIPEH, Formosa, Jan. 11 (AP)—Nationalist warplanes today struck back at the Chinese Communists for yesterday's big bombing of the Tachen Islands, attacking Red island and mainland positions.

The Communists sent 22 jets and light bombers in two waves over the Tachens again today, but there was no report of bombs dropped. The Nationalists claimed one Red plane probably destroyed and one damaged.

The Defense Ministry reported Nationalist planes in undisclosed numbers unloaded scores of bombs on Tienao Island, 15 miles north of the Tachens, both last night and today, setting fire to Communist installations.

Other Nationalist planes probably damaged some ships in the Sungmen area, on the mainland littlemore than 20 miles west of the Tachens, the ministry said. The Tachens are 200 miles north of Formosa.

Guard your weight against gradual gain by counting calories every day!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Most people who gain too much weight do so not by gluttonous food orgies, but by consistently eating just a bit more every day than they require. If you merely consume an extra 100 or so calories today, tomorrow and the next day, you may slowly add to your weight until you are from 10 to 20 pounds over the ideal within a year.

Have you already reached that problem stage? Don't succumb to a faddish diet that promises quick reducing. Your health may suffer, or your nerves become tense. Diet sensibly, losing a pound or two a week until you arrive at the proper scale reading.

Planned Diet

To achieve your best weight for good health and long life is a simple process when you have a practical diet plan. Such a plan will not deprive you of things you like, or force your family to be inadequately nourished.

Count your calories! If you extend your quota at one meal, subtract calories at the next. Compensate for the three-inch wedge of apple pie that adds 300 calories to your lunch by omitting a slice of bread and one pat of butter at dinner, and by skipping dessert.

The menus in my booklet "Your Beauty Diet!" (see below) make your diet fit easily into meal planning for the whole family. To gain weight, snack between meals. To reduce, eliminate certain foods entirely, halving the quantities of others.

There are other ways to cut down. Serve vegetables without butter or margarine, adding it at the table for those who need it. Separate one portion of salad for yourself before you add the dressing, or take out one boiled potato before you mash the rest with butter and milk.

Between Meals

Busy yourself between meals so you won't even be tempted to nibble. Plan menus so there is enough food for all, but not too much—you can accumulate plenty of calories just by finishing what the children didn't!

Hold yourself to 1200 calories per day when trying to lose weight. Once the excess pounds are discarded, you can go back to the 2500 a day needed to maintain ideal weight. Or perhaps even work up to the 3200 calories prescribed by my diet experts for the want-to-gainer!

YOUR BEAUTY DIET

No matter what your weight problem—whether you want to gain, lose or remain the same—YOUR BEAUTY DIET will provide you with a safe and sane pattern of laboratory-tested menus that can be followed by the entire family according to each individual's needs. YOUR BEAUTY DIET is a way of eating, not starving, and the tasteful, appentizing meals it contains require no extra planning or preparation! For the booklet, write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper and enclose 10c in coin to help cover cost, plus stamped self-addressed envelope.

McKeldin Will Begin Second Term At Noon

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 11 (AP) — Gold and black bunting draped the halls and Senate chamber of the Maryland Statehouse today as the State prepared to inaugurate Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin for a second term.

Workmen, meanwhile, completed the platform on the east portico of the Capitol building from which McKeldin will deliver his inaugural address tomorrow.

Leaders of the House and Senate wound up work in their respective chambers by mid-afternoon so they could get to Baltimore for fittings of striped trousers, cutaway coats and black homburgs.

For awhile a political crisis seemed brewing over this matter. But they finally settled on homburgs, in preference to top hats, even though at least one Democrat complained that a Republican, President Eisenhower, had revived the fashion at his inauguration.

Republican Gov. McKeldin will wear a top hat.

A day-long program of pomp and ceremony is planned for the inauguration which will make McKeldin the first of four Republican governors in Maryland to succeed himself in office.

Festivities will begin at 10:15 a.m. when the Naval Academy and choral groups serenade the governor at the east portico of Government House, historic home of Maryland chief executives.

They will end at 6:30 p.m. when Gov. and Mrs. McKeldin conclude a two-hour reception of the public.

In between, McKeldin will take the oath of office and deliver an inaugural address expected to review accomplishments of his first four years in office and look ahead into the next four.

Dignitaries from throughout Maryland are expected to be among the thousands gathering at the Statehouse for the ceremonies.

They will include Maryland's two U.S. senators and seven congressmen, former U.S. Sen. and Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor, former U. S. Sen. George Radcliffe, Comptroller J. Millard Tawes, Atty. Gen. C. Ferdinand Sybert and Treasurer Hooper S. Miles.

Rep. Joseph Martin (R-Mass), speaker of the House in the 83rd Congress, also will be among visiting dignitaries.

McKeldin will take the oath of office at noon in the Senate chamber from Chief Judge Frederick W. Brune of the Maryland Court of Appeals.

Hearing Is Waived By Accused Bandit

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 (AP)—John Henry Foster, 23, one of a trio accused of the $124,638 holdup of the bank at Andrews Air Force Base, Camp Springs, Md., waived a hearing today pending arrival of removal papers.

Foster, arrested here by FBI agents Dec. 28, will be taken to Baltimore for trial.

One of his alleged confederates, Clarence (Duke) McGann, has been convicted and is serving time for the robbery last Aug. 13. another, Earl (Kill) Smith, is awaiting trial.

Authorities said Foster had $9,195 in cash identified as part of the loot in his room when arrested.

Ocean City Building Concrete Promenade

OCEAN CITY, Md., Jan. 11 (AP)—An eight-block section of Ocean City's old boardwalk is being torn up and will be replaced with a concrete promenade.

The area to be paved runs from First St. to N. Division St. and officials hope to have it completed by late spring. The work will cost about $35,000.

India Curbs U.S. Flights

NEW DELHI, India, Jan. 11 (AP)—India notified Pan American World Airways and Trans World Airlines today that each must eliminate one of its three weekly round-trip flights over Indian territory.

Recruiter Signs Up His Own Son

SALISBURY, Jan. 11 (AP)—M-Sgt. James L. Rowbottom, head of the Army's recruiting office here, signed up his own 17-year-old son today.

Thomas, the younger Rowbottom, will leave tomorrow to begin his service at Ft. Jackson, S. C.

The older Rowbottom has been in the Army himself for 10 years, holding assignments where his family could always be with him. The family now makes its home at nearby Delmar, Md.

Canning Firm Owners Accused Of Tax Evasion

BALTIMORE, Jan. 11 (AP) — The federal government today charged a Hampstead, Md., cannery and the three brothers who operate it with attempting to evade payment of about $60,000 in income taxes.

The charges involved both the income of Bankert Brothers Co., Inc. and the three Bankert brothers, Robert N., Charles D., and John A.

Robert N. Bankert was listed as president of the firm and George Cochran Doub, U. S. district attorney, accused him of underpaying his personal income taxes by $13,730 in 1948, 1949, 1950 and 1951.

He also was charged jointly with the company in the alleged invasion of $35,373 in taxes for the same four years.

Charles D. Bankert was accused of shortchanging the government by $5,465 for the years 1949, 1950, and 1951.

John A. Bankert was accused of evading $4,711 in taxes for 1948.

The accusations were set forth in indictments returned by the federal Grand Jury.

The government charged that in 1948, for example, the firm reported it lost $4,729 but really had enough income to owe $510 in taxes.

'Pressured' Magistrate Resigns Post

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 11 (AP)—Harry T. Owens, magistrate in police court at nearby Odenton, said today he had resigned rather than submit to "pressurized requests."

The resignation was accepted immediately "with regret" by the governor, who commented that "the fact such pressures are brought to bear should be a good reason for a man who can resist them to retain his office."

The magistrate said he wrote Gov. McKeldin';

"Part of my obligation, according to the phraseology of my commission, was 'to do equal right and justice according in every case.'

"Several months after assuming my duties I began receiving pressurized requests (polite orders) to do just the opposite of my obligation, and it soon became apparent that my reluctance to comply with such demands was very displeasing to the source from whence these demands came."

Gov. McKeldin appointed Owens to serve as magistrate a year ago when a new police court was created for the Odenton area.

Owens said he twice had tried to obtain an appointment to discuss the situation with the governor but was unsuccessful.

An aide to the governor said Owens had not mentioned any "pressurized requests" in asking for an appointment with McKeldin.

The governor's statement said in part:

"I am glad to know that Magistrate Owens resisted such pressures as may have been brought to have him ignore 'equal right and justice, according to law' in the administration of his office. This, of course, is what every magistrate and every law enforcement officer should do. The fact that he is resigning of his own free will is evidence enough, I believe, that his resistance had official approval..."

Asphalt Jetties Along Maryland Coast Completed

OCEAN CITY, Md., Jan. 11 (AP)—Construction of 40 asphalt jetties along eight miles of Maryland's ocean beach from Ocean City north to the Delaware line has been completed and the State Roads Commission is considering additional ones.

Work on the jetties, 900 feet apart, was started last August.

Some already have been covered by the shifting sand and in such cases the beach has been built up four feet and widened 15 feet.

Walter Hopkins, state engineer who placed the original jetties for Ocean City, said the beach could be raised higher by heating the tops of the asphalt jetties and applying a new layer.

The 40 jetties cost $100,000 to construct. The State Roads Commission estimates it would have cost $650,000 to build them of pilings.

The first of the 40 jetties constructed was caught by a storm before the asphalt cooled and a large chunk was torn out of its middle. Edges of others have crumbled. But Roads Commission engineers said this was an expected development. Pieces broken off will soon be covered with sand and will not litter the beach, they predicted.

If new jetties are built, they would be placed halfway between the present ones, Hopkins said.

Work would not be done during the resort season, a decision on new jetties has not been made by the commission.

Heifer Project Opens Meeting

NEW WINDSOR, Md., Jan. 11 (AP)—Directors of Heifer Project Inc., interdenominational organization which supplies livestock and poultry to wartorn countries and other needy areas, opened a three-day annual meeting at project headquarters here today.

More than 100 persons connected with project work in 13 states from California to Maryland are attending, plus friends of Heifer Project in government and the United Nations.

Highlighting today's sessions were reports on projects in Germany, Haiti, Puerto Rico, Afghanistan and the Middle East by staff members who accompanied shipments of heifers and other livestock to those areas of the world.

Raymond W. Miller of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization, was the principal speaker at a dinner meeting tonight.

Tomorrow, the board of directors will decide on what courses of action and to which areas of the world Heifer Project will direct its work this year.

Thousands Of Elderly Citizens Turning To New Ventures Following Retirement

EDITOR'S NOTE: Many thousands of Americans are learning each year that happiness in retirement requires more than the old rocking chair. This last of five articles tells how new careers are providing many with personal enjoyment and financial security.

By ROGER D. GREENE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP)—At 65, will you be happy puttering around a garden or pursuing some other hobby? Or will you need a "second career" in retirement?

Driven by financial need or a craving for activity, or both, thousands upon thousands of America's elderly citizens are turning to new ventures after retiring from their regular jobs.

Some will fail. A few will hit the jackpot and make more money than they ever earned before.

Whether it's raising earthworms or breeding chinchillas, setting up a fourth-at-bridge service or opening a hobby shop, earn-a-little-extra retirement plans pose an exciting challenge to the nation's senior citizens.

Mrs. George Furzer of Bethesda, Md., retired for 20 years from her Chicago school teaching post, began selling her fresh-grated coconut and angel food cakes at a farm market.

It was just something to keep her busy.

Today "Della's Cakes"—named after her daughter, Della—are famous in the Washington, D. C., area. With a brand-new building, housing two huge bakerooms and five bakers, Mrs. Furzer sells more than 2,000 cakes and 2,500 pies a month.

From coast to coast, thousands of similar success stories have been written by oldsters who turned their retirement into entirely new careers.

Despite federal retirement benefits under the social security system and a steadily increasing number of private retirement plans, most older people want to work.

The U. S. Labor Department, in a survey covering an eight-year period, found that only five per cent of the elderly men and women who retired did so of their own accord, in good health, to enjoy a life of leisure. Compulsory retirement or illness forced the others to quit.

Today nearly three million workers over 65 contribute more than 12 billion dollars to the national product.

Under the newly revised social security law, passed by Congress last year, a retired person may earn as much as $1,200 a year without losing social security benefits.

After you reach 72, there is no limit on how much you may earn without penalty.

Some persons have scored achievements of worldwide significance after "retiring." Many others have found new walks of life that brought financial security and personal happiness.

Dr. Benjamin M. Duggar was a professor of botany at the University of Wisconsin when he was compulsorily "retired" at 71 in 1943. Duggar promptly got a job in private industry and discovered auereomycin, the "miracle drug" that has saved thousands of lives. He now resides at Pearl River, N. Y.

Paul M. Bryant, a retired businessman, got interested in early American style furniture. He set up a small factory at Holly Hill, Fla., with a working force composed entirely of retired or disabled workers. It has thrived.

In Arlington, Va., Lewyl E. Greeson started raising and selling flying squirrels as a hobby two years before he retired from a Defense Department job late in 1953.

In three years, Greeson has sold more than 4,500 of the tiny saucer-eyed animals as pets for $33,000—and is having the time of his life.

Various federal agencies are ready to help persons seeking to pad their retirement incomes. The U. S. Commerce Department, for example, puts out pamphlets on "establishing and operating your own business," telling how to run everything from a delicatessen to a weekly newspaper.

The 10 most popular enterprises are motels, farms, ranches, commercial income properties, gas stations, hardware stores, taverns, grocery stores, variety stores and resorts.

But the Department of Commerce cautions that of more than five million new enterprises set up in the United States since World War II, half have gone broke within two years.

Experts say it takes a sizeable amount of cash to establish a motel—anywhere from $3,500 to $12,000 a unit—plus long hours of work to keep it running. And the "No" is fast disappearing from "No vacancy" signs except in the rush season.

Too, there are cautioning words on farming, whether it involves Leghorns or Longhorns, and on almost every other enterprise that might be launched today.

But oldtimers by the thousands are listening and then leaping with enthusiasm into new careers, each driven by his own highly individual motives.

For example, Ned Sparks of Silver Spring, Md., a veteran government employe, intends to buy a farm when he retires—but not to farm. His idea is simply to beat the high tax situation.

Sparks and his wife plan to buy about five acres with woods and stream out in the Virginia countryside. He expects to save at least 50 per cent on state and country taxes by moving from his suburban home, on the outskirts of Washington.

"All this talk about post-retirement breakdowns doesn't scare me," Sparks says. "I can hardly wait. I'm going to love it—with huntin' and fishin' right under my nose!"

McKeldin Will Begin Second Term At Noon

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 11 (AP) — Gold and black bunting draped the halls and Senate chamber of the Maryland Statehouse today as the State prepared to inaugurate Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin for a second term.

Workmen, meanwhile, completed the platform on the east portico of the Capitol building from which McKeldin will deliver his inaugural address tomorrow.

Leaders of the House and Senate wound up work in their respective chambers by mid-afternoon so they could get to Baltimore for fittings of striped trousers, cutaway coats and black homburgs.

For awhile a political crisis seemed brewing over this matter. But they finally settled on homburgs, in preference to top hats, even though at least one Democrat complained that a Republican, President Eisenhower, had revived the fashion at his inauguration.

Republican Gov. McKeldin will wear a top hat.

A day-long program of pomp and ceremony is planned for the inauguration which will make McKeldin the first of four Republican governors in Maryland to succeed himself in office.

Festivities will begin at 10:15 a.m. when the Naval Academy and choral groups serenade the governor at the east portico of Government House, historic home of Maryland chief executives.

They will end at 6:30 p.m. when Gov. and Mrs. McKeldin conclude a two-hour reception of the public.

In between, McKeldin will take the oath of office and deliver an inaugural address expected to review accomplishments of his first four years in office and look ahead into the next four.

Dignitaries from throughout Maryland are expected to be among the thousands gathering at the Statehouse for the ceremonies.

They will include Maryland's two U.S. senators and seven congressmen, former U.S. Sen. and Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor, former U. S. Sen. George Radcliffe, Comptroller J. Millard Tawes, Atty. Gen. C. Ferdinand Sybert and Treasurer Hooper S. Miles.

Rep. Joseph Martin (R-Mass), speaker of the House in the 83rd Congress, also will be among visiting dignitaries.

McKeldin will take the oath of office at noon in the Senate chamber from Chief Judge Frederick W. Brune of the Maryland Court of Appeals.

Hearing Is Waived By Accused Bandit

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 (AP)—John Henry Foster, 23, one of a trio accused of the $124,638 holdup of the bank at Andrews Air Force Base, Camp Springs, Md., waived a hearing today pending arrival of removal papers.

Foster, arrested here by FBI agents Dec. 28, will be taken to Baltimore for trial.

One of his alleged confederates, Clarence (Duke) McGann, has been convicted and is serving time for the robbery last Aug. 13. another, Earl (Kill) Smith, is awaiting trial.

Authorities said Foster had $9,195 in cash identified as part of the loot in his room when arrested.

Ocean City Building Concrete Promenade

OCEAN CITY, Md., Jan. 11 (AP)—An eight-block section of Ocean City's old boardwalk is being torn up and will be replaced with a concrete promenade.

The area to be paved runs from First St. to N. Division St. and officials hope to have it completed by late spring. The work will cost about $35,000.

Recruiter Signs Up His Own Son

SALISBURY, Jan. 11 (AP)—M-Sgt. James L. Rowbottom, head of the Army's recruiting office here, signed up his own 17-year-old son today.

Thomas, the younger Rowbottom, will leave tomorrow to begin his service at Ft. Jackson, S. C.

The older Rowbottom has been in the Army himself for 10 years, holding assignments where his family could always be with him. The family now makes its home at nearby Delmar, Md.

Canning Firm Owners Accused Of Tax Evasion

BALTIMORE, Jan. 11 (AP) — The federal government today charged a Hampstead, Md., cannery and the three brothers who operate it with attempting to evade payment of about $60,000 in income taxes.

The charges involved both the income of Bankert Brothers Co., Inc. and the three Bankert brothers, Robert N., Charles D., and John A.

Robert N. Bankert was listed as president of the firm and George Cochran Doub, U. S. district attorney, accused him of underpaying his personal income taxes by $13,730 in 1948, 1949, 1950 and 1951.

He also was charged jointly with the company in the alleged invasion of $35,373 in taxes for the same four years.

Charles D. Bankert was accused of shortchanging the government by $5,465 for the years 1949, 1950, and 1951.

John A. Bankert was accused of evading $4,711 in taxes for 1948.

The accusations were set forth in indictments returned by the federal Grand Jury.

The government charged that in 1948, for example, the firm reported it lost $4,729 but really had enough income to owe $510 in taxes.

'Pressured' Magistrate Resigns Post

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 11 (AP)—Harry T. Owens, magistrate in police court at nearby Odenton, said today he had resigned rather than submit to "pressurized requests."

The resignation was accepted immediately "with regret" by the governor, who commented that "the fact such pressures are brought to bear should be a good reason for a man who can resist them to retain his office."

The magistrate said he wrote Gov. McKeldin';

"Part of my obligation, according to the phraseology of my commission, was 'to do equal right and justice according in every case.'

"Several months after assuming my duties I began receiving pressurized requests (polite orders) to do just the opposite of my obligation, and it soon became apparent that my reluctance to comply with such demands was very displeasing to the source from whence these demands came."

Gov. McKeldin appointed Owens to serve as magistrate a year ago when a new police court was created for the Odenton area.

Owens said he twice had tried to obtain an appointment to discuss the situation with the governor but was unsuccessful.

An aide to the governor said Owens had not mentioned any "pressurized requests" in asking for an appointment with McKeldin.

The governor's statement said in part:

"I am glad to know that Magistrate Owens resisted such pressures as may have been brought to have him ignore 'equal right and justice, according to law' in the administration of his office. This, of course, is what every magistrate and every law enforcement officer should do. The fact that he is resigning of his own free will is evidence enough, I believe, that his resistance had official approval..."

Thousands Of Elderly Citizens Turning To New Ventures Following Retirement

EDITOR'S NOTE: Many thousands of Americans are learning each year that happiness in retirement requires more than the old rocking chair. This last of five articles tells how new careers are providing many with personal enjoyment and financial security.

Cook Is Named President Of Allegany County Bar

NOEL SPEIR COOK

Noel Speir Cook, of Frostburg, was elected president of the Allegany County Bar Association yesterday at a meeting in the law library at the Court House.

He succeeds Matthew J. Mullaney of this city. Other officers named are Peter J. Carpenti, vice president; Harry Kauffman, secretary; and George Hughes Jr., treasurer.

The board of directors elected yesterday is comprised of William S. Jenkins, of Frostburg, William C. Walsh and Matthew J. Mullaney, both of this city.

The new bar group president attended Beall High School and graduated from the University of Maryland Law School. He is attending the Maryland General Assembly of which he is a member as a delegate from Allegany County. Cook has practiced law in this county for about 20 years.

The bar association again voted to sponsor an essay contest among Allegany County high school students on citizenship. A prize of $50 will be given the winner, who in turn will be entered in the state event. The winner of the state contest is a guest at the Maryland Bar Association's convention during the summer and delivers their essay at that time.

The topic for this year's essay will be "Religious Freedom Under The American Constitution."

The group also voted to have a committee named from the association to contact the Allegany County delegation to the General Assembly on having two judges in this county.

When Chief Judge George Henderson retires in a few years the county would have only one judge under the present law. The bar group is in favor of this county's continuing to have two judges in the Fourth Judicial Circuit. The Legislature would have to pass a law at this session if the county is to have two judges.

Congress Urged To Adopt 'Mother' For Pages

WASHINGTON Jan. 11 (AP)—Congress is being prodded to think about adopting a mother for its 75 boys.

They're not members. They're the smart, young pages who run errands for representatives and senators during each session.

The boys, 14 to 18 years old, are probably the youngest political appointees in the nation. Pound for pound, they're also probably the best paid—an average net of $240 monthly.

But after a long, hard day's work the youngsters—who come from all parts of the country—have no stable home where they can go.

So at least three congressmen are going to try again to get them a home of their own or, at least, a part-time mother.

Rep. Cole (R-NY) has introduced a bill to hire a matron to supervise the boys. Rep. Charles E. Bennett (D-Fla) has sponsored a measure to build a special page boys' dormitory in future and to rent interim centralized accommodations. Rep. Ruth Thompson (R-Mich) says she will propose a similar idea.

In the past, Congress has turned down such proposals, largely on the grounds of expense.

The main idea, the congressional members say, is to get someone to supervise the youths, with the usual parental job of getting the right food into them and the right homework out of them.

The pages go to their own school in the Library of Congress from 6 a.m.—yes, at dawn—until 10 a.m. on weekdays. Then they work on the floors of the two houses while they are in session. When the legislators get long-winded and go into night sessions, the boys split up the extra duty.

After work, they are on their own. They live in boarding houses scattered throughout the capital, paying their own bills.

"Many of them come here as strangers," Cole said. "They are lost in a strange city and lack the proper home influence. Some of them get into minor difficulties."

Cole said he wants Congress to hire a middle-aged woman, with children of her own, to "act as a quasi-parent." She would visit and inspect the boys' accommodations, help them with personal problems, straighten out school problems.

Congress last session complained at the proposed cost — between $5,000 and $6,000 a year, Cole said.

"It's a crying shame," Bennett remarked in a separate interview, "that Congress has failed to look this problem in the face and accept its responsibility for these boys."

He said the boys themselves could afford to pay enough room and board for centralized living accommodations. In the future, he added, he wants to see a new dormitory, costing around $200,000, built for them.

Mrs. Thompson, a former judge, remarked that "these are good boys with the usual problems, and we ought to help them. Some of them are at the age to want candy bars for lunch. They need a little more supervision and discipline."

The boys haven't commented yet.

India Requires Visas For Missionaries

NEW DELHI, India, Jan. 11 (AP)—The Indian government has ruled that all missionaries from Commonwealth countries must have special visas to enter India.

The action follows recent agitation by Hindu extremists against Christian missionaries. Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru has said missionary work is creating a political, rather than a religious, problem.

Commonwealth citizens previously required no visas to go to India. Indian citizens are still free to travel to Commonwealth countries holding only a valid passport.

The visa order was promulgated Nov. 27. It went unnoticed by Commonwealth high commissions here.

Cook Is Named President Of Allegany County Bar

NOEL SPEIR COOK

Noel Speir Cook, of Frostburg, was elected president of the Allegany County Bar Association yesterday at a meeting in the law library at the Court House.

He succeeds Matthew J. Mullaney of this city. Other officers named are Peter J. Carpenti, vice president; Harry Kauffman, secretary; and George Hughes Jr., treasurer.

The board of directors elected yesterday is comprised of William S. Jenkins, of Frostburg, William C. Walsh and Matthew J. Mullaney, both of this city.

The new bar group president attended Beall High School and graduated from the University of Maryland Law School. He is attending the Maryland General Assembly of which he is a member as a delegate from Allegany County. Cook has practiced law in this county for about 20 years.

The bar association again voted to sponsor an essay contest among Allegany County high school students on citizenship. A prize of $50 will be given the winner, who in turn will be entered in the state event. The winner of the state contest is a guest at the Maryland Bar Association's convention during the summer and delivers their essay at that time.

The topic for this year's essay will be "Religious Freedom Under The American Constitution."

The group also voted to have a committee named from the association to contact the Allegany County delegation to the General Assembly on having two judges in this county.

When Chief Judge George Henderson retires in a few years the county would have only one judge under the present law. The bar group is in favor of this county's continuing to have two judges in the Fourth Judicial Circuit. The Legislature would have to pass a law at this session if the county is to have two judges.

Amplifier Trouble Causes Cable "Blackout"

Amplifier trouble at Douglas and Williams streets caused the temporary "blackout" Sunday night of the Potomac Valley Television cable, according to J. Holland Rannells, president.

Congress Urged To Adopt 'Mother' For Pages

WASHINGTON Jan. 11 (AP)—Congress is being prodded to think about adopting a mother for its 75 boys.

They're not members. They're the smart, young pages who run errands for representatives and senators during each session.

The boys, 14 to 18 years old, are probably the youngest political appointees in the nation. Pound for pound, they're also probably the best paid—an average net of $240 monthly.

But after a long, hard day's work the youngsters—who come from all parts of the country—have no stable home where they can go.

So at least three congressmen are going to try again to get them a home of their own or, at least, a part-time mother.

Rep. Cole (R-NY) has introduced a bill to hire a matron to supervise the boys. Rep. Charles E. Bennett (D-Fla) has sponsored a measure to build a special page boys' dormitory in future and to rent interim centralized accommodations. Rep. Ruth Thompson (R-Mich) says she will propose a similar idea.

In the past, Congress has turned down such proposals, largely on the grounds of expense.

The main idea, the congressional members say, is to get someone to supervise the youths, with the usual parental job of getting the right food into them and the right homework out of them.

The pages go to their own school in the Library of Congress from 6 a.m.—yes, at dawn—until 10 a.m. on weekdays. Then they work on the floors of the two houses while they are in session. When the legislators get long-winded and go into night sessions, the boys split up the extra duty.

Arthurian Legends Are Discussed

The Arthurian legends were the theme of the meeting of the Great Books Group of the Cumberland Branch of the American Association of University Women, which was held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. John Hafer, 230 Baltimore Avenue.

Miss Dorothy Stone White gave the background of the origin of the legends, tracing them back through English and French literature, linking them with the beginnings of Christianity in Western Europe, and the idealization of women stemming from the veneration of the Virgin Mary. She spoke of how the stories grew and were passed on for hundreds of years by the traveling minstrels.

The group, which as a whole read Tennyson's "Idylls of the King," and Malory, who was Tennyson's source, discussed Tennyson and the Symbolism in the Idylls, pointing out that Arthur stood for the spiritual values in life and Guenever, his wife, for the material. They also stressed the struggle between good and evil throughout.

Arthurian Legends Are Discussed

The Arthurian legends were the theme of the meeting of the Great Books Group of the Cumberland Branch of the American Association of University Women, which was held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. John Hafer, 230 Baltimore Avenue.

Miss Dorothy Stone White gave the background of the origin of the legends, tracing them back through English and French literature, linking them with the beginnings of Christianity in Western Europe, and the idealization of women stemming from the veneration of the Virgin Mary. She spoke of how the stories grew and were passed on for hundreds of years by the traveling minstrels.

The group, which as a whole read Tennyson's "Idylls of the King," and Malory, who was Tennyson's source, discussed Tennyson and the Symbolism in the Idylls, pointing out that Arthur stood for the spiritual values in life and Guenever, his wife, for the material. They also stressed the struggle between good and evil throughout.

Winter Weather Slows Work At Plant Location

King Winter has stilled the massive construction project at North Branch where the site is being prepared for the buildings of the new Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company plant.

The grading of the 600-acre site got under way in September with the contractor, the George F. Hazelwood Company, putting the massive earth moving equipment in action.

At the same time, the Scholes Construction Company of Reading, Pa., began building part of the intra-plant railroad.

This week marks the beginning of the lull forced by King Winter who stills motion with his alternating onslaughts of mud, frozen ground, rain, sleet and snow.

However, both contractors have made much progress and at this point, according to officials on the project, grading is 75 per cent completed.

The first railroad contract was for about two miles of track that furnish the sidings leading from the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and the Western Maryland Railway.

At the east end of the plant site, the Western Maryland crosses the B&O at North Branch.

The Scholes firm has completed 75 per cent of the initial railroad contract and has finished laying ballast on the track that has been laid.

About 20 trackmen are on the project while the Hazelwood firm has about the same number of employes.

The Hazelwood workers will continue ditching and road repair work during the time the job is shut down.

The excavation and grading calls for moving a half-million cubic yards of earth. The maximum cut is about 18 feet and the minimum fill is about 18 feet.

In the railroad picture, about four miles more track will be laid after the buildings are constructed.

The project will again begin to be a bee-hive of activity in March when the construction season begins.

Snyder said the election will be held January 24, 25 and 26 with ballots being cast at the union hall on North Mechanic Street, at the union booth at the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation and in the various cafeterias at the plant.

The membership of the union at a meeting December 15, 1954 ordered that the question of increasing dues to $3 be brought up at the two special meetings, according to union officials.

WVU Anniversary Event Planned In Romney Feb. 6

Officers of Potomac Chapter, West Virginia University Alumni Association, have completed arrangements to hold the annual observance of West Virginia University Day at the American Legion Home, Romney, Sunday, February 6.

F. Roy Yoke, Parkersburg attorney and former secretary of the University Alumni Association, has been named to give the principal talk.

An effort is also being made to have Art Lewis, Mountaineer football coach, and David W. Jacobs, University Alumni Association secretary, attend the dinner.

Attending the meeting at which the arrangements were outlined, in addition to Swadley, was Mrs. Donald J. Baker, Moorefield, vice president for Hardy and Grant counties; John C. Ailes, Romney, vice president for Hampshire county; and Gene Gunning, president, Laurence G. Reed, past president, and Florance Quinn, secretary-treasurer, all of Cumberland.

It is expected that approximately 200 persons will attend the dinner which will be open to all former students and their friends. It is not necessary to be a graduate of the University to be eligible for membership in Potomac Chapter or the University's Alumni Association.

Approximately 75 observances of University Day have been arranged to commemorate the 88th anniversary of the founding of the University by an act of the West Virginia Legislature on February 7, 1867.

Ritchie Appointed Chairman Of United Organizations

WESTERNPORT — Wayne Ritchie was reappointed chairman of the United Organizations for 1955 at a meeting held Monday evening at the Westernport Library.

Mrs. Hazel Haywood is the treasurer and the board of directors is comprised of Ritchie, James Newlon and Norris Bruce.

There were 108 Christmas baskets distributed by the United Organizations. This included baskets donated by clubs, lodges, churches, Sunday School classes and individuals, Ritchie reported.

An improvement was found this year by the preparation of the master list for the needy of the Tri-Towns. Previously some families were getting two baskets and some deserving family not getting any.

Each basket of food cost at least $10. There was a debit of $61.55 but since that report was made a check for $15 has been received and Ritchie said that he was advised another check for $20 was being sent to the organizations.

Ritchie said there was need here for a place for those needing financial assistance to apply for information relative to their welfare.

It was suggested that each month during the year that a different organization carry on the work of the United Organization under the direction of Chairman Ritchie.

He cited there was a case in McCoole where a man was regularly employed at $3 a hour who asked for a basket and a case in the Tri-Towns area where a man with a large family receiving $199 a month wanted a basket.

Ritchie released a statement that contributions for the needy at Christmas have been very generous. Food, clothing, toys, money and much hard work by organizations and individuals made a real Christmas for many needy families who if not for the generosity would have had a bleak Christmas.

The total cost of the Christmas baskets was $782.86.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 11 (INS)—Now it's Warner Brothers about to be exposed to our gal Shelley Winters who, today, was signed for "The Jagged Edge" on this lot opposite Jack Palance.

Maybe I shouldn't kid about Shelley's explosiveness considering that she is very calmed down these days and is most reserved—for her.

In this original by W. R. Burnett which Willis Goldbeck will produce and Stuart Heisler direct, Shelley plays a lady on the shady side of the law who meets up with an equally unscrupulous gentleman against a background of the High Sierras.

While Dewey Martin was in Washington he saw his cousin Ross Bass sworn in as congressman from Tennessee. He says he was the only Hollywoodian seated on the floor of the chamber of the House of Representatives during President Eisenhower's famous State of the Union message.

"Just think," said Dewey, "after the speech I shook hands with the President, and he told me to carry greetings to all his friends in Hollywood."

I don't know how many of you remember Carol Dempster. She was at the height of her success as a David Wark Griffith star when she met Edwin Larsen, rich Dallas oil man.

At Lily Pons party Carol told me that Lily tried to buy her house. "We didn't want to sell," she said, "so she bought right next door to us. We have a house in Westport, Connecticut, and Lily lives only five miles from us."

I would never have known Carol. She is very blonde now and as I remember her she had darker hair. She followed Lillian Gish in Griffith's roster of feminine stars, but she never went as far as Lillian. Few actresses have.

I went to Palm Springs over the weekend and picked up a lot of news. At the fashion luncheon at the El Mirador I met the window of the beloved Frank Morgan. Alma tells me she is marrying Werner Till, Czechoslovakian philosopher and graduate of a Berlin university.

"We haven't set our date," said Alma, "it may not be too soon. But I am lonesome and I miss Frank, and Werner is a wonderful companion."

The Richard Fleischer you've heard so much about as the director of "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" is the son of Max Fleischer, who created "Out of the Inkwell," "Betty Boop" and "Popeye."

Now, Richard is directing "Violent Saturday" for 20th Century-Fox, and soon he will form his own company to be called Nautilus Productions, for which he'll produce and direct. The company is named after the submarine in the fabulous Jules Verne story which Richard directed for Walt Disney.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Eddie Fisher planes back in time to escort Debbie Reynolds to the Friars testimonial dinner honoring George Burns and Gracie Allen Jan. 23.

Just heard that Marilyn Maxwell's ex, John Conte, married Ruth Harris, head of a charm school chain, just about the time Marilyn married writer Jerry Davis.

Had forgotten that Marilyn Monroe's attorney, Frank Delaney, is the father of Virginia Leigh, whose coming out party I attended in New York.

Marlon Brando has sessions several times a week with Tito Rodriguez and his Latin band, at New York's Palladium. The girl friend, Josianne, tags along to watch him work.

Ida Lupino is so well since she reconciled with Howard Duff that she has cancelled the surgery she was going to have. The El Mirador Hotel in Palm Springs went all out to make the Golden Nugget Ball, given each year by the Jimmy McHugh Polio Foundation, a huge success.

Composer McHugh organized the foundation in honor of his mother and has given a number of respirators to the hospitals. This year a new group was included with Dr. Hugo Kersten's cancer clinic sharing in the proceeds.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

F. Roy Yoke, Parkersburg attorney and former secretary of the University Alumni Association, has been named to give the principal talk.

Ritchie Appointed Chairman Of United Organizations

WESTERNPORT — Wayne Ritchie was reappointed chairman of the United Organizations for 1955 at a meeting held Monday evening at the Westernport Library.

Mrs. Hazel Haywood is the treasurer and the board of directors is comprised of Ritchie, James Newlon and Norris Bruce.

There were 108 Christmas baskets distributed by the United Organizations. This included baskets donated by clubs, lodges, churches, Sunday School classes and individuals, Ritchie reported.

An improvement was found this year by the preparation of the master list for the needy of the Tri-Towns. Previously some families were getting two baskets and some deserving family not getting any.

Each basket of food cost at least $10. There was a debit of $61.55 but since that report was made a check for $15 has been received and Ritchie said that he was advised another check for $20 was being sent to the organizations.

Ritchie said there was need here for a place for those needing financial assistance to apply for information relative to their welfare.

It was suggested that each month during the year that a different organization carry on the work of the United Organization under the direction of Chairman Ritchie.

He cited there was a case in McCoole where a man was regularly employed at $3 a hour who asked for a basket and a case in the Tri-Towns area where a man with a large family receiving $199 a month wanted a basket.

Ritchie released a statement that contributions for the needy at Christmas have been very generous. Food, clothing, toys, money and much hard work by organizations and individuals made a real Christmas for many needy families who if not for the generosity would have had a bleak Christmas.

The total cost of the Christmas baskets was $782.86.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 11 (INS)—Now it's Warner Brothers about to be exposed to our gal Shelley Winters who, today, was signed for "The Jagged Edge" on this lot opposite Jack Palance.

Maybe I shouldn't kid about Shelley's explosiveness considering that she is very calmed down these days and is most reserved—for her.

In this original by W. R. Burnett which Willis Goldbeck will produce and Stuart Heisler direct, Shelley plays a lady on the shady side of the law who meets up with an equally unscrupulous gentleman against a background of the High Sierras.

While Dewey Martin was in Washington he saw his cousin Ross Bass sworn in as congressman from Tennessee. He says he was the only Hollywoodian seated on the floor of the chamber of the House of Representatives during President Eisenhower's famous State of the Union message.

"Just think," said Dewey, "after the speech I shook hands with the President, and he told me to carry greetings to all his friends in Hollywood."

I don't know how many of you remember Carol Dempster. She was at the height of her success as a David Wark Griffith star when she met Edwin Larsen, rich Dallas oil man.

At Lily Pons party Carol told me that Lily tried to buy her house. "We didn't want to sell," she said, "so she bought right next door to us. We have a house in Westport, Connecticut, and Lily lives only five miles from us."

I would never have known Carol. She is very blonde now and as I remember her she had darker hair. She followed Lillian Gish in Griffith's roster of feminine stars, but she never went as far as Lillian. Few actresses have.

I went to Palm Springs over the weekend and picked up a lot of news. At the fashion luncheon at the El Mirador I met the window of the beloved Frank Morgan. Alma tells me she is marrying Werner Till, Czechoslovakian philosopher and graduate of a Berlin university.

"We haven't set our date," said Alma, "it may not be too soon. But I am lonesome and I miss Frank, and Werner is a wonderful companion."

The Richard Fleischer you've heard so much about as the director of "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" is the son of Max Fleischer, who created "Out of the Inkwell," "Betty Boop" and "Popeye."

Now, Richard is directing "Violent Saturday" for 20th Century-Fox, and soon he will form his own company to be called Nautilus Productions, for which he'll produce and direct. The company is named after the submarine in the fabulous Jules Verne story which Richard directed for Walt Disney.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Eddie Fisher planes back in time to escort Debbie Reynolds to the Friars testimonial dinner honoring George Burns and Gracie Allen Jan. 23.

Just heard that Marilyn Maxwell's ex, John Conte, married Ruth Harris, head of a charm school chain, just about the time Marilyn married writer Jerry Davis.

Had forgotten that Marilyn Monroe's attorney, Frank Delaney, is the father of Virginia Leigh, whose coming out party I attended in New York.

Marlon Brando has sessions several times a week with Tito Rodriguez and his Latin band, at New York's Palladium. The girl friend, Josianne, tags along to watch him work.

Ida Lupino is so well since she reconciled with Howard Duff that she has cancelled the surgery she was going to have. The El Mirador Hotel in Palm Springs went all out to make the Golden Nugget Ball, given each year by the Jimmy McHugh Polio Foundation, a huge success.

Composer McHugh organized the foundation in honor of his mother and has given a number of respirators to the hospitals. This year a new group was included with Dr. Hugo Kersten's cancer clinic sharing in the proceeds.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Hooper S. Miles Is Re-Elected Md. Treasurer

House Backs Move To Override Veto

By GEORGE BOWEN

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 11 (AP)—Democratic legislators in the main rejected aspersions that Hooper S. Miles was acting more like a Republican by re-electing him state treasurer today and the delegates then bucked the governor on a change in speed limit laws.

Miles withstood his first serious challenge since getting the job in 1935 by beating John Wood Logan, former House majority leader. The issue was settled in a caucus of Democratic senators and delegates by a 74-40 vote.

A move had been on foot for the past several weeks to remove Miles from the post which pays only $2,500 a year, but is powerful as being one of the three making up the Board of Public Works. The basis of complaint against Miles was that he seemed to have accepted Republican ways.

Appointive Post

The state treasurer is the only top job in Maryland not filled by public election. A bill to make it so has been introduced at this General Assembly.

The Democratic House majority on a second try beat the governor's veto of last year's bill to let municipalities fix speed limits on streets and roads within their borders. They are uniform now between 25 and 35 miles an hour depending on the population.

The proponents were two votes shy of overriding the veto last night and just made the required 74 on reconsideration. Seconds before the vote was tallied, they still were two shy when Del. Rosenthal (D-Balto 4th) reminded a few of his negative minded colleagues that their city officials wanted the authority.

Henry Barnes, Baltimore traffic director, wants to hike the speed limit on some major streets, particularly the city end of the Washington Expressway.

Del. Wilkinson (D-Prince Georges) also argued it was in line with municipal home rule approved by the voters last year. He said some municipalities desire to slow down the limit to 10-15 miles per hour in the vicinity of schools near highways.

License Fees Included

Gov. McKeldin said one of the reasons he vetoed the bill was to prevent establishment of speed traps and avoid a "hodgepodge" of regulations.

The Senate will take up the speed limit veto on Thursday along with another on higher license fees. The governor put his foot down on a bill to postpone the higher fees from this year until next.

The Senate is not expected to challenge that because new bills to do it were introduced again today. One of the two new bills will postpone the increases for a year and the other would stop them altogether.

The senators will choose later the one they will push after hearing more arguments on whether the additional money is needed as part of the 12-year road building program.

Garrett Senator Seeks Oil, Gas Control Board

Bill Would Supplant Law Repealed In '54

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 11 (AP)—A bill to create a state oil and gas board and give it power to regulate drilling, production and marketing in Maryland was introduced in the Senate today.

Sen. Clifford Friend (R-Garrett), sponsor of the measure, said it resulted from two years of study and is patterned after legislation in West Virginia, Virginia, North Dakota and Texas.

It goes much farther, he said, than a similar bill drawn up by the Legislative Council for this session which would primarily give the Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources authority to regulate drilling and capping of gas wells.

At present, the measure would affect only Garrett County where the natural gas industry is still in its infancy.

As proposed by Friend, the gas and oil board would consist of three heads of present Maryland departments. The chairmen of the Bureau of Mines and the Public Service Commission would serve with the chairman of the Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources as ex-officio members.

They would supervise the location of wells and require drilling of offset wells. They would also supervise operation of pipelines for transportation of oil or gas.

An operator would be required to obtain a permit from the board to drill for oil or gas and file a plat of the land to be explored. The board would hold hearings on any complaints of persons having an interest in that or adjacent lands and have the final say on where drilling was to be done.

This is designed to eliminate a sore point in a previous law, repealed at the last session, which had given the resources department authority to regulate gas and oil well drilling.

Friend said the first act of the resources department was to "attempt to force the pooling of private lands in a drilling area with boundaries to be arbitrarily set and without regard to land boundaries."

This, naturally, ran into immediate complaints and stirred up a controversy which resulted in the repeal movement, he said.

II and afterwards. He became a naturalized American following his return to this country after the war.

Singer's father was a businessman in the steel industry and took Kurt to Germany when the latter was six years old. His father died when Singer was 13 and his mother was killed by the Nazis during one of the numerous purges in Germany.

Altogether, the author noted, 66 of his relatives were slain by Hitler or Stalin.

Singer migrated to Sweden in 1934, where he was foreign correspondent for the Milwaukee Journal and the Washington Post, as well as working for Swedish newspapers.

Educated in Berlin high schools and at the University of Zurich, Switzerland, Singer came to the United States in 1940 after the fall of Norway. He was a member of the Swedish underground following the outbreak of war in Sweden in 1939.

He laughingly told how he spent two days in a Swedish jail when he was arrested for writing a biography of Hermann Goering, Nazi air force commander, which the German leader considered detrimental to him and ordered banned in Sweden.

Following the entrance of the United States into the war Singer did a great deal of espionage and intelligence work in Europe where he was a member of the Scandinavian underground and a liaison officer between the underground and Allied forces.

Hooper S. Miles Is Re-Elected Md. Treasurer

House Backs Move To Override Veto

By GEORGE BOWEN

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 11 (AP)—Democratic legislators in the main rejected aspersions that Hooper S. Miles was acting more like a Republican by re-electing him state treasurer today and the delegates then bucked the governor on a change in speed limit laws.

Miles withstood his first serious challenge since getting the job in 1935 by beating John Wood Logan, former House majority leader. The issue was settled in a caucus of Democratic senators and delegates by a 74-40 vote.

A move had been on foot for the past several weeks to remove Miles from the post which pays only $2,500 a year, but is powerful as being one of the three making up the Board of Public Works. The basis of complaint against Miles was that he seemed to have accepted Republican ways.

Appointive Post

The state treasurer is the only top job in Maryland not filled by public election. A bill to make it so has been introduced at this General Assembly.

The Democratic House majority on a second try beat the governor's veto of last year's bill to let municipalities fix speed limits on streets and roads within their borders. They are uniform now between 25 and 35 miles an hour depending on the population.

The proponents were two votes shy of overriding the veto last night and just made the required 74 on reconsideration. Seconds before the vote was tallied, they still were two shy when Del. Rosenthal (D-Balto 4th) reminded a few of his negative minded colleagues that their city officials wanted the authority.

Henry Barnes, Baltimore traffic director, wants to hike the speed limit on some major streets, particularly the city end of the Washington Expressway.

Del. Wilkinson (D-Prince Georges) also argued it was in line with municipal home rule approved by the voters last year. He said some municipalities desire to slow down the limit to 10-15 miles per hour in the vicinity of schools near highways.

License Fees Included

Gov. McKeldin said one of the reasons he vetoed the bill was to prevent establishment of speed traps and avoid a "hodgepodge" of regulations.

The Senate will take up the speed limit veto on Thursday along with another on higher license fees. The governor put his foot down on a bill to postpone the higher fees from this year until next.

The Senate is not expected to challenge that because new bills to do it were introduced again today. One of the two new bills will postpone the increases for a year and the other would stop them altogether.

The senators will choose later the one they will push after hearing more arguments on whether the additional money is needed as part of the 12-year road building program.

Garrett Senator Seeks Oil, Gas Control Board

Bill Would Supplant Law Repealed In '54

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 11 (AP)—A bill to create a state oil and gas board and give it power to regulate drilling, production and marketing in Maryland was introduced in the Senate today.

Sen. Clifford Friend (R-Garrett), sponsor of the measure, said it resulted from two years of study and is patterned after legislation in West Virginia, Virginia, North Dakota and Texas.

It goes much farther, he said, than a similar bill drawn up by the Legislative Council for this session which would primarily give the Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources authority to regulate drilling and capping of gas wells.

At present, the measure would affect only Garrett County where the natural gas industry is still in its infancy.

As proposed by Friend, the gas and oil board would consist of three heads of present Maryland departments. The chairmen of the Bureau of Mines and the Public Service Commission would serve with the chairman of the Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources as ex-officio members.

They would supervise the location of wells and require drilling of offset wells. They would also supervise operation of pipelines for transportation of oil or gas.

An operator would be required to obtain a permit from the board to drill for oil or gas and file a plat of the land to be explored. The board would hold hearings on any complaints of persons having an interest in that or adjacent lands and have the final say on where drilling was to be done.

This is designed to eliminate a sore point in a previous law, repealed at the last session, which had given the resources department authority to regulate gas and oil well drilling.

Friend said the first act of the resources department was to "attempt to force the pooling of private lands in a drilling area with boundaries to be arbitrarily set and without regard to land boundaries."

This, naturally, ran into immediate complaints and stirred up a controversy which resulted in the repeal movement, he said.

II and afterwards. He became a naturalized American following his return to this country after the war.

Singer's father was a businessman in the steel industry and took Kurt to Germany when the latter was six years old. His father died when Singer was 13 and his mother was killed by the Nazis during one of the numerous purges in Germany.

Altogether, the author noted, 66 of his relatives were slain by Hitler or Stalin.

Singer migrated to Sweden in 1934, where he was foreign correspondent for the Milwaukee Journal and the Washington Post, as well as working for Swedish newspapers.

Educated in Berlin high schools and at the University of Zurich, Switzerland, Singer came to the United States in 1940 after the fall of Norway. He was a member of the Swedish underground following the outbreak of war in Sweden in 1939.

He laughingly told how he spent two days in a Swedish jail when he was arrested for writing a biography of Hermann Goering, Nazi air force commander, which the German leader considered detrimental to him and ordered banned in Sweden.

Following the entrance of the United States into the war Singer did a great deal of espionage and intelligence work in Europe where he was a member of the Scandinavian underground and a liaison officer between the underground and Allied forces.

Mason To Aid Sen. Kimble In Legislature

Donald W. Mason, Cumberland lawyer and trial magistrate, will again serve as administrative assistant to the minority (Republican) party floor leader in the State Senate during the 1955 session of the General Assembly.

Mason served in the 1953 session in the same capacity to the same minority party floor leader, Sen. Robert B. Kimble of Allegany County. He was appointed by Gov. McKeldin.

Mason notified the County Commissioners yesterday that Gov. McKeldin had granted him leave of absence from his magisterial duties until the close of the Legislature. Substitute Magistrate Morris Baron will fill his position in court while Mason is away.

As administrative assistant, it is Mason's job to do legislative research and countless other chores requested by the floor leader, who must present the Republican governor's program to a predominately Democratic General Assembly.

Sen. Kimble is the Governor's legislative arm in the Senate and it is his duty to try for the passage of the administration-sponsored measures.

Mason, a trial magistrate in Cumberland for over two years, is a graduate of Washington and Lee University and its Law School.

His position in Annapolis will run from Saturday, January 15, to April 1.

Secretary to Sen. Kimble for the 1955 session will be Miss Phyllis Mae Green of Lonaconing, a graduate of Valley High School.

Overproduction Of Opium Brings Serious Problem

GENEVA, Switzerland, Jan. 11 (AP)—The permanent Central Opium Board of the United Nations said today world opium production has increased steadily since 1949, while exports and legal consumption declined.

The board said in its annual report this overproduction has created a "serious position," with surpluses now equal to 2½ years' normal needs. Total output jumped from 500 tons in 1949 to 1,291 tons in 1953.

The report said illegal traffic in opium and morphine continued "in and around certain Far Eastern countries and territories, such as Thailand, Malaya, Singapore, and Hong Kong. It appears that the traffickers established in Thailand may also be using that country as a supply and forwarding center."

Other disclosures by the board include:

Illegal traffic in heroin from the Mediterranean area toward North America has "shown no falling off," despite countermeasures in France, Italy, and Turkey.

There was "considerable" illegal trade in marijuana and related drugs in Africa and the Near East. Egypt was singled out as "one of the countries of attraction and transit for this particular traffic."

The board blamed Bolivia's failure to provide information for the lack of figures on world production and use of coa leaves, source of cocaine. Paraguay was mentioned as the only country which has ratified international drug control agreements but has not collaborated to make the agreements effective.

Four other countries—Liberia, Pakistan, Panama, and Communist East Germany—were criticized for failing to supply drug statistics during at least three of the past five years and for obstructing control of dangerous drugs.

The steel rotor on a modern self-propelled snow plow breaks up packed snow so that it can be removed at the rate of up to 1,200 pounds per minute.

Mason To Aid Sen. Kimble In Legislature

Donald W. Mason, Cumberland lawyer and trial magistrate, will again serve as administrative assistant to the minority (Republican) party floor leader in the State Senate during the 1955 session of the General Assembly.

Mason served in the 1953 session in the same capacity to the same minority party floor leader, Sen. Robert B. Kimble of Allegany County. He was appointed by Gov. McKeldin.

Mason notified the County Commissioners yesterday that Gov. McKeldin had granted him leave of absence from his magisterial duties until the close of the Legislature. Substitute Magistrate Morris Baron will fill his position in court while Mason is away.

As administrative assistant, it is Mason's job to do legislative research and countless other chores requested by the floor leader, who must present the Republican governor's program to a predominately Democratic General Assembly.

Sen. Kimble is the Governor's legislative arm in the Senate and it is his duty to try for the passage of the administration-sponsored measures.

Mason, a trial magistrate in Cumberland for over two years, is a graduate of Washington and Lee University and its Law School.

His position in Annapolis will run from Saturday, January 15, to April 1.

Secretary to Sen. Kimble for the 1955 session will be Miss Phyllis Mae Green of Lonaconing, a graduate of Valley High School.

Overproduction Of Opium Brings Serious Problem

GENEVA, Switzerland, Jan. 11 (AP)—The permanent Central Opium Board of the United Nations said today world opium production has increased steadily since 1949, while exports and legal consumption declined.

The board said in its annual report this overproduction has created a "serious position," with surpluses now equal to 2½ years' normal needs. Total output jumped from 500 tons in 1949 to 1,291 tons in 1953.

The report said illegal traffic in opium and morphine continued "in and around certain Far Eastern countries and territories, such as Thailand, Malaya, Singapore, and Hong Kong. It appears that the traffickers established in Thailand may also be using that country as a supply and forwarding center."

Other disclosures by the board include:

Illegal traffic in heroin from the Mediterranean area toward North America has "shown no falling off," despite countermeasures in France, Italy, and Turkey.

There was "considerable" illegal trade in marijuana and related drugs in Africa and the Near East. Egypt was singled out as "one of the countries of attraction and transit for this particular traffic."

The board blamed Bolivia's failure to provide information for the lack of figures on world production and use of coa leaves, source of cocaine. Paraguay was mentioned as the only country which has ratified international drug control agreements but has not collaborated to make the agreements effective.

Four other countries—Liberia, Pakistan, Panama, and Communist East Germany—were criticized for failing to supply drug statistics during at least three of the past five years and for obstructing control of dangerous drugs.

Wheat To Yugoslavia And A Growing Debt

Yugoslavia has been promised a grant of 850,000 tons of American wheat to tide her over until the next harvest, according to Svetozar Vukmanovic-Tempo, one of the country's four vice presidents. This is news, for the figure is double the one that had been previously announced in the United States. And Vukmanovic-Tempo said that he had been told he could come back for more if it is needed.

Since the speaker was addressing the Yugoslav parliament there is no reason to doubt that Washington is prepared to use part of the nation's wheat surplus to help out the people of Yugoslavia—and at the same time relieve the internal pressure that must concern Marshal Tito's regime. This is nothing new. The United States has been helping Yugoslavia, and therefore Tito, since shortly after her break with the comintern in 1948. But it is worth noting that assistance is continuing after going on for something like six years.

Vukmanovic-Tempo made some other interesting revelations in his speech. He said that Yugoslavia now has a foreign debt amounting to approximately $400,000,000, and that a "debt conference" with her creditors will be necessary. Some of the creditor countries have wanted such a conference for some time, and their governments should be pleased. They may be well satisfied if Yugoslavia asks only that her short and medium-term debt be changed into long-term debt. It's somewhat disconcerting, nevertheless, to have this admission that the Yugoslav government doesn't expect to get free of debt for a long time to come.

The United States has lent Yugoslavia a great deal of money during these years, some $55,000,000. Yugoslavia owes $58,000,000 to the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, which is largely financed by this country. We stand to lose if Yugoslavia does not find the means of getting out of debt. The record looks none too good.

A disturbing factor is that Tito's aversion to Moscow seems to have weakened considerably in the last year.

The Foundations

The hearings of Part I of the Tax-Exempt Foundations by the Reece Committee consist of 943 pages; the report of the committee fills 432 pages of hard reading. Nobody can possibly read all the hearings and the full report in a few hours and then write a comprehensive article on what this committee heard and did and proposes, except what can be absorbed at a glance while seeking what one wants to accept.

This much must be said: Granting that the Rockefeller and Carnegie Foundations here and there erred, particularly in grants to such organizations as the Institute of Pacific Relations, the amount of good they have done in the world is beyond calculation. Rockefeller money in medical research and education and Carnegie money in education have provided benefits to the human race far beyond measurement in dollars. This goes back to the beginning of this century, under the leadership of Drs. Abraham and Simon Flexner and Alexis Carrel and a host of others who devoted themselves to the obliteration of disease and the prolongation of human life. This work continues to the present moment and any study of the foundations which ignores it is inadequate.

The same cannot be said of the Ford Foundation which has devoted itself to politics, that is to current questions that have a present political implication. If Rockefeller and Carnegie grants to individuals and organizations work out that way, it is incidental to important projects of permanent value. When the Ford Foundation matures and rids itself of opportunism, it too may use its funds for less temporary values. In fact, the only justification for freeing foundations from the burdens of taxation which the rest of us have to carry is that the work they do is of permanent social value.

The study of the foundation, as an institution, ought not to be based solely on errors of judgment or faulty operations, but also upon the value of a reserve of private capital to be used for the public advantage. Were it not for the legal institution of the foundation, many businesses and private fortunes would be dissipated by punitive tax laws and their proceeds would have gone down the drain in the profligate and often pointless expenditures of government bureaucrats whose doctrine has not too rarely been to spend for the sake of spending.

If there is a peril to the nation in the existence of foundations, it is in the failure of the Treasury Department, which has supervision over them to the extent that it can withdraw from them tax exemptions, adequately to supervise their expenditures to make certain that exemptions are not evasions. For instance, expenditures directly or indirectly for political advantage cannot be included in any statement of justifiable tax exemptions, but when foundations contribute to hospitals, schools, colleges and churches, to medical research, to the prevention of disease and the elimination of affliction, no one can quarrel with them. It is not understandable how the Fund for the Republic comes within this category.

An excellent example of how foundations get into trouble by expending funds for current problems is in the quarrel between the Carnegie Foundation and the American Bar Association over the Genocide Convention. The Carnegie Foundation gave the American Bar Association a grant to study genocide, a very vexed problem. What the American Bar Association did about this displeased the Carnegie Foundation. The Reece Committee report says of it:

"Without going into details of the controversy, which involved some rather sharp correspondence, we conclude from the facts that Mr. Johnson's irritation stemmed from the bar association's having dared to condemn the Genocide Convention." (Joseph E. Johnson is president of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.)

This controversy was, in many respects, silly and a negation of the independence of scholarship. Apparently, the American Bar Association did not receive a grant to study the problem of genocide but a subvention to favor the Carnegie Foundation's particular views on the subject. That is not scholarship; it is bribery and an excellent example of the fault in using vast accumulations of wealth to influence or even control public opinion on current problems. This function should clearly be forbidden by law, because if foundations are permitted to use their enormous wealth as public opinion molders, it could produce an unwholesome conformity and orthodoxy in this country.

"Now For Heaven's Sake Be Careful!"

Red China Takes Step To Blackmail Way Into U. N.

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—The first step in Red China's effort to blackmail her way into the United Nations has been taken. A reading between the lines of the latest dispatches from India indicates the workings of the Communist scheme.

It would have been grossly impolitic and crude if, immediately after the visit of the secretary general of the U. N., there had been an announcement from Peiping saying that the Red China government had decided to release the 11 American fliers imprisoned on an alleged spy offense. This would have meant a loss of "face" in the Far East for the Red China government. Conversely, it would have been a slap at the United Nations if the Peiping government had announced that it refused to release the Americans. Red China would naturally wish to avoid making a bad impression on the members of the U. N. before whom the question of admitting the Peiping government must come for decision.

Dispatch From New Delhi

So the way that diplomacy employs is to issue a communique in general phrases and to provide for voluntary action on both sides leading to a deal. The key to the situation and an indication of what's coming is to be found in a well-informed dispatch by the United Press from New Delhi, India, where Prime Minister Nehru holds forth as a sort of unofficial mediator between the East and West. The dispatch from New Delhi is the most significant piece of news about the visit of the U. N.'s secretary general to Peiping. It says:

"Highly placed Indian sources said the government of India has 'suggested' to Red China that it would be wise for China to release 11 imprisoned U. S. airmen. These sources said India recommended that the Chinese Communists yield on the issue in the interest of easing tension between the U. S. and the Peiping regime.

"India also was understood to feel that a concession by China on the imprisoned airmen would pave the way for a future appeal by Red China for a seat in the U. N. India was said to have communicated its views on the matter to Red Chinese Foreign Minister Chou En-lai.

"India was said to have stressed that release of the imprisoned airmen would influence the United States to permit 35 Chinese students in the U. S. to return to Red China."

Now the language of the communique—issued in New York at United Nations headquarters after a message from the secretary general at Peiping—is also significant. First are mentioned the resolutions adopted by the U. N. which prompted the visit of the secretary general in connection with the sentencing of the 11 U. S. airmen, and then the communique says:

"In these talks, reference was made at the same time to questions pertinent to the relaxation of world tension. We feel that these talks have been useful and we hope to be able to continue the contact established in these meetings."

Negotiations For A Deal

This is but another way of hinting that negotiations for a deal are on. It implies that, while neither side will ever concede officially that there was a bargain or agreement to release the 11 airmen in exchange for the 35 Chinese students held in America, that's what it can eventually turn out to be. But even this would not seem to be all that the Red China government is expecting to get. India has held out hope that the U. N. may admit Red China.

Already in the United States a propaganda has been carried on by various well-meaning citizens who feel that U. S. recognition should be extended to Red China and trade restrictions should be relaxed. But the United States government has committed itself to the support of the Nationalist government which holds Formosa, and it is difficult to see how the Department of State can alter its position. But this does not necessarily have any bearing on the attitude of the other members of the U. N. The U. S. can be outvoted.

So, Red China may release the 11 airmen and take it for granted that, without any specific commitment to that effect, the secretary general of the U. N. will "pave the way," as the New Delhi dispatch phrases it, for the admission of Red China to the U. N.

In Geneva it was rumored last spring that the Red Chinese were holding some Americans for ransom. The price was not indicated then. But the secretary general of the U. N. now knows the price, and it's up to the U. N. to decide whether it will be a party to a sell-out or whether it will uphold the principles of international law which require the release of the 11 airmen without conditions.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Congress has been in official seance just one week from this paragraph.

It hasn't started to scratch gravel yet but is feeling its way like a meter reader with a box of wet matches.

The plimsoll mark for accrued conjecture will be the well strained puree of rapport between Capitol Hill and the White House. Ike's word will be the law. But Congress will supply the amendment.

The Democrats are looking through the cellaphonic 1955 page on the calendar into 1956. They are sunning themselves in the afterglow of a slight parliamentary edge.

The GOP is fissioned to the nines over the Randall Commission tariff schedule. It figures dropping the protective excises fifteen per cent is dynamiting Boulder Dam just to get a fish dinner.

Naturally, the freshly sharpened Democrats are playing that one for a dead-hoss parley. They are voting with Ike on the Randall blueprints to the last man and his brother-in-law.

The Democrats have been out of power two years and were champing at the bit. Ike doesn't care much so long as they don't bite the champ.

The unbalanced political diet makes for filibusters and compromises. A summary of the partisan phalanxes might be entitled, "New Faces in the Old Seats."

With the GOP pouring trouble on the oiled waters Ike will have to re-arrange the floor space. A house divided against itself can be turned into two nice apartments.

It may be that Ike's coat-tails will be put back on the passenger run. This time to accommodate the Democrats who will vote for his reciprocal trade gimmick.

This session is going to be like the old Rufftown days. Both the folks and the bears liked honey. But we were fair about it. We let the bears take the honey from the bees. Then we took it away from the bears.

White House, Getting Rid Of Political Liabilities, Will Fire Charles Willis

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The White House has finally decided to jettison some of its political liabilities. In particular, it has given notice to bright, nosy, ambitious Charles Willis that he will be out of a job in 45 days.

Charley Willis is the White House aide who has made himself the "secretary in charge of jobs," the "secretary in charge of handing out TV licenses," and the "secretary in charge of interstate commerce." A nice guy, but too busy for his own good; he has stepped on more people's toes than anyone, save Sherman Adams.

Even though his father-in-law is none other than Harvey Firestone of the Firestone Rubber Company, friend and heavy supporter of Ike's, Willis is being given the ax.

Gen. Harry Vaughan got a lot of publicity for pulling wires for pals and handing out deep freezes, but Charley Willis has made Vaughan a piker in comparison. Instead of dealing in deep freezes, he has dealt in TV licenses worth millions and airline routes worth even more. He has had two FCCommissioners, John Doerfer and Robert E. Lee, in the palm of his hand and hasn't hesitated to tell them bluntly and baldly to give TV licenses to certain publishers because they helped the Republican party.

Particularly, Willis passed this word to the FCC regarding the hotly contested TV license in the St. Petersburg, Fla., area, when the license was about to go to the St. Petersburg Times, he stepped in, told Republican commissioners on the FCC to reverse themselves and reward a group dominated by the Richmond, Va., News-Leader and Times-Dispatch, which supported Eisenhower.

Stepped On Civil Defense

Willis also got in wrong—even with Republicans—because of his zeal in planting Republicans in career jobs. In doing so he won the name "Jobs-for-Republicans" Willis. What caused the trouble was the way he rode roughshod over Civil Service laws, thereby incurring certain Democratic investigations.

Juggling jobs, of course, is a thankless assignment. In the first place, Willis had more available applicants than available jobs. He also had to clear each applicant with three or four senators and congressmen, get the endorsement of the local politicians, check with the GOP National Committee, keep the White House happy—yet supposedly not violate the Civil Service laws against political appointments.

At first, Willis got into "hot water" with the Republicans on Capitol Hill, who complained they weren't consulted. Then, he worked out a system for clearing federal jobs quietly with GOP senators and congressmen. But his plan leaked to the papers and stirred up a public protest.

Now, the Democrats are laying for Willis for circumventing the Civil Service laws. Right-wing Republicans are sore at him for not allotting them enough jobs. They have also embarked on a campaign of sniping at the "palace guard" around President Eisenhower. Willis is one of the most vulnerable members of the "palace guard." So the White House has concluded that its sad-eyed patronage boss is expendable. He has been given polite but firm notice to resign.

NOTE—Some Republicans interpret the firing of Charley Willis as a sign Ike is clearing the decks in order to get ready to run again. Nothing could be further from the case. First, Ike knows little about these patronage natters, in fact little about detailed matters around the White House. He specifically asked not to be bothered. Second, the real reason for Willis's exit is to beat the Democrats to the punch when they start probing Civil Service scandals.

FBI Intervenes

J. Edgar Hoover, who deserted his usual non-political position to support Senator McCarthy, has made another interesting backstage move. Two of his G-men came up to the Senate the other day and advised Sen. Harley Kilgore, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, to retain Richard Arends as counsel of the Judiciary Committee.

This is highly unsual advice. For members of the executive branch of government do not advise the legislative branch in the American system of checks and balances, especially when there is an inference that the FBI would not cooperate if Arends were removed.

Arends happens to be a McCarran appointee who has run afoul of two important senators on the committee for which he is counsel. One is Tom Hennings of Missouri who defeated Sen. Forrest Donnell, Republican of Missouri, when Arends served as administrative assistant and worked against Hennings.

The other senator who doesn't like Arends is Republican Arthur Watkins of Utah. Watkins had charge of writing the Immigration Bill at the last session of Congress and, despite the fact that he was a conscientious chairman of the Immigration subcommittee and held protracted hearings, Arends rewrote the bill without consulting Senator Watkins.

Arends had the effrontery to read the rewritten bill in full committee while Senator Watkins, the dumfounded original author, sat and listened. There was no apology to Watkins. He had to sit and take it.

Today, both Watkins and Hennings are demanding that Arends be dropped as committee counsel. It will be interesting to see whether Chairman Kilgore listens to his fellow senators or the FBI.

Athletic Congressman

Young Torbert "Torby" MacDonald, freshman congressman from Massachusetts who gave up a promising athletic career for politics, got a big hand when introduced to the House Democratic caucus.

"Stand aside, you Yale men," taunted Majority Leader John McCormack. "Here's the man who caught the forward pass that beat Yale in football in 1938."

McCormack added that MacDonald, who captained the Harvard football team, also was a promising rookie in the New York Yankees baseball system, playing the outfield for Newark, N. J., and Binghamton, N. Y., after graduating from Harvard.

Democratic Congresswoman Edna F. Kelly of Brooklyn, secretary of the caucus, was impressed. Surveying the handsome young MacDonald, Mrs. Kelly declared: "I don't know what his batting average was in the Yankee chain, but it's easy to see why he made a hit with the women voters of Massachusetts."

Laughter With Tears

By Bob Considine

NEW YORK (INS) — Last Tuesday Bob Hope called his friend Toots Shor after a preview of his brilliant forthcoming picture "Eddie Foy," and said, "I'm going to take Charlie Yates west. He doesn't look good."

Yates was Hope's stage and personal appearance manager for years.

Saturday night, with his wonderful Thule (Greenland) Air Force Base filmed show all set to be TV-screened Sunday evening, Hope drove Yates to Palm Springs from L. A. It turned out to be more of a Saturday night than anybody feared, but Yates was up bright and early Sunday afternoon and asked Hope to play golf with him. Hope felt terrible, but being the great guy he is he said okay. They rented one of those electric carts to keep from walking around the desert course.

Hope Was Crying

Part way around, Yates got out of the cart, hit a tremendous 4-iron to the green, and went back to the conveyance. Hope was about to hit his own shot when his friend suddenly toppled out of the cart, dead.

A few hours later, millions of Americans were laughing with or at Bob Hope on TV, via the show he filmed during his gracious New Year's trip to the forlorn Air Force base in Malenkov's vestibule. But Hope . . . he was crying.

In its issue of October 14, 1953, the ancient and honorable British magazine "Punch" printed what was (and is) to me an inscrutable bit of poetry by the distinguished Robert Graves.

CONSIDINE

"Why," they demand, "with so much yet unknown
Anticipate the final colophon
Where the book fails among appendices
And indices?"
"To count the tale almost as good as done
Would be intimidation by the sun,
That tap-house bully with his mounting score
Chalked on the door.
"Look at Sam Shepherd, ruinously white,
With marrow in his bones to leap all night!"
Yet Considine sits dead from the neck down,
With not a tooth lost and a beard still brown,
Curse of the town.

To repeat: The date was October 14, 1953. At which time I was probably writing the clean-up on the World Series and Dr. Sam Sheppard was an obscure osteopath in an obscurer place named Bay Village, Ohio.

Can anyone supply me chapter and verse?

Keen Analysis

I suppose one would have to be an old baseball writer or confirmed fan to appreciate a retort overheard at last Saturday night's annual Touchdown Club dinner in Washington. Bud Wilkinson, the coach of the Oklahoma football team, was telling the audience his concept of the difference between baseball and football. In his discourse he said:

"Now take baseball. A shortstop fields a grounder and throws over to first to catch the runner. If the first baseman drops the ball it's the first baseman's error — not the shortstop's."

At that precise moment a very proper souse woke up and, with as keen an analysis as we've heard in years, remarked, "The throw was low."

In Considering Health, Don't Neglect Overall Picture

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many individuals have definite ideas about health and do not hesitate to make them known. A Chicago railroad believes, "As you think, so you are. Forget things not worth thinking about."

This railroader is 53, has never been ill, and claims he feels like a man of 30. His theory will not prevent him from developing scurvy, amebic dysentery, cancer, or typhoid fever if conditions are right for their appearance.

But good mental hygiene will help to make his happy, keep down his blood pressure, and go a long way toward preventing ulcer, angina pectoris, and a host of nervous disorders. In this respect, there are many facets to health and people who have a single remedy for everything are neglecting the over-all picture.

Several months ago an 87-year-old man told me his pulse was "skipping from 30 to 40 beats a minute." He spent his time sitting around, reading, smoking, eating, and sleeping. The octogenarian was advised to take a daily walk and curb his smoking.

Last month he sent a followup report, stating his pulse is regular and no longer skips a beat. I was not surprised because this type of pulse irregularity (extrasystole) usually is due to over-indulgence in tobacco, coffee, or tea and is most noticeable when sitting quietly or lying down. Moderation in his caffeine and nicotine consumption and a little activity were all this old-timer needed.

A New Yorker put me down a peg by criticizing the article on baggy eyelids, saying I blame everything but the real cause. He figures that "some of the fatty tissue has thinned out in this area and the skin sags because the usual fat is not there to hold it up." I am challenged to prove his theory. He did not sign his name.

Plastic surgeons have demonstrated repeatedly that the baggy appearance of the eyelids frequently is due to the presence (not absence) of fat. I doubt if my complaining reader has opened one of these pads and looked in. This is the difference between practical and theoretical experience.

A Chicago reader was impressed with the article warning mothers about the hazards associated with pulling or lifting small children by jerking the tot's arm. She advises a harness to solve the problem, even though it "smacks of animal guidance." This worthy suggestion is superior to the barbaric practice of yanking a youngster by the arm in crossing the street or after a fall.

Another reader wanted to know why I said cataracts need not ripen when eye doctors claim they must be ripe before removal I do not know of any up-to-date ophthalmologist who follows this theory, which was discarded several decades ago.

TOMORROW: Cancer of the breast.

Wheat To Yugoslavia And A Growing Debt

Yugoslavia has been promised a grant of 850,000 tons of American wheat to tide her over until the next harvest, according to Svetozar Vukmanovic-Tempo, one of the country's four vice presidents. This is news, for the figure is double the one that had been previously announced in the United States. And Vukmanovic-Tempo said that he had been told he could come back for more if it is needed.

Since the speaker was addressing the Yugoslav parliament there is no reason to doubt that Washington is prepared to use part of the nation's wheat surplus to help out the people of Yugoslavia—and at the same time relieve the internal pressure that must concern Marshal Tito's regime. This is nothing new. The United States has been helping Yugoslavia, and therefore Tito, since shortly after her break with the comintern in 1948. But it is worth noting that assistance is continuing after going on for something like six years.

Vukmanovic-Tempo made some other interesting revelations in his speech. He said that Yugoslavia now has a foreign debt amounting to approximately $400,000,000, and that a "debt conference" with her creditors will be necessary. Some of the creditor countries have wanted such a conference for some time, and their governments should be pleased. They may be well satisfied if Yugoslavia asks only that her short and medium-term debt be changed into long-term debt. It's somewhat disconcerting, nevertheless, to have this admission that the Yugoslav government doesn't expect to get free of debt for a long time to come.

The United States has lent Yugoslavia a great deal of money during these years, some $55,000,000. Yugoslavia owes $58,000,000 to the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, which is largely financed by this country. We stand to lose if Yugoslavia does not find the means of getting out of debt. The record looks none too good.

A disturbing factor is that Tito's aversion to Moscow seems to have weakened considerably in the last year.

The Foundations

The hearings of Part I of the Tax-Exempt Foundations by the Reece Committee consist of 943 pages; the report of the committee fills 432 pages of hard reading. Nobody can possibly read all the hearings and the full report in a few hours and then write a comprehensive article on what this committee heard and did and proposes, except what can be absorbed at a glance while seeking what one wants to accept.

This much must be said: Granting that the Rockefeller and Carnegie Foundations here and there erred, particularly in grants to such organizations as the Institute of Pacific Relations, the amount of good they have done in the world is beyond calculation. Rockefeller money in medical research and education and Carnegie money in education have provided benefits to the human race far beyond measurement in dollars. This goes back to the beginning of this century, under the leadership of Drs. Abraham and Simon Flexner and Alexis Carrel and a host of others who devoted themselves to the obliteration of disease and the prolongation of human life. This work continues to the present moment and any study of the foundations which ignores it is inadequate.

The same cannot be said of the Ford Foundation which has devoted itself to politics, that is to current questions that have a present political implication. If Rockefeller and Carnegie grants to individuals and organizations work out that way, it is incidental to important projects of permanent value. When the Ford Foundation matures and rids itself of opportunism, it too may use its funds for less temporary values. In fact, the only justification for freeing foundations from the burdens of taxation which the rest of us have to carry is that the work they do is of permanent social value.

The study of the foundation, as an institution, ought not to be based solely on errors of judgment or faulty operations, but also upon the value of a reserve of private capital to be used for the public advantage. Were it not for the legal institution of the foundation, many businesses and private fortunes would be dissipated by punitive tax laws and their proceeds would have gone down the drain in the profligate and often pointless expenditures of government bureaucrats whose doctrine has not too rarely been to spend for the sake of spending.

If there is a peril to the nation in the existence of foundations, it is in the failure of the Treasury Department, which has supervision over them to the extent that it can withdraw from them tax exemptions, adequately to supervise their expenditures to make certain that exemptions are not evasions. For instance, expenditures directly or indirectly for political advantage cannot be included in any statement of justifiable tax exemptions, but when foundations contribute to hospitals, schools, colleges and churches, to medical research, to the prevention of disease and the elimination of affliction, no one can quarrel with them. It is not understandable how the Fund for the Republic comes within this category.

An excellent example of how foundations get into trouble by expending funds for current problems is in the quarrel between the Carnegie Foundation and the American Bar Association over the Genocide Convention. The Carnegie Foundation gave the American Bar Association a grant to study genocide, a very vexed problem. What the American Bar Association did about this displeased the Carnegie Foundation. The Reece Committee report says of it:

"Without going into details of the controversy, which involved some rather sharp correspondence, we conclude from the facts that Mr. Johnson's irritation stemmed from the bar association's having dared to condemn the Genocide Convention." (Joseph E. Johnson is president of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.)

This controversy was, in many respects, silly and a negation of the independence of scholarship. Apparently, the American Bar Association did not receive a grant to study the problem of genocide but a subvention to favor the Carnegie Foundation's particular views on the subject. That is not scholarship; it is bribery and an excellent example of the fault in using vast accumulations of wealth to influence or even control public opinion on current problems. This function should clearly be forbidden by law, because if foundations are permitted to use their enormous wealth as public opinion molders, it could produce an unwholesome conformity and orthodoxy in this country.

"Now For Heaven's Sake Be Careful!"

White House, Getting Rid Of Political Liabilities, Will Fire Charles Willis

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The White House has finally decided to jettison some of its political liabilities. In particular, it has given notice to bright, nosy, ambitious Charles Willis that he will be out of a job in 45 days.

Charley Willis is the White House aide who has made himself the "secretary in charge of jobs," the "secretary in charge of handing out TV licenses," and the "secretary in charge of interstate commerce." A nice guy, but too busy for his own good; he has stepped on more people's toes than anyone, save Sherman Adams.

Even though his father-in-law is none other than Harvey Firestone of the Firestone Rubber Company, friend and heavy supporter of Ike's, Willis is being given the ax.

Gen. Harry Vaughan got a lot of publicity for pulling wires for pals and handing out deep freezes, but Charley Willis has made Vaughan a piker in comparison. Instead of dealing in deep freezes, he has dealt in TV licenses worth millions and airline routes worth even more. He has had two FCCommissioners, John Doerfer and Robert E. Lee, in the palm of his hand and hasn't hesitated to tell them bluntly and baldly to give TV licenses to certain publishers because they helped the Republican party.

Particularly, Willis passed this word to the FCC regarding the hotly contested TV license in the St. Petersburg, Fla., area, when the license was about to go to the St. Petersburg Times, he stepped in, told Republican commissioners on the FCC to reverse themselves and reward a group dominated by the Richmond, Va., News-Leader and Times-Dispatch, which supported Eisenhower.

Stepped On Civil Defense

Willis also got in wrong—even with Republicans—because of his zeal in planting Republicans in career jobs. In doing so he won the name "Jobs-for-Republicans" Willis. What caused the trouble was the way he rode roughshod over Civil Service laws, thereby incurring certain Democratic investigations.

Juggling jobs, of course, is a thankless assignment. In the first place, Willis had more available applicants than available jobs. He also had to clear each applicant with three or four senators and congressmen, get the endorsement of the local politicians, check with the GOP National Committee, keep the White House happy—yet supposedly not violate the Civil Service laws against political appointments.

At first, Willis got into "hot water" with the Republicans on Capitol Hill, who complained they weren't consulted. Then, he worked out a system for clearing federal jobs quietly with GOP senators and congressmen. But his plan leaked to the papers and stirred up a public protest.

Now, the Democrats are laying for Willis for circumventing the Civil Service laws. Right-wing Republicans are sore at him for not allotting them enough jobs. They have also embarked on a campaign of sniping at the "palace guard" around President Eisenhower. Willis is one of the most vulnerable members of the "palace guard." So the White House has concluded that its sad-eyed patronage boss is expendable. He has been given polite but firm notice to resign.

NOTE—Some Republicans interpret the firing of Charley Willis as a sign Ike is clearing the decks in order to get ready to run again. Nothing could be further from the case. First, Ike knows little about these patronage natters, in fact little about detailed matters around the White House. He specifically asked not to be bothered. Second, the real reason for Willis's exit is to beat the Democrats to the punch when they start probing Civil Service scandals.

FBI Intervenes

J. Edgar Hoover, who deserted his usual non-political position to support Senator McCarthy, has made another interesting backstage move. Two of his G-men came up to the Senate the other day and advised Sen. Harley Kilgore, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, to retain Richard Arends as counsel of the Judiciary Committee.

This is highly unsual advice. For members of the executive branch of government do not advise the legislative branch in the American system of checks and balances, especially when there is an inference that the FBI would not cooperate if Arends were removed.

Arends happens to be a McCarran appointee who has run afoul of two important senators on the committee for which he is counsel. One is Tom Hennings of Missouri who defeated Sen. Forrest Donnell, Republican of Missouri, when Arends served as administrative assistant and worked against Hennings.

The other senator who doesn't like Arends is Republican Arthur Watkins of Utah. Watkins had charge of writing the Immigration Bill at the last session of Congress and, despite the fact that he was a conscientious chairman of the Immigration subcommittee and held protracted hearings, Arends rewrote the bill without consulting Senator Watkins.

Arends had the effrontery to read the rewritten bill in full committee while Senator Watkins, the dumfounded original author, sat and listened. There was no apology to Watkins. He had to sit and take it.

Today, both Watkins and Hennings are demanding that Arends be dropped as committee counsel. It will be interesting to see whether Chairman Kilgore listens to his fellow senators or the FBI.

Athletic Congressman

Young Torbert "Torby" MacDonald, freshman congressman from Massachusetts who gave up a promising athletic career for politics, got a big hand when introduced to the House Democratic caucus.

"Stand aside, you Yale men," taunted Majority Leader John McCormack. "Here's the man who caught the forward pass that beat Yale in football in 1938."

McCormack added that MacDonald, who captained the Harvard football team, also was a promising rookie in the New York Yankees baseball system, playing the outfield for Newark, N. J., and Binghamton, N. Y., after graduating from Harvard.

Democratic Congresswoman Edna F. Kelly of Brooklyn, secretary of the caucus, was impressed. Surveying the handsome young MacDonald, Mrs. Kelly declared: "I don't know what his batting average was in the Yankee chain, but it's easy to see why he made a hit with the women voters of Massachusetts."

Red China Takes Step To Blackmail Way Into U. N.

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—The first step in Red China's effort to blackmail her way into the United Nations has been taken. A reading between the lines of the latest dispatches from India indicates the workings of the Communist scheme.

It would have been grossly impolitic and crude if, immediately after the visit of the secretary general of the U. N., there had been an announcement from Peiping saying that the Red China government had decided to release the 11 American fliers imprisoned on an alleged spy offense. This would have meant a loss of "face" in the Far East for the Red China government. Conversely, it would have been a slap at the United Nations if the Peiping government had announced that it refused to release the Americans. Red China would naturally wish to avoid making a bad impression on the members of the U. N. before whom the question of admitting the Peiping government must come for decision.

Dispatch From New Delhi

So the way that diplomacy employs is to issue a communique in general phrases and to provide for voluntary action on both sides leading to a deal. The key to the situation and an indication of what's coming is to be found in a well-informed dispatch by the United Press from New Delhi, India, where Prime Minister Nehru holds forth as a sort of unofficial mediator between the East and West. The dispatch from New Delhi is the most significant piece of news about the visit of the U. N.'s secretary general to Peiping. It says:

"Highly placed Indian sources said the government of India has 'suggested' to Red China that it would be wise for China to release 11 imprisoned U. S. airmen. These sources said India recommended that the Chinese Communists yield on the issue in the interest of easing tension between the U. S. and the Peiping regime.

"India also was understood to feel that a concession by China on the imprisoned airmen would pave the way for a future appeal by Red China for a seat in the U. N. India was said to have communicated its views on the matter to Red Chinese Foreign Minister Chou En-lai.

"India was said to have stressed that release of the imprisoned airmen would influence the United States to permit 35 Chinese students in the U. S. to return to Red China."

Now the language of the communique—issued in New York at United Nations headquarters after a message from the secretary general at Peiping—is also significant. First are mentioned the resolutions adopted by the U. N. which prompted the visit of the secretary general in connection with the sentencing of the 11 U. S. airmen, and then the communique says:

"In these talks, reference was made at the same time to questions pertinent to the relaxation of world tension. We feel that these talks have been useful and we hope to be able to continue the contact established in these meetings."

Negotiations For A Deal

This is but another way of hinting that negotiations for a deal are on. It implies that, while neither side will ever concede officially that there was a bargain or agreement to release the 11 airmen in exchange for the 35 Chinese students held in America, that's what it can eventually turn out to be. But even this would not seem to be all that the Red China government is expecting to get. India has held out hope that the U. N. may admit Red China.

Already in the United States a propaganda has been carried on by various well-meaning citizens who feel that U. S. recognition should be extended to Red China and trade restrictions should be relaxed. But the United States government has committed itself to the support of the Nationalist government which holds Formosa, and it is difficult to see how the Department of State can alter its position. But this does not necessarily have any bearing on the attitude of the other members of the U. N. The U. S. can be outvoted.

So, Red China may release the 11 airmen and take it for granted that, without any specific commitment to that effect, the secretary general of the U. N. will "pave the way," as the New Delhi dispatch phrases it, for the admission of Red China to the U. N.

In General it was rumored last spring that the Red Chinese were holding some Americans for ransom. The price was not indicated then. But the secretary general of the U. N. now knows the price, and it's up to the U. N. to decide whether it will be a party to a sell-out or whether it will uphold the principles of international law which require the release of the 11 airmen without conditions.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Congress has been in official seance just one week from this paragraph.

It hasn't started to scratch gravel yet but is feeling its way like a meter reader with a box of wet matches.

The plimsoll mark for accrued conjecture will be the well strained puree of rapport between Capitol Hill and the White House. Ike's word will be the law. But Congress will supply the amendment.

The Democrats are looking through the cellaphonic 1955 page on the calendar into 1956. They are sunning themselves in the afterglow of a slight parliamentary edge.

The GOP is fissioned to the nines over the Randall Commission tariff schedule. It figures dropping the protective excises fifteen per cent is dynamiting Boulder Dam just to get a fish dinner.

Naturally, the freshly sharpened Democrats are playing that one for a dead-hoss parley. They are voting with Ike on the Randall blueprints to the last man and his brother-in-law.

The Democrats have been out of power two years and were champing at the bit. Ike doesn't care much so long as they don't bite the champ.

The unbalanced political diet makes for filibusters and compromises. A summary of the partisan phalanxes might be entitled, "New Faces in the Old Seats."

With the GOP pouring trouble on the oiled waters Ike will have to re-arrange the floor space. A house divided against itself can be turned into two nice apartments.

It may be that Ike's coat-tails will be put back on the passenger run. This time to accommodate the Democrats who will vote for his reciprocal trade gimmick.

This session is going to be like the old Rufftown days. Both the folks and the bears liked honey. But we were fair about it. We let the bears take the honey from the bees. Then we took it away from the bears.

Laughter With Tears

By Bob Considine

NEW YORK (INS) — Last Tuesday Bob Hope called his friend Toots Shor after a preview of his brilliant forthcoming picture "Eddie Foy," and said, "I'm going to take Charlie Yates west. He doesn't look good."

Yates was Hope's stage and personal appearance manager for years.

Saturday night, with his wonderful Thule (Greenland) Air Force Base filmed show all set to be TV-screened Sunday evening, Hope drove Yates to Palm Springs from L. A. It turned out to be more of a Saturday night than anybody feared, but Yates was up bright and early Sunday afternoon and asked Hope to play golf with him. Hope felt terrible, but being the great guy he is he said okay. They rented one of those electric carts to keep from walking around the desert course.

Hope Was Crying

Part way around, Yates got out of the cart, hit a tremendous 4-iron to the green, and went back to the conveyance. Hope was about to hit his own shot when his friend suddenly toppled out of the cart, dead.

A few hours later, millions of Americans were laughing with or at Bob Hope on TV, via the show he filmed during his gracious New Year's trip to the forlorn Air Force base in Malenkov's vestibule. But Hope . . . he was crying.

In its issue of October 14, 1953, the ancient and honorable British magazine "Punch" printed what was (and is) to me an inscrutable bit of poetry by the distinguished Robert Graves.

CONSIDINE

"Why," they demand, "with so much yet unknown
Anticipate the final colophon
Where the book fails among appendices
And indices?"
"To count the tale almost as good as done
Would be intimidation by the sun,
That tap-house bully with his mounting score
Chalked on the door.
"Look at Sam Shepherd, ruinously white,
With marrow in his bones to leap all night!"
Yet Considine sits dead from the neck down,
With not a tooth lost and a beard still brown,
Curse of the town.

To repeat: The date was October 14, 1953. At which time I was probably writing the clean-up on the World Series and Dr. Sam Sheppard was an obscure osteopath in an obscurer place named Bay Village, Ohio.

Can anyone supply me chapter and verse?

Keen Analysis

I suppose one would have to be an old baseball writer or confirmed fan to appreciate a retort overheard at last Saturday night's annual Touchdown Club dinner in Washington. Bud Wilkinson, the coach of the Oklahoma football team, was telling the audience his concept of the difference between baseball and football. In his discourse he said:

"Now take baseball. A shortstop fields a grounder and throws over to first to catch the runner. If the first baseman drops the ball it's the first baseman's error — not the shortstop's."

At that precise moment a very proper souse woke up and, with as keen an analysis as we've heard in years, remarked, "The throw was low."

In Considering Health, Don't Neglect Overall Picture

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many individuals have definite ideas about health and do not hesitate to make them known. A Chicago railroad believes, "As you think, so you are. Forget things not worth thinking about."

This railroader is 53, has never been ill, and claims he feels like a man of 30. His theory will not prevent him from developing scurvy, amebic dysentery, cancer, or typhoid fever if conditions are right for their appearance.

But good mental hygiene will help to make his happy, keep down his blood pressure, and go a long way toward preventing ulcer, angina pectoris, and a host of nervous disorders. In this respect, there are many facets to health and people who have a single remedy for everything are neglecting the over-all picture.

Several months ago an 87-year-old man told me his pulse was "skipping from 30 to 40 beats a minute." He spent his time sitting around, reading, smoking, eating, and sleeping. The octogenarian was advised to take a daily walk and curb his smoking.

Last month he sent a followup report, stating his pulse is regular and no longer skips a beat. I was not surprised because this type of pulse irregularity (extrasystole) usually is due to over-indulgence in tobacco, coffee, or tea and is most noticeable when sitting quietly or lying down. Moderation in his caffeine and nicotine consumption and a little activity were all this old-timer needed.

A New Yorker put me down a peg by criticizing the article on baggy eyelids, saying I blame everything but the real cause. He figures that "some of the fatty tissue has thinned out in this area and the skin sags because the usual fat is not there to hold it up." I am challenged to prove his theory. He did not sign his name.

Plastic surgeons have demonstrated repeatedly that the baggy appearance of the eyelids frequently is due to the presence (not absence) of fat. I doubt if my complaining reader has opened one of these pads and looked in. This is the difference between practical and theoretical experience.

A Chicago reader was impressed with the article warning mothers about the hazards associated with pulling or lifting small children by jerking the tot's arm. She advises a harness to solve the problem, even though it "smacks of animal guidance." This worthy suggestion is superior to the barbaric practice of yanking a youngster by the arm in crossing the street or after a fall.

Another reader wanted to know why I said cataracts need not ripen when eye doctors claim they must be ripe before removal I do not know of any up-to-date ophthalmologist who follows this theory, which was discarded several decades ago.

TOMORROW: Cancer of the breast.

Campers Beat Beall Cagers In 65-50 Tilt

Breedlove, Haines Share 31 Tallies; AHS Climbs To .500

By TED TROXELL

A hot-shooting, vastly improved Allegany High basketball team climbed into the .500 circle for the first time this season as it downed the Beall High Mountaineers, 65-50, last night at Campobello. It was Coach Walter L. "Bill" Bowers' quint's fourth win in eight starts.

The locals jumped off to an 18-5 lead with 2:20 to go in the first quarter, but the Mounties, after calling time out, caged four quick fielders to close the gap to 18-13 as the quarter ended.

The Mountain City aggregation managed to hold the lead in the contest once. This was midway in the thrid period when a one-hand jump shot by center Dallas Chaney gave Coach "Ebbie" Finzel's crew a two-point edge, 33-31. Jim Sigler's goal had tied the contest at 31-all.

Early in the final period Beall pulled to within two points of the Campers, successive goals by Hawkins and Chaney putting the score at 43-41. After Rodney Breedlove connected on a jump shot for the Campers, Chaney countered with a hook.

Breedlove and Ronnie Bruce scored on one-handers for Alco, and Carl Brown, rugged sophomore center who replaced Hugh "Hammy" Steele in the third period, caged three consecutive shots and from this point on, it was strictly "no contest."

Another sophomore, guard Mike Lease, hit on five of six attempts from the floor, while Breedlove and Allan Haines were Allegany's leading scorers with 16 and 15 points respectively. Chaney was the evening's top scorer, collecting 18 points.

The West Siders took 63 shots from the floor, hitting on 28, for a spectacular .445 percentage. Beall connected 18 times in 57 tries for a mark of .316.

Allegany's Jayvees defeated Beall in the opening game, 58-34. Kenny Johnson and Ronnie Diehl with 21 and 16 points paced the victors. Lineups:

By TED TROXELL

A hot-shooting, vastly improved Allegany High basketball team climbed into the .500 circle for the first time this season as it downed the Beall High Mountaineers, 65-50, last night at Campobello. It was Coach Walter L. "Bill" Bowers' quint's fourth win in eight starts.

The locals jumped off to an 18-5 lead with 2:20 to go in the first quarter, but the Mounties, after calling time out, caged four quick fielders to close the gap to 18-13 as the quarter ended.

The Mountain City aggregation managed to hold the lead in the contest once. This was midway in the thrid period when a one-hand jump shot by center Dallas Chaney gave Coach "Ebbie" Finzel's crew a two-point edge, 33-31. Jim Sigler's goal had tied the contest at 31-all.

Early in the final period Beall pulled to within two points of the Campers, successive goals by Hawkins and Chaney putting the score at 43-41. After Rodney Breedlove connected on a jump shot for the Campers, Chaney countered with a hook.

Breedlove and Ronnie Bruce scored on one-handers for Alco, and Carl Brown, rugged sophomore center who replaced Hugh "Hammy" Steele in the third period, caged three consecutive shots and from this point on, it was strictly "no contest."

Another sophomore, guard Mike Lease, hit on five of six attempts from the floor, while Breedlove and Allan Haines were Allegany's leading scorers with 16 and 15 points respectively. Chaney was the evening's top scorer, collecting 18 points.

The West Siders took 63 shots from the floor, hitting on 28, for a spectacular .445 percentage. Beall connected 18 times in 57 tries for a mark of .316.

Allegany's Jayvees defeated Beall in the opening game, 58-34. Kenny Johnson and Ronnie Diehl with 21 and 16 points paced the victors. Lineups:

Esso Standard is first again! A NEW Total Power

Esso Extra Gasoline brings you the...

HIGHEST OCTANE OF ALL TIME!

Another triumph of Esso Research! Detroit, January 11—At an association meeting of leading automotive engineers here today, Dr. C. L. Fleming, Jr., (left) of Esso Laboratories, reported on a highly significant series of road and laboratory tests just completed. These tests proved beyond a doubt that your engine can continue to give its maximum performance only when operated with the right combination of gasoline and motor oil. With Dr. Fleming are shown Eger V. Murphree (center), President of Standard Oil Development, Esso Research affiliate, and Dr. William J. Sweeney, Vice President. As a direct result of the tests, Esso Research has developed today's new TOTAL POWER Esso Extra Gasoline and Uniflo Motor Oil. This great power-team will give every car now on the road—and even "dream cars" still on the drawing boards—EXTRA-OCTANE PERFORMANCE.

...will give your car

EXTRA-OCTANE PERFORMANCE!

This vastly improved new TOTAL POWER Esso Extra is the highest octane gasoline ever offered you for your car—higher by far than any other gasoline! It meets the requirements of every one of today's automobiles—regardless of compression ratio. Try a tankful today. Now more than ever it's the best gasoline you can buy.

How to get continuous EXTRA-OCTANE PERFORMANCE...

The continued power output of your engine depends on both your gasoline and your motor oil! Your gasoline actually supplies the power, but your motor oil must keep your engine clean enough to deliver this power. When you use ordinary motor oils, power-robbing carbon deposits build up in your engine – thus reducing the power that any gasoline can give you. Esso Standard's great new Uniflo Motor Oil has been scientifically designed to combat these carbon deposits. Used in combination with new TOTAL POWER Esso Extra Gasoline it will give you continuous EXTRA-OCTANE PERFORMANCE – mile after mile and month after month!

27 Mineral Co. Teachers Resign

KEYSER—The Public Information Committee of Mineral County views with alarm the disclosure that 27 school teachers have resigned to accept other positions offering more money.

This situation was discussed at a meeting in the office of Parker C. Black, Keyser High School principal.

The Public Information Committee has announced that all but one of the departing teachers accepted employment in other states. Most of the teachers lost to Mineral County had more than four years of experience. The loss can be attributed to low salaries and overwork resulting from crowded classrooms.

Jacob Perkins of Newburyport, Mass., invented a nailmaking machine to cut nails. It could make 200 thousand nails a day and was a major pioneering step in an industry which today has capacity to produce more than one million, 200 thousand tons of nails and staples annually.

South Viet Nam Situation Serious But Not Critical, Observers Say Following Tours

SAIGON, Indochina, Jan. 11 (AP)—The general situation—contrary to some depressing reports — is serious but not critical in south Viet Nam, which the West hopes can be built up as a bulwark against the spread of communism in Southeast Asia.

This conclusion is based on observations made in recent extensive tours of the country and on conversations with top government officials, Frenchmen, Americans, Chinese businessmen, military men and Vietnamese merchants, peasants and functionaries.

The picture drawn by some recent visitors to Viet Nam is one of a regime swept by chaos ruled by an inept government, its villages infiltrated by the Communist-dominated Vietminh.

The Vietminh-ruled north has been painted, by way of contrast, as strong, well organized and led by a man—Ho Chi Minh—who has the entire confidence of the people.

Neither of the descriptions is wholly accurate. It can be said confidently that the south is not as weak as it has been portrayed and the north nowhere as strong.

Many people have predicted that in the general elections scheduled for 1956 under the Geneva agreements the Vietminh will win hands down.

Evidence is accumulating, however, that should these elections be carried out in strict secrecy a very considerable portion of the population of the Vietminh regions would give a majority to the government of Premier Ngo Dinh Diem.

This prophesy has been made by a high French official in Hanoi who has studied the reactions of the Vietnamese since the Vietminh took over in October.

Those populations such as that at Tuy Hoa in central Vietnam—which have been under the Vietminh thumb for years—are embittered and violently anti-Vietminh.

In the same election, however, residents of the big cities of the south which have never been under the Vietminh can be expected to vote against the south Viet Nam government or pro-Western Premier Ngo Dinh Diem, or give him only a feeble majority.

The vote in the cities would not be important enough to prevent a government victory.

Though there is little for rosy optimism in the south, some solid progress has been made in recent weeks in resolving the overwhelming difficulties which first faced the Diem government.

The reassuring statements of recent weeks made by Gen. J. Lawton Collins, President Eisenhower's special envoy to Indochina, Adm. Arthur Radford, the chairman of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Lt. Gen. John W. O'Daniel, head of the U. S. military assistance advisory group in Indochina, cannot be described as whistling in the dark. Though some parts of them are discouraging, the overall appraisal is not.

Here are the positive results of the past few months:

Half a million refugees from communism have been successfully moved to the south and are being rehabilitated.

Premier Diem has regained control of the Army after a paralyzing two months quarrel with Chief of Staff Gen. Nguyen Van Hinh, who challenged the Premier's authority.

The police, though still in the hands of the opposition Binh Xuyen Society, are loyally enforcing the laws.

Fighting has been brought to a halt in the southwest as a result of Defense Minister Ho Thong Minh's personal meeting with rebel chieftain Bacut.

The country has achieved almost total independence with the signing of economic agreements with France and is preparing to stand on its feet more solidly than before.

Agrarian reforms are under study and likely to be put into effect soon.

SYMBOL OF HOPE

FLOWERS express man's hope for everlasting peace. Their delicate beauty and fragrance shut out doubt and darkness by symbolizing the love we hold for those we've lost.

And, because we love, we grieve. But, because we have faith, we look forward to immortality. To our soul's unspoken question on these solemn occasions, flowers whisper comfortingly, "Hope!"

Because...like life...flowers flourish and fade. But there is something in their vital beauty that cannot wholly perish.

27 Mineral Co. Teachers Resign

KEYSER—The Public Information Committee of Mineral County views with alarm the disclosure that 27 school teachers have resigned to accept other positions offering more money.

This situation was discussed at a meeting in the office of Parker C. Black, Keyser High School principal.

The Public Information Committee has announced that all but one of the departing teachers accepted employment in other states. Most of the teachers lost to Mineral County had more than four years of experience. The loss can be attributed to low salaries and overwork resulting from crowded classrooms.

Jacob Perkins of Newburyport, Mass., invented a nailmaking machine to cut nails. It could make 200 thousand nails a day and was a major pioneering step in an industry which today has capacity to produce more than one million, 200 thousand tons of nails and staples annually.

South Viet Nam Situation Serious But Not Critical, Observers Say Following Tours

SAIGON, Indochina, Jan. 11 (AP)—The general situation—contrary to some depressing reports — is serious but not critical in south Viet Nam, which the West hopes can be built up as a bulwark against the spread of communism in Southeast Asia.

This conclusion is based on observations made in recent extensive tours of the country and on conversations with top government officials, Frenchmen, Americans, Chinese businessmen, military men and Vietnamese merchants, peasants and functionaries.

The picture drawn by some recent visitors to Viet Nam is one of a regime swept by chaos ruled by an inept government, its villages infiltrated by the Communist-dominated Vietminh.

The Vietminh-ruled north has been painted, by way of contrast, as strong, well organized and led by a man—Ho Chi Minh—who has the entire confidence of the people.

Neither of the descriptions is wholly accurate. It can be said confidently that the south is not as weak as it has been portrayed and the north nowhere as strong.

Many people have predicted that in the general elections scheduled for 1956 under the Geneva agreements the Vietminh will win hands down.

Evidence is accumulating, however, that should these elections be carried out in strict secrecy a very considerable portion of the population of the Vietminh regions would give a majority to the government of Premier Ngo Dinh Diem.

This prophesy has been made by a high French official in Hanoi who has studied the reactions of the Vietnamese since the Vietminh took over in October.

Those populations such as that at Tuy Hoa in central Vietnam—which have been under the Vietminh thumb for years—are embittered and violently anti-Vietminh.

In the same election, however, residents of the big cities of the south which have never been under the Vietminh can be expected to vote against the south Viet Nam government or pro-Western Premier Ngo Dinh Diem, or give him only a feeble majority.

The vote in the cities would not be important enough to prevent a government victory.

Though there is little for rosy optimism in the south, some solid progress has been made in recent weeks in resolving the overwhelming difficulties which first faced the Diem government.

The reassuring statements of recent weeks made by Gen. J. Lawton Collins, President Eisenhower's special envoy to Indochina, Adm. Arthur Radford, the chairman of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Lt. Gen. John W. O'Daniel, head of the U. S. military assistance advisory group in Indochina, cannot be described as whistling in the dark. Though some parts of them are discouraging, the overall appraisal is not.

Here are the positive results of the past few months:

Radio And Television

by John Crosby

The New Red Skelton

One of the ways I keep abreast of the progress of television is by keeping track of all the new Red Skelton shows. By my own loose reckoning there have been about four new Red Skelton shows and any day now I expect them to come with some title like "The New New Red Skelton Show."

The trouble with all the new Red Skelton shows is that they pretty much resemble all the old Red Skelton shows. You either like them or you don't—but don't expect anything radically different. The newest new Red Skelton show imbeds him in situation comedy which lasts half an hour—as opposed to some of the old shows where he'd indulge in two or three separate skits per half hour.

The first one was a trifle about Skelton stumbling onto a formula for ridding Los Angeles of smog, that perennial local joke (which is no joke in Los Angeles), and how some gangsters headed by George Raft tried to steal it from him. It was all right—if you like Skelton—and it had some pretty funny stuff in it but it was nothing you'd remember two minutes after it went off.

And therein lies a tale. There is a great struggle of philosophies between the networks—CBS and NBC—at the moment and it may be resolved to the detriment of all us poor slobs who just look at television. On the one hand is the CBS theory which is essentially an imitation of radio. In other words, a schedule of half hour shows, largely comedy shows, once a week, same time, same station, running on forever. It is a policy that has been conspicuously successful and—I firmly believe—conspicuously wrong.

These shows have succeeded in wresting a large proportion of the audience from the other networks. But it has always been my theory that this sort of programming will eventually result in driving away large masses of people from television altogether. There is a certain hard core—and a very large one—of people who will always be around staring at their television sets.

But it seems to me that the struggle between networks should not be over how large a proportion of this hard core is won over by any particular network but whether television has succeeded in becoming a community enterprise that holds and interests and services all the people. The Skelton show, it seems to me, is one of those limited operations aimed at the hard core.

There's nothing the matter with it in itself but then you can't judge any single TV show of this nature as an isolated phenomenon. It's just another of a growing list of situation comedies that all resemble one another. There's getting to be a gray, depressing sameness about television which may have been why the movies had one of the best years in their history last year. CBS may be holding more than its share of the available audience but this sort of philosophy is losing television a large part of the total audience. As a viewer with no stake in the game, I naturally deplore this. But beyond that I think it's a short-sighted policy for those who have a stake in the game.

Whatever you think of NBC's programming of spectaculars and general razzle dazzle, it has given television an importance and a sense of excitement that it cannot afford to lose.

Nevertheless if the strip shows—half an hour once a week same people same situation—continues to be successful, then the current NBC philosophy is going to succumb. Television will be an endless succession of strip shows of unvarying monotony. This would be a great thing for the motion picture industry and a perfectly terrible thing for the rest of us.

Parisian Favors American Clothes For Women Of U.S.

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 (AP)—Though born and bred in France, designer Pauline Trigere believes American women should wear American clothes, which are quite different from those worn in Paris.

This blonde, attractive Parisian has put her roots firmly in American soil in the decade since her arrival here. She has even gone so far as to buy a farm in Connecticut, where she digs happily on weekends, attired in well - worn blue jeans. All this enthusiasm for the American way she revealed to some 150 visiting fashion editors today with a preview of her spring fashion collection.

Although the Paris-inspired long-torso silhouette is acknowledged as an important spring influence, Trigere does not overemphasize it. Her spring suits, coats and dresses are, as usual, understated, uncluttered, easy to wear and carefully designed to suit the activities of the women who will buy them.

This designer likes coat-and-dress ensembles which will take a woman around the clock. Her silhouette changes are subtle—a slight legthening of the torso, a careful slimming of lines, a narrow tubular look to coats, low-placed fullness in some skirts, sleek hip lines, reduced emphasis on the bust line. These are not fashions to wear one season and throw away. Because of their restraint, they are the kind of things a woman usually lives in as long as they hold together—which is some time.

Also contributing to the excitement of this week's press showings was the collection of Maurice Rentner. His sleek, sophisticated suits and costumers are done with exquisite attention to detail, and manage to dramatize the feminine figure without exaggerating its curves. The new long-jacket suits, and long-torso dresses are shown here with discreet modifications and good taste, making them new-looking but strictly wearable.

The grape, according to historians, was the earliest fruit to be cultivated. Grape seeds, estimated to be at least 3,000 years old, have been found in Egyptian tombs.

Radio And Television

The New Red Skelton

One of the ways I keep abreast of the progress of television is by keeping track of all the new Red Skelton shows. By my own loose reckoning there have been about four new Red Skelton shows and any day now I expect them to come with some title like "The New New Red Skelton Show."

The trouble with all the new Red Skelton shows is that they pretty much resemble all the old Red Skelton shows. You either like them or you don't—but don't expect anything radically different. The newest new Red Skelton show imbeds him in situation comedy which lasts half an hour—as opposed to some of the old shows where he'd indulge in two or three separate skits per half hour.

The first one was a trifle about Skelton stumbling onto a formula for ridding Los Angeles of smog, that perennial local joke (which is no joke in Los Angeles), and how some gangsters headed by George Raft tried to steal it from him. It was all right—if you like Skelton—and it had some pretty funny stuff in it but it was nothing you'd remember two minutes after it went off.

And therein lies a tale. There is a great struggle of philosophies between the networks—CBS and NBC—at the moment and it may be resolved to the detriment of all us poor slobs who just look at television. On the one hand is the CBS theory which is essentially an imitation of radio. In other words, a schedule of half hour shows, largely comedy shows, once a week, same time, same station, running on forever. It is a policy that has been conspicuously successful and—I firmly believe—conspicuously wrong.

These shows have succeeded in wresting a large proportion of the audience from the other networks. But it has always been my theory that this sort of programming will eventually result in driving away large masses of people from television altogether. There is a certain hard core—and a very large one—of people who will always be around staring at their television sets.

But it seems to me that the struggle between networks should not be over how large a proportion of this hard core is won over by any particular network but whether television has succeeded in becoming a community enterprise that holds and interests and services all the people. The Skelton show, it seems to me, is one of those limited operations aimed at the hard core.

There's nothing the matter with it in itself but then you can't judge any single TV show of this nature as an isolated phenomenon. It's just another of a growing list of situation comedies that all resemble one another. There's getting to be a gray, depressing sameness about television which may have been why the movies had one of the best years in their history last year. CBS may be holding more than its share of the available audience but this sort of philosophy is losing television a large part of the total audience. As a viewer with no stake in the game, I naturally deplore this. But beyond that I think it's a short-sighted policy for those who have a stake in the game.

Whatever you think of NBC's programming of spectaculars and general razzle dazzle, it has given television an importance and a sense of excitement that it cannot afford to lose.

Nevertheless if the strip shows—half an hour once a week same people same situation—continues to be successful, then the current NBC philosophy is going to succumb. Television will be an endless succession of strip shows of unvarying monotony. This would be a great thing for the motion picture industry and a perfectly terrible thing for the rest of us.

Parisian Favors American Clothes For Women Of U.S.

AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 (AP)—Though born and bred in France, designer Pauline Trigere believes American women should wear American clothes, which are quite different from those worn in Paris.

This blonde, attractive Parisian has put her roots firmly in American soil in the decade since her arrival here. She has even gone so far as to buy a farm in Connecticut, where she digs happily on weekends, attired in well - worn blue jeans. All this enthusiasm for the American way she revealed to some 150 visiting fashion editors today with a preview of her spring fashion collection.

Although the Paris-inspired long-torso silhouette is acknowledged as an important spring influence, Trigere does not overemphasize it. Her spring suits, coats and dresses are, as usual, understated, uncluttered, easy to wear and carefully designed to suit the activities of the women who will buy them.

This designer likes coat-and-dress ensembles which will take a woman around the clock. Her silhouette changes are subtle—a slight legthening of the torso, a careful slimming of lines, a narrow tubular look to coats, low-placed fullness in some skirts, sleek hip lines, reduced emphasis on the bust line. These are not fashions to wear one season and throw away. Because of their restraint, they are the kind of things a woman usually lives in as long as they hold together—which is some time.

Also contributing to the excitement of this week's press showings was the collection of Maurice Rentner. His sleek, sophisticated suits and costumers are done with exquisite attention to detail, and manage to dramatize the feminine figure without exaggerating its curves. The new long-jacket suits, and long-torso dresses are shown here with discreet modifications and good taste, making them new-looking but strictly wearable.

The grape, according to historians, was the earliest fruit to be cultivated. Grape seeds, estimated to be at least 3,000 years old, have been found in Egyptian tombs.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear husband, Ira W. Valentine, who departed this life 4 years ago today, January 12, 1951.

His absence a silent grief,
But he sleeps in God's beautiful garden,
In sunshine of perfect peace.

Mrs. Ida Valentine.

In loving memory of my mother, Gladys Irene Clark, who passed away 13 years ago today, January 12, 1942.
She lives in the land of Glory,
With the blue and the gold of the skies.
And we who have known and loved her,
Whose passing has brought sad tears,
Will cherish her memory always,
To brighten the passing years.
Keep her dear Lord, till we reach the shore,
Then let us have her to love once more.
Sadly missed by your daughter,
Mrs. Ernest (Betty) Keller.

WATCHING AND waiting for the used article you want to buy at a bargain price in the want ads is good psychology for a certain length of time; but if you figure you've waited long enough, a wanted to buy ad will very likely speed up your possession of the item you desire.

We wish to thank our neighbors and friends for the kindness and sympathy shown us in our bereavement, the death of our beloved husband and father.

Mrs. Nell Grindle and family

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear husband, Ira W. Valentine, who departed this life 4 years ago today, January 12, 1951.

His life is a beautiful memory,
His absence a silent grief.
But he sleeps in God's beautiful garden,
In sunshine of perfect peace.

Sadly missed by his wife, Mrs. Ida Valentine.

In loving memory of my mother, Gladys Irene Clark, who passed away 13 years ago today, January 12, 1942.

Somewhere back of the sunset,
Where loveliness never dies,
She lives in the land of Glory,
With the blue and the gold of the skies.
And we who have known and loved her,
Whose passing has brought sad tears,
Will cherish her memory always,
To brighten the passing years.
Keep her dear Lord, till we reach the shore,
Then let us have her to love once more.

Sadly missed by your daughter, Mrs. Ernest (Betty) Keller.

Wynn Is Unhappy Over Tribe Offer

VENICE, Fla., Jan. 11 (AP)-Early Wynn, the Cleveland Indians' star pitcher, isn't too happy about the new contract he received in the mail today from his bosses.

Wynn said, "I'm very disappointed," then quipped:

"I think Hank Greenberg must have gotten my contract mixed up with Ralph Kiner's. I didn't ask for a cut."

Wynn didn't get a cut but neither did he get as much as he was looking for.

He had a record of 23 victories last season, which compared with 18 wins in 1953 and 23 in 1952.

"I may drop them a line," he said "but I don't have the time. . . ."

Pirates, Cards Trade Pitchers

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 11 (INS)—The St. Louis Cardinals today announced they have made a straight-player swap with Pittsburgh, trading right-handed pitcher Ben Wade for southpaw Paul LaPalme.

LaPalme, 30, of Springfield, Mass., is a knuckle-baller who had a 4-10 mark and a 5.50 earned-run-average last season.

Wade, obtained from Brooklyn on waivers late in '54 had an overall 1-1 record, pitching in 36 games. The 32-year-old Pasadena, Calif., resident has a 7.28 E.R.A.

Daily Bridge Lesson — by Barclay

SURE TO BE UNDERSTOOD

IF YOU play in an individual duplicate tournament, in which you get a series of different partners for a hand or a few hands apiece, you have the same problem as the rubber bridge player who cuts as a partner someone whose methods are not familiar to him. In either of these cases, it is essential during the bidding to observe tactics which are certain to be understood, if you can. Otherwise you may find that the interpretation placed on certain actions by him and yourself can land you in the wrong spot and cost you a whole scad of points.

(Dealer: West. East-West vulnerable.)

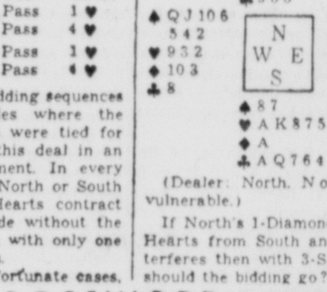

West	North	East	South
1. Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♥
Pass	3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥
2. Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♥
Dbl.	3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥

There are the bidding sequences at the two tables where the North-South pairs were tied for bottom score on this deal in an individual tournament. In every other case, either North or South landed in the 6-Hearts contract which can be made without the slightest difficulty, with only one trick lost, in clubs.

In these two unfortunate cases, the failure to reach slam was due to a misunderstanding between North and South as to the meaning of North's 3-Heart bid. Where the first sequence developed, South was used to considering a jump of his suit, by a partner who has passed, as indicating a fine fit in a not very strong hand, its purpose being partly to keep the next player from cutting in with a second-round weak overcall. Consequently, this South felt he was doing all that his own great surplus strength justified, by bidding only a mere game. North obviously meant his heart jump as the strongest possible action.

At the table where the bidding was as per the second sequence, South thought the jump over the double was partly to shut out East, with a weak hand. The trouble could have been avoided if over the double North had first redoubled; and over the pass had bid 2-No Trumps. In each case the heart fit could have been shown later.

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

If North's 1-Diamond brings 2-Hearts from South and West interferes then with 3-Spades, how should the bidding go?

Market's Recovery Drive Pauses For Profit-Taking

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 (AP) — The stock market's strong recovery drive paused briefly today for profit-taking.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell away 30 cents at $154.20. In the two previous days it advanced $3.70 as compared with $5.00 lost in the two-day break immediately preceding.

Most of today's decline in the average was lodged in the railroad component which lost 90 cents. Utilities were down only 10 cents while the industrial section closed unchanged.

Furthermore, there was a fairly even distribution between gains and losses with 494 stocks selling higher and 562 going lower. Altogether there were 1,273 individual issues traded, only five less than yesterday.

New York Central headed the most active list for the fifth straight day, but today it was lower for the first time. The stock closed off 1¾ at 35¾ on 78,600 shares. In the four previous days the stock had gained 4¾. Early in the session today, Central directors voted a first quarter dividend of 50 cents. Last year the road paid $1.

Alleghany Corp., which controls Central, was second most active off ½ at 8⅝, and it was followed by Pennsylvania Railroad off ½ at 24½, Curtiss-Wright off ¼ at 18, and Montgomery Ward up 3¼ at 84½.

New Valley Road School Stressed As Worst Need

Webster Submits Projects To Board

Allegany County's most pressing school need now is an elementary school for Bowman's Addition on Valley Road, Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster told the County Board of Education at its monthly meeting yesterday afternoon.

Webster said the proposed Bowman's Addition School highlighted a 10-project second phase of school construction which he presented to the board yesterday afternoon. He did not list the other projects but indicated that they included purchase of land, expansion of playgrounds and improvement of kitchen facilities.

Bids on the proposed new Bruce High School in Westernport will be received by the Board of Education Tuesday, February 15. The new high school is the ninth and final project in the county's current $3,500,000 program.

Other Projects Under Way

Other projects in the current program either completed or nearing completion are a new Lincoln Elementary School in Frostburg, a new elementary school in LaVale, additions to McCoole, Oldtown, Carver, Flintstone and Johnson Heights and modernization of Central School in Lonaconing to serve as strictly an elementary school.

When he presented his projected building program to the County Delegation February 12, 1953, Webster listed 14 projects and placed the price tag at virtually $6,000,000. When considerable comment arose then about the volume of the program, a compromise was agreed upon which eliminated five of the projects, curtailed another and lowered the cost to $3,500,000.

Stricken from the program in 1953 were proposed elementary schools for Bowman's Addition and Potomac Park-Bowling Green, the junior high school portion of the LaVale building, gymnasium and health room and conversion of the present Allegany High School gymnasium into a library, shops, additional classrooms and auditorium improvements at Beall High School and cafeteria alterations at Fort Hill.

Webster said yesterday after the board meeting that this program has been revised now because the slight enrollment increase expected on the basis of the 1952 school census has not materialized. There has been a slight enrollment drop, as some families have moved away to accept employment elsewhere.

Relieves Crowding

Emphasizing the Bowman's Addition project, the superintendent explained that children from that area now are transported to West Side and Columbia Street schools. If Bowman's Addition gets its own school the present crowded conditions at West Side and Columbia Street will be alleviated, he added.

Webster said that he also discussed with the board the proposed $500 a year across-the-board teacher pay increase request which the Legislative Committee of the County Teachers Association presented at the last board meeting on December 16. Committee members are J. Stanley Hunter, Joseph Haugen and Raymond O. McCullough. The committee was accompanied by Miss Gertrude A. C. Williams, association president, at the December meeting.

A $500 annual increase for all of the 640 teachers, principals and supervisors would cost about $320,000, Webster said.

The Board of Education decided to hold a special meeting next Monday to consider recommendation on both the school construction and teacher salary questions, Webster stated.

The superintendent also said that all five board members are planning to attend an all-day meeting in Baltimore Friday, January 21. Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr., state superintendent of schools, has called the Baltimore meeting and has invited county boards from all 23 Maryland counties to attend. Members of the board here are Kenneth R. Malcolm, president; Mrs. Stanley Buckley, W. Earle Cobey, Mrs. Albert C. Cook and Edward J. Ryan.

Ridgeley Water Line To Be Laid

Water Department crews plan to lay the new water line to Ridgeley soon, according to William J. Edwards, water commissioner.

He said the water line will be laid on the superstructure of the new Blue Bridge, below the sidewalk. The job is to be done as soon as the men can fit it into their schedule, he added.

The gas company has already laid a new line across the bridge.

Officials said both gas and water lines now serving Ridgeley will probably be abandoned when the present Blue Bridge is torn down during the course of the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood protection program.

The superstructure for the new bridge was completed late last fall, and the Wright Contracting Company has been awarded the contract for placing the deck on the span.

Plans for the Maryland approach to the bridge have been approved, and the work is to be let by the State Roads Commission as a federal-aid project, with costs shared equally by the city and the federal government.

An Editorial

Fund Drive Information

Campaigns for funds in ever increasing numbers are being held in Cumberland and in virtually every instance The Cumberland News has been called upon to lend its support by providing publicity.

This publicity pertains to the campaign goal, campaign leaders, meeting places, dates and the reasons as espoused by the particular group concerned why a contribution should be made.

As the number of campaigns has increased, The Cumberland News has become more and more aware of its responsibilities, both toward the group conducting the campaign and to the general public which is asked to contribute to the support of the various agencies and funds.

At this time, without directing our remarks to any campaign and while urging your support of the March of Dimes, we feel it would be well for us to state our position which will be the prime governing factor in publicity hereafter accorded to the groups soliciting the general public for funds.

Naturally, this cannot apply to church groups or others which conduct money-raising campaigns within the limits of their own membership. But for other drives or solicitations in which the general public is approached for a donation we will be governed by the plan set forth below.

This program has been arrived at after due and lengthy consideration and we believe it will help fulfill our obligation to the public and to the organization conducting a campaign.

We are not in a position to pass upon the merits of a particular fund campaign, but we believe that our plan will be of help to us and to the public.

Our plans consists of a series of questions on a printed form, which must be answered and which will be published in the news columns before any campaigning group receives any newspaper mention.

The questions which must be answered are these:

Name of organization and office address; officers of organization; purpose of the organization; amount of money sought; names of campaign chairman and other leaders; for what purpose is the money sought? give details; estimated cost of conducting the campaign; give figures showing cost of previous campaigns, if any; is anyone being paid to conduct the campaign, and if so, his name and salary; estimated cost of the organization's administrative expenses exclusive of campaign cost; are there any paid officials (executive, secretaries, etc.) outside of campaign? If so, list them and how much they are paid; how much money will go out of Cumberland in form of dues, specified fees, etc., to regional or national organization, what group will receive this money, and how will it be spent. There also is space for signature of an officer of the campaigning organization.

Our purpose is not to embarrass anyone nor to deprive any organization of deserved publicity for a worthy campaign. We feel that deserving organizations that plan to solicit the general public for funds will have no hesitancy in answering the questions we ask. We feel that the answers to our questions will give the public a better understanding of each fund appeal and we feel certain that the questions and answers will help The Cumberland News uphold its community responsibilities.

Allegany High Class Seeking To Abolish Electoral College

This is a project of the history course taught by Miss Mary Murray and was started last fall by the students with Donald Paye and Sondra Wagner as co-chairmen.

Their first step was to write a letter to Sen. J. Glenn Beall at Washington who in turn sent the class information on the pros and cons of the system.

Other research was conducted as members of the class studied the Constitution and read through books on the College setup and its function.

A panel has been formed in conjunction with the project and the members include Sondra Wagner, Donald Paye, Barbara Gronbach, Charles Smith, Rodney Breedlove and Margaret Thompson.

A visit to the office of Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde, representative from the Sixth District, cleared up a few matters for the panel and he indicated he would introduce a bill although more than one class would be required.

Therefore the members of the class are going all out in their endeavor. W. Earle Cobey, local attorney, discussed the matter during a classroom meeting and informed the members he was in favor of abolition of the college. This same opinion was voiced by Paul M. Fletcher, state's attorney.

The class plans to devote a future issue of the Alcohi Mirror almost entirely to this year's project and copies of the publication will be sent to other school's throughout the country in an effort to get backing.

The paper will also be sent to the Senators and Representatives of the 48 states.

Miss Murray has written to the Columbia Scholastic Press Association, asking for their support but as yet has received no answer. If supported, the plan would mushroom to some 3,000 school papers.

Locally the panel has been making plans to conduct a door-to-door poll of the city in an effort to learn how citizens of Cumberland feel about the project.

The panel also plans to try to get a radio program set up to further its project and should the bill be introduced in Congress they hope to be on hand that day. Back school, a play has been written on the Electoral College by Eleanor Murphy, Barbara Ossip and Patricia Kerns, and will be staged in the auditorium.

AutoAccident Injuries Fatal To School Boy

The seven-year-old son of a former resident died yesterday evening in a Baltimore hospital where he had been admitted on Monday suffering injuries sustained when he was struck by an auto while on his way home from school.

The victim was Kenneth F. Wright, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank F. Wright, Sr., 2608 Rittenhouse Avenue, Baltimore. He was reported to have suffered a head injury and internal injuries.

The second grade pupil rode home from school on the bus, and after alighting from the vehicle was struck by an auto in the vicinity of his home.

Surviving besides his parents, are a sister, Alicelyn Wright, at home; his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wright, 804 Gephart Drive, who went to Baltimore immediately after learning of the accident; and his great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Tipton, also of 802 Gephart Drive. Tipton is a former assistant superintendent of Allegany County Schools.

A funeral service will be conducted Friday afternoon in Baltimore with burial in that city.

Commissioners Take Action On Proposals

Action on two recommendations of the recent grand jury concerning improvements at the Court House was approved by the Board of County Commissioners yesterday.

The board instructed James G. Stevenson, board clerk, to obtain figures on the estimated cost for a new directory to replace the obsolete one on the first floor of the Court House. The grand jury had recommended its replacement.

The county commissioners also requested Stevenson to get estimates on the cost of installing adequate lights in the Court House vault.

William H. Lemmert, board president, said that the vault has the worst lighting conditions in the building. He said that he was puzzled by the statement in the latest grand jury report that "with the exception of one office, the lighting is inadequate and should be modernized." Lemmert said he thought most of the offices were well lighted.

The commissioners also got a letter from Boore and Ruppert, Midland painting contractors, that they have finished painting the interior of the County Welfare Building at 301 Cumberland Street and that it is ready for inspection. No date for the inspection was set.

When December bills were being approved yesterday, Commissioner C. N. Wilkinson raised an objection to the payment of $41.58 to J. Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor, for milage on his own automobile. Wilkinson said that the county provided the roads supervisor with an automobile and he should use it. The payment was approved despite the objection.

Cumberland still has only one constable. A motion by Wilkinson for the reappointment of Harold D. Brooks as constable at Trial Magistrates Court died for want of a second. Roy E. Van Fleet was reappointed December 3.

Kimble Appointed To Finance Group

State Senator Robert B. Kimble of Allegany County is one of four Republicans named along with 10 Democrats to the Senate Finance Committee by Senate President Louis L. Goldstein.

Piedmont Man Succumbs From Auto Injuries

Horace Washington Dies At His Residence

A 28-year-old Piedmont man died yesterday afternoon at his home of complications from head injuries received in an automobile accident last Thursday.

West Virginia authorities said Horace Richard Washington, 26 Pearl Street, died of a cerebral hemorrhage.

Washington was injured Thursday afternoon about 4:30 o'clock when the automobile in which he was riding alone swerved and struck a huge rock outcropping along Route 46 about 2½ miles west of Keyser. He was driving west toward Piedmont at the time.

Cpl. Frank H. Tribett of the West Virginia State Police detachment in Keyser investigated the mishap. Washington was admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital in Keyser suffering from head injuries, bruises and facial cuts. He was sent to his home over the weekend, authorities said.

The Piedmont man, who was in the armed forces from September of 1952 until September of 1954, served 18 months in France in the Army.

He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Cleatus Washington, also of 26 Pearl Street in Piedmont. A member of Walden Methodist Church, Piedmont, he attended Howard High School there.

Besides his parents he is survived by one sister, Miss Wilda Lee Washington, at home, and two brothers, Cleatus Washington Jr., also at home, and Clarence T. Washington, in the U.S. Air Force in Greenland.

The body is at the Boal Funeral Home and will be taken to the residence when funeral arrangements are completed.

AFL Will Brief Leaders On 1955 Legislative Plan

The complete legislative program of the Maryland and District of Columbia Federation of Labor will be presented to leaders of all AFL locals at a meeting in Annapolis Thursday.

Harry Cohen, Baltimore, state AFL president, has asked all AFL locals to send two delegates to the meeting which will get under way at noon in Carvel Hall.

He said the AFL's legislative program will be explained in detail to officials of local unions during the luncheon conference.

All union delegates, he added, will be requested to meet later in the afternoon with the senators and delegates from their counties.

One of the purposes of these conferences, Cohen said, is to enlist support of legislators for the AFL program which will include opposition to "right to work" legislation.

State AFL officials also announced that the Maryland-D.C. Federation of Labor has opened a legislative office in Carvel Hall, and that it will be in operation Monday through Friday during the 1955 General Assembly.

Officials of the Allegany Trades Council said yesterday that at least 10 AFL leaders from here expect to attend the Annapolis meeting.

The delegation is expected to include Charles Bramble and C. E. Stutzman, from Teamsters Local 453; F. Patrick Allender, business agent of Carpenters Local 1024; Paul Cottom and George W. Lucas, from Electricians Local 307, and Coy F. Dyer, from the Plumbers and Steamfitters Local 489.

KURT SINGER

Espionage Expert Says U.S. Needs Better Legislation

By JOHN W. KNOWLTON
News Staff Writer

Stressing the need for better anti-spy legislation in this country in its "cold war" with Russia and the satellite nations, noted author, lecturer, foreign correspondent and espionage expert Kurt Singer last night said "the greatest senator in the world is only an amateur spy hunter."

Singer was the speaker at a dinner meeting of the Cumberland branch of the National Dinner Club at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

The former newspaperman, who was introduced at the dinner meeting by Raymond O. McCullough, made his observations on the present trend of committee probes into communism prior to his speaking engagement last night.

Singer is author of approximately 25 books, including numerous ones on spies, espionage and traitors throughout the world, some fictionalized as well as factual stories, and a great many biographies.

In his comments on the present "cold war," Singer expressed some very definite opinions on what this country needs to win its diplomatic tussle with Russia.

"I believe it is far better for our congressmen and senators to spend more time on legislation helping our anti-spy laws in this country than to be continuously trying to hunt out the spies and saboteurs here," he stated.

In a plain reference to Sen. Joseph McCarthy of Wisconsin, Singer said, "I like justice under law, not a committee. I think J. Edgar Hoover and the FBI are doing a tremendous job for this country."

He further said, "The late Sen. Robert A. Taft left his name on many constructive bills for this nation, but you won't find McCarthy's name on any. He's too busy getting his name into print to write any legislation."

The author, who has lived in eight different countries and has been around the world in his travels, made one prediction:

"I believe that if any satellite country takes up arms against Russia it will be Eastern Germany. I can't tell you how I've arrived at that conclusion, but I firmly believe it will happen."

At the dinner meeting Singer's topic was "Traitors and Spies," and he delved into the far-reaching aspects of espionage.

Listing spies inthree categories, Singer said there is the diplomatic spy "who hides behind a cloak of diplomatic immunity" and is not arrested, the double spy who works for both sides but is expected to give his "own" country the most help. "But you never know just which is his country," Singer added.

Third is the "sitter" spy, who establishes residence in a country, lives there for many years as a valued citizen, but if war or a crisis breaks out, will commit one act of sabotage or espionage against the country in which he lives.

Singer, who spoke at graduation exercises at Fort Hill and Allegany high schools here several years ago, is married and is the father of two children.

Born in Vienna, Austria, August 10, 1911, the 43-year-old naturalized citizen of the United States did a great deal of espionage and intelligence work during World War

Temperature Dip Forecast For District

The mercury was expected to dip to about 18 degrees above zero in this section of the state during the early morning hours today.

The forecast for the cold weather came on the heels of a snowstorm which dumped two to five inches of snow on Southern Maryland and the lower Eastern Shore.

Although Cumberland and immediate vicinity did not catch any of the snow, some four inches fell in Oakland and the Garrett County area Monday night

However the sun shone brightly yesterday and melted about half of the snow. Last night the skies were clear and the air crisp with a temperature reading of 29 degrees at Oakland.

Here in Cumberland the mercury stood at 28 degrees at 7:30 p. m. Maryland State Police at LaVale Barracks reported that Route 40 east and west of here was clear.

About two and one-half inches of snow fell in Accident Monday, while Frostburg reportedly had half an inch of snowfall. State Roads Commission crews in Garrett County were sent into action early yesterday morning to plow and cinder the highways, and until late yesterday morning chains were recommended on all vehicles traveling in that county.

The forecast for today is sunny and cold with the exception of increasing cloudiness in the west portion. The weatherman promised it would not be so cold tonight.

The high temperature yesterday was 39 with an official low of 27 degrees. Humidity at 6 p. m. was 91 per cent and there was a trace of snowfall.

Woman Killed In Turnpike Mishap

Mrs. Blanche Vannostran, of Upland, Calif., died yesterday afternoon in Somerset (Pa.) Community Hospital of injuries sustained in an auto accident on the Pennsylvania Turnpike in Jefferson Township, Somerset County.

Her husband, Russell L. Vannostran, 60, is reported in serious condition at the hospital. Mrs. Vannostran suffered a crushed body and skull. The mishap, police said, occurred at 8:20 a. m. and Mrs. Vannostran died at 12:15 p. m. Police said that Vannostran was traveling east on a straight stretch of the Turnpike and he apparently went to sleep at the wheel.

The auto crossed the medial line, hit an enbankment on the north side of the highway and rolled over. Mrs. Vannostran was thrown from the vehicle and the car rolled over her body. Investigating officer was Pvt. Albert Gricoski.

Correction

The Cumberland News erroneously reported yesterday that the clerks and cashier at the Chicago Meat Market had been questioned in the State's Attorney's office after a woman customer complained that her wallet, containing $350, had been stolen in the North Centre Street market.

Detective Lt. James E. Van yesterday said that only the cashier had been questioned, in the hope that some details of the case might be recalled. He emphasized that the questioning of the cashier was merely a routine matter. The clerks, he said, were not interrogated.

Church Service Changed

The regular Wednesday night prayer service at Second Baptist Church, Oldtown Road and Grand Avenue, has been changed to 7:30 p. m. on Thursday this week only. A special guest speaker will be Rev. Cornelius Davis, Madison, Ind.

Delegates Get Assignments As Group Convenes

Local Measures Under Discussion

The Allegany County Delegation to the General Assembly gave legislative assignments to its members as the body held its first formal meeting in Annapolis yesterday morning.

Delegate Charles M. See, chairman of the Delegation, said the meeting was devoted to a discussion of the legislation asked by Allegany County residents in a series of pre-Assembly meetings held here in December.

He said Delegate George R. Hughes Jr. was named secretary to the delegation, and was asked to keep formal minutes of all regular meetings.

Formal meetings will be held by the Allegany County Delegation each Wednesday at 10 a. m., the delegates announced, with additional conferences called whenever necessary.

Delegate Fred B. Driscoll was asked to confer this weekend with Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools, and report back next Wednesday on legislative requests affecting the Flintstone and Mt. Savage schools.

Repairs, Additions Sought

Del. See recalled that a Flintstone delegation asked that additional ground be secured for playground facilities, and that the Mt. Savage School PTA asked repairs to the building and athletic field facilities.

Delegate Lester B. Reed was asked to confer with Senator Robert B. Kimble on the request of District 16 residents for city water. The senator promised to contact the Mayor and Council on the subject.

Delegates Reed and Driscoll were asked to confer with Garrett County Delegate Harry C. Edwards on plans for reducing stream pollution requested by the Upper Potomac River Board.

Delegate Noel Speir Cook was asked to confer with Carl N. Everstine, director of the Department of Legislative Reference, on a change in state laws affecting automobile insurance requested by William R. Carscaden.

Delegate Hughes was asked to take similar action on an inheritance law change asked by Carscaden.

Road Improvements

All of the delegates expect to confer this week with Senator Kimble in connection with a Route 40 Association request for improvement of the highway between Hancock and Cumberland during the first phase of the SRC's 12-year program.

Del. Driscoll was also asked to contact Webster over the weekend on developments in the program asked by Friends Aware of Handicapped Children.

The delegates have asked Ernest A. Vaughn, director of the Department of Game and Inland Fish, to attend a delegation meeting set January 19 at 10 a. m. to give his recommendations.

Del. See said the delegation has asked Everstine to check on laws passed by other states in regards to the ban asked by the Woman's Civic Club on the sale of objectionable comic books.

He said no action will be possible on the club's second request, an addition to Frostburg State Teachers College, until Governor McKeldin presents his budget, and the report on the Capital Bond Improvement Bill is received.

He said all of the Allegany County legislators will go "down the line" to support "our own" college.

No action has yet been taken on city and county legislation.

Officials said they have not received the program of the Board of Allegany Commissioners, and that action on the City of Cumberland program is awaiting a ruling on the right of the Assembly to pass local legislation.

K Of P Sponsors Courtesy Week

The Knights of Pythias, which has been conducting a continent-wide Highway Courtesy Campaign, will sponsor Highway Courtesy Week, from February 14 to 20.

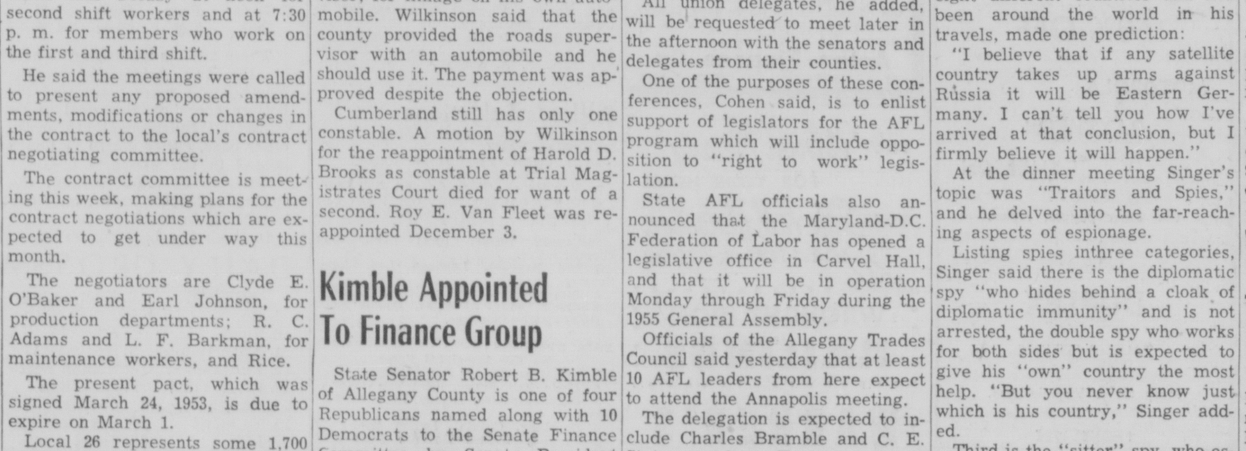

Julius E. Schindler, local attorney and grand secretary of the grand lodge of Maryland, was advised by Peter S. Ford of Martinsville, Va., supreme chancellor of the fraternal order, that all the 3000 lodges in the United States, Canada, Alaska and Hawaii are expected to participate.

The fraternal order, Schindler said, is arranging for a great amount of publicity by radio, television, newspaper and magazine, in an effort to get the safety message of Courtesy Week across to the public.

The lodge believes, Schindler observed, that "a courteous driver is a safe driver, and more courtesy on the highways and streets will help reduce the terrific toll from accidents."

Final Ballot Day

Tomorrow is the final day for ballots to be accepted at Central YMCA in the election of 10 new members to the board of directors. Results of the election will be announced at the annual meeting January 24.

W.Va. Highlanders Stop Over Here

New Valley Road School Stressed As Worst Need

Webster Submits Projects To Board

Allegany County's most pressing school need now is an elementary school for Bowman's Addition on Valley Road, Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster told the County Board of Education at its monthly meeting yesterday afternoon.

Webster said the proposed Bowman's Addition School highlighted a 10-project second phase of school construction which he presented to the board yesterday afternoon. He did not list the other projects but indicated that they included purchase of land, expansion of playgrounds and improvement of kitchen facilities.

Bids on the proposed new Bruce High School in Westernport will be received by the Board of Education Tuesday, February 15. The new high school is the ninth and final project in the county's current $3,500,000 program.

Other Projects Under Way

Other projects in the current program either completed or nearing completion are a new Lincoln Elementary School in Frostburg, a new elementary school in LaVale, additions to McCoole, Oldtown, Carver, Flintstone and Johnson Heights and modernization of Central School in Lonaconing to serve as strictly an elementary school.

When he presented his projected building program to the County Delegation February 12, 1953, Webster listed 14 projects and placed the price tag at virtually $6,000,000. When considerable comment arose then about the volume of the program, a compromise was agreed upon which eliminated five of the projects, curtailed another and lowered the cost to $3,500,000.

Stricken from the program in 1953 were proposed elementary schools for Bowman's Addition and Potomac Park-Bowling Green, the junior high school portion of the LaVale building, gymnasium and health room and conversion of the present Allegany High School gymnasium into a library, shops, additional classrooms and auditorium improvements at Beall High School and cafeteria alterations at Fort Hill.

Webster said yesterday after the board meeting that this program has been revised now because the slight enrollment increase expected on the basis of the 1952 school census has not materialized. There has been a slight enrollment drop, as some families have moved away to accept employment elsewhere.

Relieves Crowding

Emphasizing the Bowman's Addition project, the superintendent explained that children from that area now are transported to West Side and Columbia Street schools. If Bowman's Addition gets its own school the present crowded conditions at West Side and Columbia Street will be alleviated, he added.

Webster said that he also discussed with the board the proposed $500 a year across-the-board teacher pay increase request which the Legislative Committee of the County Teachers Association presented at the last board meeting on December 16. Committee members are J. Stanley Hunter, Joseph Haugen and Raymond O. McCullough. The committee was accompanied by Miss Gertrude A. C. Williams, association president, at the December meeting.

A $500 annual increase for all of the 640 teachers, principals and supervisors would cost about $320,000, Webster said.

The Board of Education decided to hold a special meeting next Monday to consider recommendation on both the school construction and teacher salary questions, Webster stated.

The superintendent also said that all five board members are planning to attend an all-day meeting in Baltimore Friday, January 21. Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr., state superintendent of schools, has called the Baltimore meeting and has invited county boards from all 23 Maryland counties to attend. Members of the board here are Kenneth R. Malcolm, president; Mrs. Stanley Buckley, W. Earle Cobey, Mrs. Albert C. Cook and Edward J. Ryan.

Ridgeley Water Line To Be Laid

Water Department crews plan to lay the new water line to Ridgeley soon, according to William J. Edwards, water commissioner.

He said the water line will be laid on the superstructure of the new Blue Bridge, below the sidewalk. The job is to be done as soon as the men can fit it into their schedule, he added.

The gas company has already laid a new line across the bridge.

Officials said both gas and water lines now serving Ridgeley will probably be abandoned when the present Blue Bridge is torn down during the course of the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood protection program.

The superstructure for the new bridge was completed late last fall, and the Wright Contracting Company has been awarded the contract for placing the deck on the span.

Plans for the Maryland approach to the bridge have been approved, and the work is to be let by the State Roads Commission as a federal-aid project, with costs shared equally by the city and the federal government.

An Editorial

Fund Drive Information

Campaigns for funds in ever increasing numbers are being held in Cumberland and in virtually every instance The Cumberland News has been called upon to lend its support by providing publicity.

This publicity pertains to the campaign goal, campaign leaders, meeting places, dates and the reasons as espoused by the particular group concerned why a contribution should be made.

As the number of campaigns has increased, The Cumberland News has become more and more aware of its responsibilities, both toward the group conducting the campaign and to the general public which is asked to contribute to the support of the various agencies and funds.

At this time, without directing our remarks to any campaign and while urging your support of the March of Dimes, we feel it would be well for us to state our position which will be the prime governing factor in publicity hereafter accorded to the groups soliciting the general public for funds.

Naturally, this cannot apply to church groups or others which conduct money-raising campaigns within the limits of their own membership. But for other drives or solicitations in which the general public is approached for a donation we will be governed by the plan set forth below.

This program has been arrived at after due and lengthy consideration and we believe it will help fulfill our obligation to the public and to the organization conducting a campaign.

We are not in a position to pass upon the merits of a particular fund campaign, but we believe that our plan will be of help to us and to the public.

Our plans consists of a series of questions on a printed form, which must be answered and which will be published in the news columns before any campaigning group receives any newspaper mention.

The questions which must be answered are these:

Name of organization and office address; officers of organization; purpose of the organization; amount of money sought; names of campaign chairman and other leaders; for what purpose is the money sought? give details; estimated cost of conducting the campaign; give figures showing cost of previous campaigns, if any; is anyone being paid to conduct the campaign, and if so, his name and salary; estimated cost of the organization's administrative expenses exclusive of campaign cost; are there any paid officials (executive, secretaries, etc.) outside of campaign? If so, list them and how much they are paid; how much money will go out of Cumberland in form of dues, specified fees, etc., to regional or national organization, what group will receive this money, and how will it be spent. There also is space for signature of an officer of the campaigning organization.

Our purpose is not to embarrass anyone nor to deprive any organization of deserved publicity for a worthy campaign. We feel that deserving organizations that plan to solicit the general public for funds will have no hesitancy in answering the questions we ask. We feel that the answers to our questions will give the public a better understanding of each fund appeal and we feel certain that the questions and answers will help The Cumberland News uphold its community responsibilities.

Allegany High Class Seeking To Abolish Electoral College

Students of the Citizenship Class of Allegany High School are seeking to abolish the Electoral College of the nation and already have the ball rolling to get a bill introduced in Congress.

This is a project of the history course taught by Miss Mary Murray and was started last fall by the students with Donald Paye and Sondra Wagner as co-chairmen.

Their first step was to write a letter to Sen. J. Glenn Beall at Washington who in turn sent the class information on the pros and cons of the system.

Other research was conducted as members of the class studied the Constitution and read through books on the College setup and its function.

A panel has been formed in conjunction with the project and the members include Sondra Wagner, Donald Paye, Barbara Gronbach, Charles Smith, Rodney Breedlove and Margaret Thompson.

A visit to the office of Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde, representative from the Sixth District, cleared up a few matters for the panel and he indicated he would introduce a bill although more than one class would be required.

Therefore the members of the class are going all out in their endeavor. W. Earle Cobey, local attorney, discussed the matter during a classroom meeting and informed the members he was in favor of abolition of the college. This same opinion was voiced by Paul M. Fletcher, state's attorney.

The class plans to devote a future issue of the Alcohi Mirror almost entirely to this year's project and copies of the publication will be sent to other school's throughout the country in an effort to get backing.

The paper will also be sent to the Senators and Representatives of the 48 states.

Miss Murray has written to the Columbia Scholastic Press Association, asking for their support but as yet has received no answer. If supported, the plan would mushroom to some 3,000 school papers.

Locally the panel has been making plans to conduct a door-to-door poll of the city in an effort to learn how citizens of Cumberland feel about the project.

The panel also plans to try to get a radio program set up to further its project and should the bill be introduced in Congress they hope to be on hand that day. Back school, a play has been written on the Electoral College by Eleanor Murphy, Barbara Ossip and Patricia Kerns, and will be staged in the auditorium.

Commissioners Take Action On Proposals

Action on two recommendations of the recent grand jury concerning improvements at the Court House was approved by the Board of County Commissioners yesterday.

The board instructed James G. Stevenson, board clerk, to obtain figures on the estimated cost for a new directory to replace the obsolete one on the first floor of the Court House. The grand jury had recommended its replacement.

The county commissioners also requested Stevenson to get estimates on the cost of installing adequate lights in the Court House vault.

William H. Lemmert, board president, said that the vault has the worst lighting conditions in the building. He said that he was puzzled by the statement in the latest grand jury report that "with the exception of one office, the lighting is inadequate and should be modernized." Lemmert said he thought most of the offices were well lighted.

The commissioners also got a letter from Boore and Ruppert, Midland painting contractors, that they have finished painting the interior of the County Welfare Building at 301 Cumberland Street and that it is ready for inspection. No date for the inspection was set.

When December bills were being approved yesterday, Commissioner C. N. Wilkinson raised an objection to the payment of $41.58 to J. Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor, for milage on his own automobile. Wilkinson said that the county provided the roads supervisor with an automobile and he should use it. The payment was approved despite the objection.

Cumberland still has only one constable. A motion by Wilkinson for the reappointment of Harold D. Brooks as constable at Trial Magistrates Court died for want of a second. Roy E. Van Fleet was reappointed December 3.

Piedmont Man Succumbs From Auto Injuries

Horace Washington Dies At His Residence

A 28-year-old Piedmont man died yesterday afternoon at his home of complications from head injuries received in an automobile accident last Thursday.

West Virginia authorities said Horace Richard Washington, 26 Pearl Street, died of a cerebral hemorrhage.

Vernon E. "Pat" Rankin, prosecuting attorney of Mineral County, said last night he planned no inquest into the man's death.

Washington was injured Thursday afternoon about 4:30 o'clock when the automobile in which he was riding alone swerved and struck a huge rock outcropping along Route 46 about 2½ miles west of Keyser. He was driving west toward Piedmont at the time.

Cpl. Frank H. Tribett of the West Virginia State Police detachment in Keyser investigated the mishap. Washington was admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital in Keyser suffering from head injuries, bruises and facial cuts. He was sent to his home over the weekend, authorities said.

The Piedmont man, who was in the armed forces from September of 1952 until September of 1954, served 18 months in France in the Army.

He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Cleatus Washington, also of 26 Pearl Street in Piedmont. A member of Walden Methodist Church, Piedmont, he attended Howard High School there.

Besides his parents he is survived by one sister, Miss Wilda Lee Washington, at home, and two brothers, Cleatus Washington Jr., also at home, and Clarence T. Washington, in the U.S. Air Force in Greenland.

The body is at the Boal Funeral Home and will be taken to the residence when funeral arrangements are completed.

AFL Will Brief Leaders On 1955 Legislative Plan

The complete legislative program of the Maryland and District of Columbia Federation of Labor will be presented to leaders of all AFL locals at a meeting in Annapolis Thursday.

Harry Cohen, Baltimore, state AFL president, has asked all AFL locals to send two delegates to the meeting which will get under way at noon in Carvel Hall.

He said the AFL's legislative program will be explained in detail to officials of local unions during the luncheon conference.

All union delegates, he added, will be requested to meet later in the afternoon with the senators and delegates from their counties.

One of the purposes of these conferences, Cohen said, is to enlist support of legislators for the AFL program which will include opposition to "right to work" legislation.

State AFL officials also announced that the Maryland-D.C. Federation of Labor has opened a legislative office in Carvel Hall, and that it will be in operation Monday through Friday during the 1955 General Assembly.

Officials of the Allegany Trades Council said yesterday that at least 10 AFL leaders from here expect to attend the Annapolis meeting.

The delegation is expected to include Charles Bramble and C. E. Stutzman, from Teamsters Local 453; F. Patrick Allender, business agent of Carpenters Local 1024; Paul Cottom and George W. Lucas, from Electricians Local 307, and Coy F. Dyer, from the Plumbers and Steamfitters Local 489.

KURT SINGER

Espionage Expert Says U.S. Needs Better Legislation

By JOHN W. KNOWLTON
News Staff Writer

Stressing the need for better anti-spy legislation in this country in its "cold war" with Russia and the satellite nations, noted author, lecturer, foreign correspondent and espionage expert Kurt Singer last night said "the greatest senator in the world is only an amateur spy hunter."

Singer was the speaker at a dinner meeting of the Cumberland branch of the National Dinner Club at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

The former newspaperman, who was introduced at the dinner meeting by Raymond O. McCullough, made his observations on the present trend of committee probes into communism prior to his speaking engagement last night.

Singer is author of approximately 25 books, including numerous ones on spies, espionage and traitors throughout the world, some fictionalized as well as factual stories, and a great many biographies.

In his comments on the present "cold war," Singer expressed some very definite opinions on what this country needs to win its diplomatic tussle with Russia.

"I believe it is far better for our congressmen and senators to spend more time on legislation helping our anti-spy laws in this country than to be continuously trying to hunt out the spies and saboteurs here," he stated.

In a plain reference to Sen. Joseph McCarthy of Wisconsin, Singer said, "I like justice under law, not a committee. I think J. Edgar Hoover and the FBI are doing a tremendous job for this country."

He further said, "The late Sen. Robert A. Taft left his name on many constructive bills for this nation, but you won't find McCarthy's name on any. He's too busy getting his name into print to write any legislation."

The author, who has lived in eight different countries and has been around the world in his travels, made one prediction:

"I believe that if any satellite country takes up arms against Russia it will be Eastern Germany. I can't tell you how I've arrived at that conclusion, but I firmly believe it will happen."

At the dinner meeting Singer's topic was "Traitors and Spies," and he delved into the far-reaching aspects of espionage.

Listing spies inthree categories, Singer said there is the diplomatic spy "who hides behind a cloak of diplomatic immunity" and is not arrested, the double spy who works for both sides but is expected to give his "own" country the most help. "But you never know just which is his country," Singer added.

Third is the "sitter" spy, who establishes residence in a country, lives there for many years as a valued citizen, but if war or a crisis breaks out, will commit one act of sabotage or espionage against the country in which he lives.

Singer, who spoke at graduation exercises at Fort Hill and Allegany high schools here several years ago, is married and is the father of two children.

Born in Vienna, Austria, August 10, 1911, the 43-year-old naturalized citizen of the United States did a great deal of espionage and intelligence work during World War

Temperature Dip Forecast For District

The mercury was expected to dip to about 18 degrees above zero in this section of the state during the early morning hours today.

The forecast for the cold weather came on the heels of a snowstorm which dumped two to five inches of snow on Southern Maryland and the lower Eastern Shore.

Although Cumberland and immediate vicinity did not catch any of the snow, some four inches fell in Oakland and the Garrett County area Monday night

However the sun shone brightly yesterday and melted about half of the snow. Last night the skies were clear and the air crisp with a temperature reading of 29 degrees at Oakland.

Here in Cumberland the mercury stood at 28 degrees at 7:30 p. m. Maryland State Police at LaVale Barracks reported that Route 40 east and west of here was clear.

About two and one-half inches of snow fell in Accident Monday, while Frostburg reportedly had half an inch of snowfall. State Roads Commission crews in Garrett County were sent into action early yesterday morning to plow and cinder the highways, and until late yesterday morning chains were recommended on all vehicles traveling in that county.

The forecast for today is sunny and cold with the exception of increasing cloudiness in the west portion. The weatherman promised it would not be so cold tonight.

The high temperature yesterday was 39 with an official low of 27 degrees. Humidity at 6 p. m. was 91 per cent and there was a trace of snowfall.

Woman Killed In Turnpike Mishap

Mrs. Blanche Vannostran, of Upland, Calif., died yesterday afternoon in Somerset (Pa.) Community Hospital of injuries sustained in an auto accident on the Pennsylvania Turnpike in Jefferson Township, Somerset County.

Her husband, Russell L. Vannostran, 60, is reported in serious condition at the hospital. Mrs. Vannostran suffered a crushed body and skull. The mishap, police said, occurred at 8:20 a. m. and Mrs. Vannostran died at 12:15 p. m. Police said that Vannostran was traveling east on a straight stretch of the Turnpike and he apparently went to sleep at the wheel.

The auto crossed the medial line, hit an enbankment on the north side of the highway and rolled over. Mrs. Vannostran was thrown from the vehicle and the car rolled over her body. Investigating officer was Pvt. Albert Gricoski.

Correction

The Cumberland News erroneously reported yesterday that the clerks and cashier at the Chicago Meat Market had been questioned in the State's Attorney's office after a woman customer complained that her wallet, containing $350, had been stolen in the North Centre Street market.

Detective Lt. James E. Van yesterday said that only the cashier had been questioned, in the hope that some details of the case might be recalled. He emphasized that the questioning of the cashier was merely a routine matter. The clerks, he said, were not interrogated.

Delegates Get Assignments As Group Convenes

Local Measures Under Discussion

The Allegany County Delegation to the General Assembly gave legislative assignments to its members as the body held its first formal meeting in Annapolis yesterday morning.

Delegate Charles M. See, chairman of the Delegation, said the meeting was devoted to a discussion of the legislation asked by Allegany County residents in a series of pre-Assembly meetings held here in December.

He said Delegate George R. Hughes Jr. was named secretary to the delegation, and was asked to keep formal minutes of all regular meetings.

Formal meetings will be held by the Allegany County Delegation each Wednesday at 10 a. m., the delegates announced, with additional conferences called whenever necessary.

Delegate Fred B. Driscoll was asked to confer this weekend with Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools, and report back next Wednesday on legislative requests affecting the Flintstone and Mt. Savage schools.

Repairs, Additions Sought

Del. See recalled that a Flintstone delegation asked that additional ground be secured for playground facilities, and that the Mt. Savage School PTA asked repairs to the building and athletic field facilities.

Delegate Lester B. Reed was asked to confer with Senator Robert B. Kimble on the request of District 16 residents for city water. The senator promised to contact the Mayor and Council on the subject.

Delegates Reed and Driscoll were asked to confer with Garrett County Delegate Harry C. Edwards on plans for reducing stream pollution requested by the Upper Potomac River Board.

Delegate Noel Speir Cook was asked to confer with Carl N. Everstine, director of the Department of Legislative Reference, on a change in state laws affecting automobile insurance requested by William R. Carscaden.

Delegate Hughes was asked to take similar action on an inheritance law change asked by Carscaden.

Road Improvements

All of the delegates expect to confer this week with Senator Kimble in connection with a Route 40 Association request for improvement of the highway between Hancock and Cumberland during the first phase of the SRC's 12-year program.

Del. Driscoll was also asked to contact Webster over the weekend on developments in the program asked by Friends Aware of Handicapped Children.

The delegation yesterday studied plans of the Western Maryland Wildlife Federation for legislation to make hunting a safer sport.

The delegates have asked Ernest A. Vaughn, director of the Department of Game and Inland Fish, to attend a delegation meeting set January 19 at 10 a. m. to give his recommendations.

Del. See said the delegation has asked Everstine to check on laws passed by other states in regards to the ban asked by the Woman's Civic Club on the sale of objectionable comic books.

He said no action will be possible on the club's second request, an addition to Frostburg State Teachers College, until Governor McKeldin presents his budget, and the report on the Capital Bond Improvement Bill is received.

He said all of the Allegany County legislators will go "down the line" to support "our own" college.

No action has yet been taken on city and county legislation.

Officials said they have not received the program of the Board of Allegany Commissioners, and that action on the City of Cumberland program is awaiting a ruling on the right of the Assembly to pass local legislation.

K Of P Sponsors Courtesy Week

The Knights of Pythias, which has been conducting a continent-wide Highway Courtesy Campaign, will sponsor Highway Courtesy Week, from February 14 to 20.

Julius E. Schindler, local attorney and grand secretary of the grand lodge of Maryland, was advised by Peter S. Ford of Martinsville, Va., supreme chancellor of the fraternal order, that all the 3000 lodges in the United States, Canada, Alaska and Hawaii are expected to participate.

The fraternal order, Schindler said, is arranging for a great amount of publicity by radio, television, newspaper and magazine, in an effort to get the safety message of Courtesy Week across to the public.

The lodge believes, Schindler observed, that "a courteous driver is a safe driver, and more courtesy on the highways and streets will help reduce the terrific toll from accidents."

Final Ballot Day

Tomorrow is the final day for ballots to be accepted at Central YMCA in the election of 10 new members to the board of directors. Results of the election will be announced at the annual meeting January 24.
